Tickets to Stan Kenton Go on Sale Tomorrow

Tickets for the December 6 Stan Kenton concert and dance will go on sale Friday in the Union. Kenton's performance marks the second appearance of a name band at Kansas State this year.

Admission for the concert is 75 cents a person. Tickets for the concert and dance are $3.50 a couple, and tickets for the concert are $2.50 a couple.

The concert is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. December 6 in the Auditorium. The dance, which follows the concert, will be in the Union ballroom beginning at 9 p.m. Kenton and his band are being sponsored by the Union Dance committee.

A native Kansan, Kenton was born in Wichita in 1912. He spent a short period of his life in Colorado and then moved with his family to California. After graduation from a Los Angeles high school, he began playing the piano in taverns in the area.

He later received an assistant directorship at Earl Carroll's restaurant-theatre. During this period, Kenton decided to form his own band. He hired musicians who felt as he did about music.

Kenton's newly formed band played for four months in the Rendezvous ballroom at Balboa, Calif., and it was there that the word began to spread about his "new kind" of music.

His "progressive jazz" was beginning to take hold, and the group was named Band of the Year in 1946. Kenton suffered a nervous breakdown in April of 1947. He returned to Balboa after recuperation, and after a year of success with his band, decided to take the band to the concert stage.

In 1950 Kenton inaugurated his "Innovations in Modern Music," which were musical arrangements for a 40-piece concert orchestra, utilizing a 16-piece string section plus woodwinds and French horns. The band-leader became successful in both the dance and concert media from here on.

Kenton, who has risen from obscurity in music to world-wide fame in a little over a decade, has won Down Beat magazine's popularity poll as leader of the nation's number one band for five consecutive years.

Campus Parties Announce Senior Class Officer Slate

They were elected at an Integrity party primary yesterday, according to Roberta Wray, SEd Jr, chairman of the Party Campaign committee.

Each candidate must turn in a petition signed by 25 K-State seniors to the Student Governing association office by Saturday noon, according to Dwight Bennett, Ar 03, SGA Election committee chairman. A senior can sign only one petition for each office, he said.

"Independent petitions will also be accepted," Bennett said. The list of eligible candidates will be announced next week.

Petition blanks can be obtained at the SGA office in the Union activities center.

December 5 and 6, the Thursday and Friday following Thanksgiving vacation, are the dates for the senior class officer election. The results will be announced the following Monday, December 9.

K-Staters Dying To Find Out Who Will Be FMOC

Students See Heckler 'Shot'

The 'rough and tough' twenties were re-enacted yesterday between Anderson and Eisenhower at 12:55 p.m. as two mysterious cars drove up in front of Anderson and 'shot' Steve Southerland, Sp Fr. Southerland was pacing up and down the sidewalk between Anderson and Eisenhower carrying a sign 'Down with Harvey'.

He had been there several minutes when the first car drove up and a man shot Southerland from the car. Moments after the first car drove off, a second car drove up, stopped, and put Southerland in the back seat much to the amazement of the onlooking students coming back to school for their one o'clock classes.

Although the campus police was not involved, eyewitnesses at the shooting received a 'no comment' from the body.

After inquiries from some of the students, it seems that the 'gangland slaying' was all part of a skit presented by Delta Upsilon for their candidate for FMOC.

LAST MOMENTS OF A RABBLE-ROUSER were recorded yesterday noon when an unidentified man (left) lost control of his emotions and began shouting "Down with Harvey." His outbursts were stilled when a large black limousine pulled up and shot him down. After viewing the oddity, the crowd separated to allow cloaked men to carry him away.

Activity Coordination Gets Boost; Activities Board Tries for Same

AT LAST THE ALL-COLLEGE events on our campus are getting some high-level action from responsible people. The special advisory committee to the student body president Tuesday night waded through about an hour and a half of impertinent discussion before deciding on a sub committee system to do the talking someplace else and bring only results in the form of proposals to the next session.

The discussion, impertinent as it was, none-the-less might have been valuable. IFC president Pat Roberts commented he was surprised at the fantastic number of facets to the activities setup.

Perhaps after the duties and responsibilities of all these groups have been clarified and a definite chain of command formulated, there should be a continuation of the meetings just to explain the workings of student government at K-State.

BUT NO MATTER WHAT comes of these two meetings or of future meetings, the effort will have been well worth expending.

For years, the activities program at K-State has been shrouded with a cloak of confusion and indecision. People were afraid to take the initiative and—in more cases the blame—for getting decent all-College events organized.

Non-Union sponsored activities have been nil for at least four semesters and this is the fault primarily of the present and past Student Governing associations. These leaders must be the ones to start action because the student interest at Kansas State is their primary function.

One of the interesting trends we noticed as the meeting progressed Tuesday night was the injection of the Student Activities board into almost every suggestion, every solution.

DESPITE OBVIOUS activity board interest in such a discussion of overall coordination of campus activities, many of the inferences would have given the Activities board an increasing (not just increased, but a progressive rise in jurisdiction) amount of power over what student organizations could and could not do.

Underclassmen especially should be wary of any increased power allotted to the Activities board. This group already has more practical power than the Student Council.

Perhaps this and past newspapers have been negligent in publicizing and investigating increases of power in some organizations. Present and past Collegians have certainly neglected publicizing and explaining the functions of Student government.

BUT PROGRESS IS BEING MADE and attention is being directed toward clearing up the confusion. This is the important thing and the Collegian applauds the efforts of Neil Scott to take time and organize such an evaluation program.—Roger Myers.

The Students Say

Kansas State Has Near Right Amount of Queen Contests According to 60 Per Cent of Those Interviewed in Poll

By Charlene Strah

K-State has the right number of queen contests, according to 15 of 25 students interviewed. They feel there are enough co-eds to receive the honors. Some add that the honors should be passed around to different women.

Ten students would like to see some of the contests eliminated. Most of them agree that the number of contests takes away some of the honor from the major queen titles.

Some answers to the question, "Are there too many queen contests at K-State?":

MARY MOAK, PEW Soph—No. If one organization has a queen I think to be fair the rest should have a queen.

DAVID ADAMS, AA Jr—Certainly, because there aren't that many qualified girls on campus.

JUDY SIMMONS, SEd Soph—No. I think we have the right number.

CALVIN ADAMS, Psy Sr—No. Since we have such a lack of the female sex at K-State, it possibly helps to increase the appearance or quality.

JOYCE RHODES, HT Jr—Yes. Every time you turn around there is a queen to elect. I think it could be more of an honor if there were fewer queens.

MARTHA KAY FRIEDEL, EEd Soph—No. I don't think there are too many queens on campus now. If we get any more, that would be too many.

LEO GARDNER, PEM Soph—Yes. We don't need a queen for everything.

JOANNE TAYLOR, EEd Soph—Yes, very definitely. It takes away from the most important ones to have so many.

JAN DAVIS, EEd Soph—No. I think we have about the right number, but a girl should not be put up for another queen after she has been a major queen or attendant the same year.

TOM HUBER, AH Gr—No. I think there are enough girls to go around.

SUE WILDGEN, TxC Sr—No. I don't think there are as long as it gets passed around.

GENE ISMERT, Geo Sr—No. I don't think there are too many queen contests. The majority of the contests are sponsored by meritable organizations which have the right to choose queens.

SHARON SKUPA, Soc Soph—Yes, I do, because I don't think it's an honor any more because there are so many.

RAY NORTH, PrL Sr—No. It gets burdensome for the sororities but it would be difficult to eliminate any of them.

JIM DICKEN, PrV Fr—No. It is good for the morale of the girls on the campus.

LAUREL JOHNSON, TJ Fr—No. I think perhaps if we have outstanding girls they ought to be recognized.

HARLAN MEADE, BA Sr—Yes, definitely. The honor is lost by too many queens.

CHARLENE LILLIG, Eng Jr—No. There aren't too many as long as it doesn't interfere with studies.

J. D. BARBER, ME Sr—No. I believe that for every event they need a queen and there are enough girls to go around.

Citizens Near Horror Farm Ask Police To Press Probe

Compiled From United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Wautoma, Wis. — Embittered area residents today demanded that authorities press their investigation of a killer of two women to determine if he is a mass killer or a grave robber.

Bachelor farmer Ed Gein, 51, who decorated his Plainfield, Wis., home with 10 skulls, confessed the slayings of two middle-aged women yesterday.

Residents feared Waushara county authorities would hustle Gein off to a mental institution before they could learn where he had accumulated the other skulls.

Gein, who has been held in lieu of $10,000 bond on a technical charge of larceny, was expected to be charged today with the murder of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, a Plainfield storekeeper whose butchered body was found in his woodshed Sunday.

Gein, who was questioned for more than 10 hours yesterday at state crime laboratory headquarters in Madison, Wis., also admitted the slaying of Mary Hogan, 54, a Pine Grove, Wis., tavern operator who vanished about three years ago.

Authorities said Gein broke down last night and confessed when he was confronted with the death mask of Mrs. Hogan, one of several women's death masks found in his "house of horrors."

Director Charles Wilson of the crime lab refused to reveal details of the slayings. However, police records showed both women had been killed while alone in their places of business and apparently hauled to Gein's farm where they were decapitated and dissected.

Gein's confession of the second slaying raised fears that he may have been the mass murderer. However, Gein claimed he killed only the two women and got the other skulls from robbing fresh graves on moonlit nights.

Wilson's statement did not mention the source of the other human heads and face masks. But local authorities appeared convinced that Gein was telling the truth about the grave robberies and made no plans to dig up any of the snow-covered graves for investigation.

Wilson said a lie test cleared Gein of guilt in three other cases of missing persons. Wilson said the tests showed Gein was not involved in the disappearance of a 15-year-old Lacrosse baby-sitter, the abduction of an 8-year-old Fort Atkinson girl or the disappearance of Victor Travis, 43, of nearby Friendship, Wis.

District attorney Earl Kileen said he was waiting for the ballistics report on the weapon believed used to kill Mrs. Worden before filing murder charges. Authorities said they would "not accept a confession from an insane man."

Kileen said Gein would be charged only with the murder of Mrs. Worden and would be permitted to plead innocent by reason of insanity.

"We want to clean this case up and get it over with," Kileen said.

Long Planned Buildings Are To Become Reality

Three long planned buildings are about to become a reality, according to R. F. Gingrich, physical plant director.

The buildings will house a single men's dormitory, Student Health service, and apartments for married students.

Plans for the single men's dormitory will go to the contractor March 1 for bids. The structure is to be completed in time for classes in the fall of 1960 and will be located where the present Elliot courts are being razed.

The plans call for housing of 400 students and food service for 1,200 people in a separate building.

The Student Health service plans will be sent to the state architect January 30 and then contractors will bid for construction of the building, according to Gingrich. The building will be located on the same location as the present temporary Student Health and will be completed about January 30, 1959.

"We plan to move part of the present building south against the shops to have facilities until the building is completed and then raze the rest of the old structure," Gingrich said. The old president's mansion will also be used for temporary facilities.

The 264 married student housing apartments will be located on both the east and west sides of the present Jardine terrace. Plans will be sent to contractors December 1 for bidding. The structures will be completed in time for class in the fall of 1959, Gingrich said.

Early Pre-Enrolling Starts December 3

Advisement and early assignment for second semester will begin December 3 through December 20, in Anderson hall, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

"All students, who are enrolled for the first semester, and have no failing grades at the nine weeks, are eligible for early assignment," Gerritz said.

Students may now obtain dean's cards at the dean's offices and help from advisers in preparing a list of courses.

Seniors will receive assignments December 3 to 5, Juniors will be assigned December 6 through 10. Pre-enrollment for sophomores and freshmen will be December 11 to 13 and December 16 to 18, respectively. Classification will be as of September 1.

December 19 and 20 is reserved for those who were eligible but failed to pre-enroll at the scheduled times.

The pre-enrollment procedures will be different this year because of the office changes in Anderson hall, Gerritz said.

Students will begin enrollment by obtaining their cards enrollment and closed class lists in the IBM room. They will enter Anderson by the stairway on the west side of the building leading to the basement. Information asked for on the enrollment cards will be filled out at tables in the hallway in Anderson or in vacant classrooms on the second floor.

Spartan's Offense Is Varied; Will Be Tough To Defense

K-State will be faced with the problem of stopping what scout Sol Kampf terms the "smorgas-board" offense when it meets Michigan State, the nation's top-ranked football team, Saturday. The Spartans, who are fifth in the country in yardage gained, run a multiple offense with an unbalanced line. They can employ 32 different formations if necessary.

"Because of this varied offensive attack, they will be hard for us to defense," said Kampf.

"You might call this a smorgas board type of offense. All their formations have been adopted from other teams of the past. They have a belly series from Georgia Tech, a single wing spinner series from Harvard, and a regular single wing and buck lateral series, both from Minnesota."

Whereas Michigan State has relied on a running attack in previous years, it is doing a lot of passing this season. The Spartans have passed for 994 yards so far this year.

The first team quarterback, Jim Ninowski, has completed 44 of 71 pass attempts for 705 yards and six touchdowns. He has had three intercepted.

Michigan State has gained 2,161 yards rushing, mainly through the efforts of halfbacks Walt Kowalczyk and Blanche Martin. Kowalczyk, a top all-American candidate, has carried 91 times for 510 yards while Martin has gained 463 yards in 85 carries.

"The line is awfully strong and they have seven or eight fast backs," said Kampf. "We hope it's real cold so that their offense will be hindered. I would say that this club is the best throwing team we have met all year."

K-State's football squad spent almost two hours practicing on defense against Michigan State plays in the last heavy workout of the season yesterday.

Second unit fullback Tony Tiro and starting quarterback Dick Corbin were the only Wildcats who worked without pads in the 35-degree weather. Tiro will "possibly" recover from a knee injury received against KU two weeks ago in time to see action against the Spartans in the season's finale. Corbin is nursing hurt ribs from the Missouri game but should be ready to play Saturday.

Cats Should Have 7-2 Mark Says Defensive Ace Zadnik

By ELDON MILLER

"We should have a 7-2 record right now with losses only to Colorado and Oklahoma," says end Don Zadnik in summing up the 1957 K-State football season. "We have been a hard luck team all season, beating most of our opponents in everything but the score. What about the outcome of Saturday's game? Well, that's a good question."

Zadnik, a 5-11 190-pound senior, has been a top notch end for the Wildcats for three years. As a sophomore in 1955 Don was the leading Cat pass receiver, gaining 110 yards. He was the second best pass receiver on the team last year with 179 yards on 10 catches behind halfback Gene Keady who had 247 yards.

Zadnik was named honorable mention all-Big Seven in 1956 for his fine end play.

This year, however, Don has caught only five passes for 73 yards. Although his pass receiving has tapered off, he has offset this by his outstanding extra point kicking and fine defensive play.

He is the second ranking Cat scorer with 14 points on 11 extra points and one field goal. He has missed only two conversion attempts this year.

His toe provided the important placement in the C.O.P. game which ended in a 7-7 tie and a field goal against BYU broke the game wide open.

Coach Bus Mertes is high on Zadnik's defending ability. "Defensively Don is very good on the strong side," said Mertes. "He has a good sense of balance which enables him to slide off blockers. He also has good speed. It takes a real good man to play defensive end against the single wing."

Colorado coach Dal Ward, an exponent of the single wing offense, thinks Don is one of the best defensive ends he has seen for sometime.

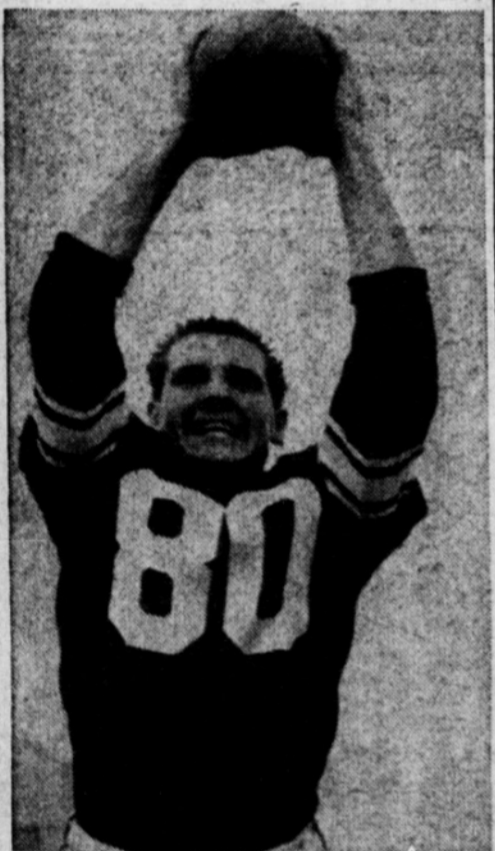

Curiosity and confidence in a coach are the two things which brought football player Zadnik to K-State.

Don went into the Navy right after graduating from East Tech high school in Cleveland, Ohio in 1952. While in the service he played two years of football at Bainbridge Naval Training center in Maryland under the coaching of Jim Larue.

Larue became backfield coach under Bill Meek at K-State and when Don was discharged Larue talked him into coming to school here.

"He told me how nice it was out here and since I had never been West before I decided to come and see what it was like," said Don. "But that wasn't the only reason. Larue knew what I could do and what I couldn't do so I thought it would be a good idea to go where he did."

Eps Top Theta Xi in IM's

Sigma Phi Epsilon pulled away in the second half to down Theta Xi, 23-18, last evening in intramural basketball play in Ahearn gym. The Sig Eps held a 13-10 lead at halftime and maintained the lead by scoring 10 points in the second half while holding Theta Xi to eight. George Ladish was the top scorer for the victors with nine points.

Sigma Chi cagers defeated Alpha Gamma Rho, 30-20, with Tom Welsh and Byron Shields scoring eight and six points respectively for Sigma Chi.

Bob Turley, meanwhile, was the leading scorer for Wednesday evening's contest with 17 points to lead Sigma Nu to a 37-18 win over Delta Sigma Phi. Don Jaax also hit double figures with 12 points for the victors.

Bud Ewy, Jerry Moore and Charles Downing scored seven points apiece to give Kappa Sigma a 36-18 victory over Farm House. Dean Armbrust notched nine counters for Farm House.

Acacia defeated Alpha Tau Omega 26-13, with Larry Harding scoring nine points for the victors. John Cersovsky scored six points for ATO.

Ron Whitchurch and Bob Oblander scored 20 points between them and lead Lambda Chi Alpha to a 35-13 win over Phi Kappa. Conrad Nelke scored eight points for Phi Kappa.

Ben Grosse poured in 11 counters as YMCA downed Acropolis 37-20, in an independent league contest.

The Outlaws upended Wesley Foundation 32-12, with Bud Schooe and Bill Patterson leading the Outlaw scoring attack with 11 and 8 points respectively.

Rho Alpha defeated the Raiders, 29-23. Richard Franz was high scorer with 10 points.

MU Practices On Defense For KU Game

By UNITED PRESS

A "new look" backfield is likely for Missouri in its clash with Kansas at Lawrence Saturday because of injuries and the promotion of halfback Charlie James.

Coach Frank Broyles indicated that James, a starter last season, will get the call at right halfback in the starting lineup, replacing veteran George Cramer.

Fullback Hank Kuhlman will be on the first unit as usual but quarterback Phil Snowden and left halfback Bobby Haas probably won't start because of injuries.

Quarterback Stub Clemensen and halfback Jerry Cutright, both playing their last Missouri game, will replace them.

Martin Wants Money After A's Trade Him

By UNITED PRESS

Billy Martin, chagrined at the trade that switched him from the Kansas City Athletics to the Detroit Tigers, said today the deal should include some money for Martin.

Describing the trade as one that "got everybody happy but me," the infielder admitted it was "great to be a contender again" but insisted that the Athletics should "fork over some dough to me."

"I think we can win the pennant at Detroit and I mean that," said Martin, "but I don't like to get traded around. I want some money out of this deal, too."

"This may be pretty strong talk for a .251 hitter, but they say six clubs were after me and if that's so, I must be pretty valuable."

The fiery Martin, once Casey Stengel's "boy" of the New York Yankees, declared "everybody in the majors is worth at least the $10,000 waiver price and if I was the key man in the trade that's made everybody happy, I think I ought to get something, too."

Women To Play IM Volleyball Finals Tonight

Alpha Xi Delta and Gamma Phi Beta grabbed victories last night in the women's intramural volleyball tournament in Nichols gymnasium in the last games before the finals.

The Alpha Xi's swept past Kappa Kappa Gamma, 15-3 and 15-6, while the Gamma Phi's had a harder time winning from Kappa Delta, 11-8 and 15-12.

The tournament finals will start at 5:30 p.m. today in the gym.

Van Zile hall leads group I with three wins and no defeats. In group II Gamma Phi's, Waltheim hall, and Kappa Delta are tied with two victories and a single loss.

Two K-Staters Thrive on Snake Steak in Africa

By CHARLENE STRAH

Snake steaks, monkey burgers, and baboon roast were enjoyed by Gerald Faust, IT Jr, and Dennis Blossom, BAA Jr, last summer.

These were some of the foods eaten by the two cousins while they spent two months in the Bam-bur area of Africa with Faust's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Faust, who have been with the Sudan United Mission in Africa for 27 years.

"The people impressed me most. They were very courteous and friendly to strangers," Blossom said of his first visit to the continent.

The Africans are beginning to wear more clothes than they used to, Faust recalls from his visit last summer. The dress differs from tribe to tribe with many still wearing leaves, beads, or draped cloth. They are also becoming more conscious of the need for independence from Great Britain but some don't think they are ready to have it, he said.

This was Faust's fourth time in Africa. He was born there but came to Holton as a small child to live with his grandmother. He attended the seventh and eighth grades at a boarding school in Jos, Nigeria, which is 300 miles from the primitive village where his parents live. He also visited there in 1954.

"Many of the natives came three or four miles to see us," Blossom exclaimed. "They remembered Gerald and came to see him the first week bringing gifts of peanuts, yams, fruits, and chickens."

"We tried the native foods—corn meal, wild greens, and leaves—but usually the cooks fixed American food for us," Faust said. "They only eat twice a day with very little variety. The main meal is in the evening and a little porridge is eaten in the morning. The mission has planted fruit trees to provide healthy foods," he added.

Faust and Blossom flew to Jos from the United States but made the 300 miles on to the isolated Bam-bur through grass and brush by jeep.

Because it was the rainy season, they returned by canoe, going about 18 miles up the Benue river in 10 hours before they could reach an all-season-road.

"We rode a camel a couple of times," Faust laughed, although the usual travel is by jeep or horse.

"Bambur is a 12 mile area with a population of about 15,000, the K-Staters said. "The people live more in clans of relatives than in blocks," Faust said.

Of this number about 10 are Americans who staff a primary school, church, and hospital. They have been working for 30 years trying to convert the natives but only a small percent are Christians. Many are still pagans and some are Muslims.

The Americans only get food from the outside every six months. They raise their own vegetables and buy meat at the native market. Traders do come every week to the market bringing Sloans linament (which the natives use for everything), traps, perfume, and some modern equipment, they explained.

A trade language, Hausa, is spoken by people of the area along with their own tribe languages. "I could speak it enough to get around," (he learned while attending school in Jos) Faust said while Blossom "picked up some phrases" in order to ask necessary questions.

While there Dennis and Gerald worked around the mission on the general upkeep and also took several hunting trips. They admitted that among their catch were six antelope, 45 geese, and a baboon. (They didn't get the boar that almost ran over them.)

"What did we do with them? Why we ate them, of course," Blossom commented.

Petitions may be obtained in the office until the Saturday deadline. Officers will be elected Thursday and Friday, December 5 and 6.

Van Horn Gets Borden Award For 1957-1958

Harold H. (Jack) Van Horn, DH Sr, has been selected to receive the 1957-1958 Borden agricultural scholarship, F. W. Atkeson, head of K-State's dairy husbandry department, announced recently.

The $300 award goes annually to the School of Agriculture senior who has the highest average grade in all college work, and who has completed at least two dairy courses.

Van Horn has a 2.74 grade point average for his first three years at K-State. He had the highest grades of any freshman in his class for the School of Agriculture, received Phi Kappa Phi freshman recognition, sophomore honors, and now holds the Ralston Purina senior award in agriculture.

Distribution of the books is an annual project of the YMCA.

Union Dive Dance

The Union dive will take on a Greenwich Village air Friday night for the first scheduled all-College dive dance of the year. The party, sponsored by the Union Dance committee, begins at 9 p.m.

Tommy Lee and his eight-piece combo from Manhattan will provide dance music. Attire for the party is cocktail dresses for women, and suits for men. Admission is $1 a couple.

Engineering Council

The Engineering Council will hold its annual freshman assembly at 4:00 today in the College auditorium. LeRoy Stayton, ME Sr, will speak on Open House; Jim Lewelling, EE Jr, will give a short talk on the Kansas State Engineer; and Dean Nehrig, ChE Sr, is to describe the functions of honoraries. A freshman representative to the Council will be elected. The assembly is to include all Freshman engineering students.

Chairman Long Says

Y-Mart Sale Is 'Big Success'

The Y-Mart was a big success with a large crowd attending, according to Rogena Long, BMT Jr, chairman.

Imported merchandise from all over the world was sold at the International Y-Mart sponsored by the YWCA in Calvin lounge from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. yesterday.

"There was a big rush all morning of people wanting first choice on the items," said Miss Helen Bocker, YWCA sponsor. "Customers were still coming a few minutes before 8 o'clock," she added.

"There was a good variety all day," said Linda Paulson, TxC Jr, merchandise chairman. "One order containing china, pottery, and brassware from the Scandinavian countries didn't arrive until 3 p.m."

Jewelry from many countries was popular along with the smaller knickknacks. "Food, donated by approximately 150 Manhattan women, was also a main seller and it was greatly appreciated," Miss Bocker said.

The sale is the biggest student project of the year and is YWCA's way of raising money to help with its program.

Booths displayed gifts for all ages. There were German animal miniatures carved from semi-precious stones, music boxes from Switzerland, brass bells and platters from India, West African wood carvings, Japanese prints and jewelry, and leather purses from Morocco.

Colorful Polish dolls, toys for children, Swiss belts and hats, and a Swedish onion board were typical items purchased at the Y-Mart.

SU Program Council Discuss Self-Appraisal

Union Program council members, Loren Kottner, Union director, Ollie White, program director, and Roger Tointon, Union Governing board, who attended a Region VIII conference at the State University of Iowa, gave a report to Program council members in a meeting last night in the Union.

The council discussed methods of evaluating the Union's activity program. White said that Union committee chairmen were responsible to students and to their committee members and sub-chairmen for a good activities program.

Sue Goss, TJ Jr, announced that the Union Publicity committee is sponsoring a workshop Monday at 5 p.m. in SU 206. All Union committee publicity chairmen and sub-chairmen are asked to attend the workshop.

Sally Ingle, SEd Jr, chairman of the Union Art committee, reported that a water color exhibit will be displayed in the Union art lounge beginning December 3.

Loose Turkeys Missing from Campus

There is a noticeable lack of turkeys running around loose on the campus this year. In fact, as this writer recalls, there has always been a lack of turkeys running around loose on this campus. But no matter.

The main reason for the lack of "running-around loose" turkeys right now is the advent of Thanksgiving, when all turkeys that have any sense at all remain in hiding. And understandably. Any gawky gobbler that shows so much as the tiniest point of beak these days is bound to lose his head over something—maybe a chopping block.

Visions of a big stuffed turkey, delicious cranberry salad, and pumpkin pie with whipped cream have been making students' tummies emit gastronomic grumbles for several weeks.

And giving thanks to the quality, or more properly, luck of the KU football squad, the flavorful fowl will have one extra day in which to dodge busy bird hunters this year.

Kenton To Choose Yearbook Royalty

Queen of the 1958 Royal Purple, K-State yearbook, will be crowned at the Stan Kenton dance in the Union ballroom December 6, according to Marcia Boyd, TJ Jr, Royal Purple editor.

Kenton will select the beauty queen and three attendants on the basis of photographs sent to him. "Kenton said he would be delighted to select the queen and participate in the crowning ceremony at the dance," according to Miss Boyd after a recent telephone conversation with him.

Candidates are Pat Vopat, ChW Soph, Alph Xi Delta; Carol Lala, HEA Soph, Alpha Delta Pi; Marcia Eggers, BMT Jr, Alpha Chi Omega; Harriet Harwick, EEd Soph, Delta Delta Delta; Jan White, HT Jr, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Mary Rose, EEd Jr, Kappa Delta; Patti Penrod, EEd Jr, Gamma Phi Beta; Emily Mohri, EEd Soph, Phi Beta Phi; Kaydene Dashen, EEd Soph, Chi Omega; Ann Chapman, Soc Soph, Waltheim hall; Dorothy Fox, ChW Sr, Clovia; Brenda Morgan, HE Fr, and Deena Martin, BA Fr, Southeast hall; Jackie Hubbard, Art Soph, and Barbara Train, ChW Soph, Van Zile hall; Joyce Rapp, BA Fr, and Mary Kay Taylor, Psy Fr, Northwest hall.

These 17 co-eds, nominated by their respective sororities and dormitories, will be presented at the intermission of the dance. The queen and her attendants will be announced at this time, Miss Boyd said. See page 7 for the complete candidate picture.

Carnival Decision Delayed By Arts, Sciences Council

No definite decision was reached by the Arts and Sciences council concerning the tentative plans for a carnival following Arts and Sciences Day, according to Bill Schick Tanz, GA Sr, president of the Council.

Representatives from all organized houses were invited to attend last night's meeting. The Council outlined suggestions for an all-College carnival following Arts and Sciences Day to the group and asked for their discussion on the plan.

No decision was reached by the representatives, Schick Tanz said. Most of the representatives had not discussed the plan in their houses and didn't feel qualified to discuss the plans. Not all of the houses on campus were represented at the meeting.

In a conference following the meeting with the representatives, the Council members decided to reconsider the proposal after Thanksgiving. They will discuss other ideas for Arts and Sciences.

The Arts and Sciences Council constitution has been reworded to remove some of the generalities and is ready for approval by council members at the next meeting.

KS-MSU Listening Party Set for 12:30 in Union

A listening party for the K-State-Michigan State university football game will begin at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow in the main lounge of the Union.

It starts an hour earlier because the game is being played in the eastern time zone, according to Lyle Clum, EE Soph, sub-chairman of the Union hospitality committee.

Free coffee will be served, and scores of games throughout the country will be posted during the afternoon, he said.

Columbus, Ohio—Cabbie John N. Bachman handed his weekly pay check to deputy court clerk Gene Boseker to pay for a $25 speeding ticket and demanded the correct change.

Boseker refused to honor the check and Bachman dejectedly paid the fine in cash. Then he took the check back to the cab company where he was paid $28.65 after a deduction was made. The deduction was $9 million. The check had mistakenly been made out for $9,000,028.65.

Kansas State Manages To Accomplish Lots During First Eleven Weeks of Fall Semester

IT'S ALMOST TIME for the annual Thanksgiving break so let's look back over about the last 11 weeks and see what's been accomplished at Kansas State.

Biggest accomplishment, we think, was the overwhelming turnout of students for the name change referendum. It was the highest number of students ever to vote in an all-College election and it may have marked the beginning of the end of a long period of apathy on our campus.

Perhaps now the students will see the value of interest in the affairs of the school and begin to show some initiative when problems need correcting.

The re-allotment of half a section in the parking lot to the students shows the administration is more than willing to cooperate. K-State isn't run by a bunch of old fogies who can see only the faculty view on student matters.

A REALLY CONCRETE accomplishment is the footbridge, now almost completed, which will cut the walking time and distance from the West Stadium parking lot. More students will be able to get closer to the campus during the winter.

People in student government have realized something was terribly afoul in the 1957 Homecoming procedure and are taking steps to see that the situation won't be mis-handled again.

The aggies got rid of their horse tank and countless ag majors were saved from student health and the Asian flu. There are some people, notably those who ride the quasi-rodeo circuit, who don't agree with these views. But we're sure the Ag Week authorities will find some way of enforcing the boots-and-neckchief rule.

K-STATERS THROW paper airplanes and pop balloons during an hour and a half before-lunch performance of French pantomime. Again more advancement, only in a different direction. Maybe Indo China isn't the only thing the French don't have any more.

Oh well, we've turned from a list of accomplishments to a reflection of the present campus scene and this wasn't the original intention. However, there's no doubt about it, K-Staters are moving ahead in every facet of college. —Roger Myers.

Ten Texas U Frats Bamboozled By Crooked Beer Mug Vendor

By Sharon Totten

MEMBERS OF 10 Texas university fraternities are hoping to recover $500 which they lost to a fraudulent beer mug salesman.

It seems that last spring a man posing as a beer mug salesman contacted Texas university fraternities. Ten of the fraternities contracted for the ornate-handled mugs on which the name of the fraternity member was to be embossed under the organization's crest, but none of them received the mugs.

The salesman has been apprehended by the federal authorities and is serving a prison term. University groups will soon know whether they will get the mugs or the money.

Students at Columbia university are playing an old game—with a new twist. Several "rabble-rousers" in a fraternity house on that campus decided to play a game of Russian Roulette with a blank gun. To this they added a card game. The whole thing evolved into a mass campus movement. Students started using cap gun revolvers, and it seems that seven Eastern campuses are going hog wild over the fad.

President of the newly-formed Russian Roulette club claims that "this thing is strictly for the fate-defiers who like the thrill of a sudden hysterical ending." Sounds like a real death defier—cap guns and all.

COLLEGE STUDENTS all over the country have taken quite an interest in Sputnik and Muttnik. As a matter of fact, satellites seem to have become an important part of campus life.

Indiana university had its own space dog one morning last week, or so it seemed to several students who did a double-take at an object in a tree in front of the Student Union.

The cause for astonishment was the body of a small dog, hanging suspended from a parachute fastened to one of the tree limbs. It was evidently intended as an imitation of the Russian satellite dog whose body still circles the earth in Sputnik II.

How did it get there? That's anybody's guess.

Launching of "Georgenik," an Oregon State fraternity's answer to Sputnik's wonder dog, Curly, had some complications last weekend. The rocket in which the dog was to travel the outer regions had a power failure just before launching time. The fraternity's purpose in attempting to launch George was to provide a male companion for the Russian female space dog.

At another university, a space man welcomed couples attending an all-school dance called the Sputnik Cotillion last weekend.

Readers' Forum

An open letter to Bob Jones:

As one who speaks with a degree of knowledge, not out of complete ignorance, I would like to clear up a misunderstanding in your letter to Mr. Hulings which appeared in the Collegian November 19.

Your statement, "reel cowboys has serious work to do, and not chase a little cow crittahn 'round a circulah pen," is not at all correct as top rodeo hands and top ranch hands alike will tell you.

"Rodeo" is a Spanish word meaning round up. It was in days past, and still is, the ranch hands way of entertainment with the resources he has at hand. No hard and fast line can be drawn between the working hand and the rodeo hand as you have so implied.

The hand that can do both in a satisfactory manner is one heck of a proud man. With such being true in any profession or industry, it is naturally resented when anyone infringes upon their right to be proud. The dress of the cowboy is adapted to meet his needs as he rides the range or a bucking horse.

In the best interests of the college, why not channel the thoughts of all western-clad students toward the possibility of originating an inter-collegiate rodeo at Kansas State? This provides more of a goal than arguing over some meaningless point. This is one way we can prove that we are all top hands.

Chaparajos of Kansas State is a member of the National Inter-collegiate Rodeo association. Due to misunderstandings and lack of support, the administration has not yet approved an NIRA rodeo here, with all member teams competing. It most certainly seems to me that Kansas is big enough cow country to support such an event at its state university.

Missile Base To Be in Wyoming

By PAT ROBERTS

Washington—Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles apparently will be pointed squarely at Russia from a huge new missile base to be built in Wyoming.

The Defense department announced late yesterday the 65 million dollar base will be built at Francis E. Warren Air Force base near Cheyenne.

The Pentagon said construction would begin "during the middle part" of next year. The base presumably would be ready about the time the United States has the 5,500-mile range Atlas fully perfecting and rolling off production lines.

The missile is undergoing tests at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., testing center now. There have been two known firings of the Atlas so far. In both cases, the gigantic missile had to be destroyed at low altitude because of failure of a relatively minor part. Another test was expected shortly.

Benson May Be Out

Washington—The word around town is that his enemies at last have bracketed Ezra Taft Benson with their gun fire.

If this be true, there will be a new Secretary of Agriculture shortly. True or false, Benson probably will not survive in the cabinet if the farm belt rejects the Republican party again in next year's congressional elections.

Only President Eisenhower's affection for and loyalty to his agriculture secretary have kept Benson in office so long.

Winning Margins Big In IM Basketball Play

OK House led a high scoring evening by defeating the River Rats, 49-19, in last night's intramural basketball play. Leading the OK House in the rout was Harold Mehkus with 15 points. Don Unruh was high for the River Rats with 12 points.

Behind William Upchurch's 10 points, Jr. AVMA defeated the Spartans, 33-22. Bill Parr collected nine for the losers.

The Disciples Student Fellowship edged by the Hillbillies, 15-14, with Dick Skelton high for the winners with six points. Jerry O'Conner notched eight counters for the Hillbillies.

Garry Diffley and Tom Watkins led the Speedsters to a 24-16 victory over the Kasbah. Diffley and Watkins each collected eight points while Ramon Powers had six points for Kasbah.

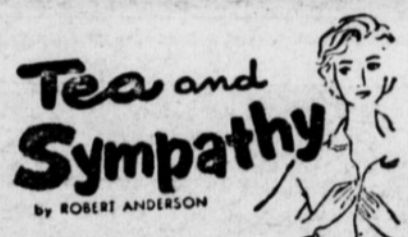

West Stadium defeated the Vets, 31-16. Duane Shaw canned eight points for the winners and Glen Tolman made 10 for the Vets.

Charles Cottrill led South Jardine to a 25-21 win over the Brewster Boys. Cottrill was high for the game with nine points.

Ellis Dahl, with 14 points, led the Roadrunners past the 1226 Club, 28-16. Tom Moss was high for the 1226 Club with six points.

Tonight's schedule: 6:45—Westminster Foundation vs American Institute of Architects, west court; House of Brec vs Newman Club, center court; Delta Upsilon vs Alpha Kappa Lambda, east court. 7:35—Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs Tau Kappa Epsilon, west court; Phi Delta Theta vs Phi Kappa Tau, center court; Delta Tau Delta vs Pi Kappa Alpha, east court. 8:25—Alpha Tau Omega vs Kappa Sigma, west court; Farm House vs Phi Kappa, center court; Acacia vs Lambda Chi Alpha, east court.

Gamma Phi Eyes IM Crown

Gamma Phi Beta scored its second victory in a row over Kappa Delta to win the play-offs in the Group II girls volleyball intramural championship, 13-5 and 11-3, yesterday.

This win put the Gamma Phi's into the championship finals with the Group I champion, Van Zile hall. The championship game will be at 5 p.m. Monday in Nichols gymnasium.

Van Zile had a 3-0 record in their division while the Gamma Phi's finished with a 4-1 mark.

Going into the final Group II game Wednesday, the Kappa Delta's were in first place with two wins against one loss and Gamma Phi Beta record was 1-1.

But the Gamma Phi's won in two games, 11-8 and 15-12, to end the regular schedule tied with Kappa Delta.

This forced a playoff in Group II to decide who would gain a berth in the finals with Van Zile. Teams competing in the Group I bracket were Van Zile, Alpha Xi, and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Football Titles To Be Decided By 'Old Rivals'

By UNITED PRESS

Four major conference football championships will be decided tomorrow, but they may be overlooked by fans watching some of those no-holds-barred "old rivalry" games that pack a whole season's drama into one game.

At stake are crowns in the Pacific Coast, Atlantic Coast, Missouri Valley, and Ivy League conferences.

But even in some of these, it's the game itself and not the title that will produce most of the excitement. Oregon vs Oregon State, for instance, will settle the PCC champion and Duke will be shooting for the ACC crown in its game against North Carolina. But winning over an old foe means more than winning a league crown, especially since Oregon and Duke already have landed bowl berths.

One of the headliners, of course, is the "granddaddy" of all tradition games, Yale vs Harvard, which once again has nothing but glory and the "Big Three" title at stake.

Another highlight is the always rugged battle between Iowa and Notre Dame. Although Ohio State dethroned Iowa as Big Ten champion last week, the Hawkeyes are seven-point favorites over Notre Dame for the men who make the odds feel the Irish must suffer a letdown after their startling 7-0 upset victory over Oklahoma.

Every watch does become dirt clogged and oil gummed—have it cleaned, oiled annually here and it will be a dependable time-keeper.

Cats Go for Rushing Mark Against Nation's No. 1 Team

Wildcat gridmen travel to Michigan State at East Lansing for the last game of the 1957 season tomorrow with a 3-5-1 record. The Spartans have a 7-1 mark and are rated No. 1 in the nation this week.

K-State will be shooting for a new season's offense record in this game. The Cats already have 2,158 yards rushing and need 116 more to match the all-time K-State mark of 2,274 yards gained by the 1953 squad.

Against Missouri last week the Cats doubled the Tigers' first downs, 26-13, for the second highest total in K-State history. The record is 34 against TCU in 1922.

Ralph Pfeifer, 196-pound senior halfback, holds claim to 442 yards of the current total, netting 106 on 23 carries against Missouri. He hasn't been short of 50 yards in any of the last six games, getting 83 against Iowa State for his previous high and 53 against Oklahoma for his season low at left halfback.

Gene Keady, another senior and until two weeks ago the Cats' leading ground gainer, is still listed doubtful for this one. The strength for the game and have been scrimmaging hard with emphasis on pass defense and field goal kicking this week.

This will be the last time 13 seniors will wear the purple and white. They are—halfback Dick Allen, tackle Wally Carlson, quarterback Dick Corbin, fullback Ray Glaze, halfback Gene Keady, tackle Bob Krizan, end George Laddish, end Dan O'Brien, center Ellis Rainsberger, guard Bill Pulford, halfback Keith Wilson, end Don Zadnik, and tackle Jack Keelan.

The game will be broadcast by the K-State sports network starting at 12:30 p.m. CST.

Y-Orpheum Workshop Will Discuss Theme, Rules

All house directors are invited to attend the Y-Orpheum workshop tomorrow in the Union little theater at 2 p.m., according to James Angle, TJ Soph, publicity chairman of Y-Orpheum committee.

The general theme of the Y-Orpheum show and the new rule changes will be announced at the work-shop.

"Y-Orpheum has started work earlier than they have before,"

Angle said, "due to the changes that were made, which we feel, will make Y-Orpheum a better show."

Union Dive Dance

"Greenwich Village" is the theme of the Union dive dance tonight. The dance, sponsored by the Union Dance committee, begins at 9 p.m. Tommy Lee and his eight-piece combo from Manhattan will provide dance music.

Dress for the party is cocktail dresses for women and suits for men. Mac and Jerry Hart, Union dance class instructors, will enertain with a dance exhibition during the intermission.

Union Movie

The movie "You Can't Take It With You," will be shown in the Union little theater tonight, tomorrow, and Sunday evenings at 7:30. Admission is 25 cents a person. The movie stars James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Jean Arthur, and Edward Arnold.

Art Trip

Ten persons left last night for Chicago to see the seventy-fifth annual exhibition at the Chicago Art Institute. Today and tomorrow they will see 300 drawings, paintings, and sculpture work of Pablo Picasso, one of the outstanding artists of the time, according to Gerald Deibler, drawing and painting instructor who is faculty sponsor for the trip.

Smooch Line Thing of Past

Smooch lines are forever banned from the K-State campus, according to associate Dean of Students Margaret Lahey. All women's organized living groups have been notified of the new ruling.

Dr. B. W. Lafene, Student Health director, said smooch lines quickly spread trench mouth, and various respiratory diseases. He recommended that the tradition be forever banned.

"Smooch lines will have to remain a happy memory of the past," said Miss Lahey. "The health of the students was taken into consideration and it seems best that such a decision be made."

All restrictions imposed during the recent Asian flu epidemic were lifted last week with the exception of the smooch line. Activities are in full swing and senior women are allowed to take senior specials.

Parr Is Coeds' Choice, Crowned Favorite Man

"If they had given me a basketball, I wouldn't have been so nervous," remarked Jack Parr, BMT Jr, after being crowned 1957 Favorite-Man-On-Campus at the Snowball Saturday night.

Parr, a 6-9 varsity basketball star from Richmond, Va., represented Beta Theta Pi.

The four runners-up were Dave Nielson, CE Soph, Phi Delta

This Is Last Collegian 'Til Wednesday, Dec. 4

Today is the last issue of the Collegian until December 4, after Thanksgiving vacation which is November 27 through December 2.

Theta; Dwight Bennett, Ar 03, Delta Tau Delta; Chuck Larson, AE Sr, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; and Dick Streets, NE Jr, Lambda Chi Alpha.

The 23 candidates for FMOC were introduced by Dottie Newton, DIM Jr, chairman of the Snowball Steering committee, at the intermission of the dance.

Approximately 350 couples entered the Union ballroom through an "igloo." Glittering letters spelled out "Snowball '57" on the west wall of the ballroom. Icicles adorned the stage at the east end.

Arnita Otte, HDA Soph; Carol

Korinek, MGS Soph; and Liz Hamilton, HT Soph; sang "I'm Dreaming of an FMOC," to the tune of "White Christmas." They were attired in blue flannel nightgowns and carried candles and stuffed animals.

Lady Luck Forgot Wildcats To the Tune of a 3-6-1 Mark

K-State gridders, following a 3-6-1 season, are of the opinion that if a few more breaks had gone their way, they would have a record of eight wins and two losses.

In the opener against Wyoming the Cats were deep in Cowboy territory at the end of both halves but ran out of time and lost, 12-7.

K-State showed its potential against Brigham Young in a 36-7 victory but were edged the next week by Nebraska, 14-7.

The Wildcats outgained College of Pacific but had to settle for a 7-7 tie. Next week they were beaten soundly by Colorado, 42-14. Next, they went past Iowa State, 14-10.

The Oklahoma Sooners were held to a 13-0 win in the only game that K-State failed to score in this year.

The Cats were beaten by KU in the last 18 seconds but came back to overpower Missouri, 23-21.

And Saturday they led Michigan State for three quarters before going down to a 27-9 defeat.

Tackle Wally Carlson said: "No team in the nation had as many bad breaks as we did.

Guard Gene Meier said: "With breaks we could have beaten everyone but Oklahoma and Colorado."

Coach Bus Mertes said: "The last five games, Iowa State, KU, OU, Missouri, and Michigan State, were real great."

'Pardon the Expression' Theme of '57 Y-Orpheum

"Pardon the Expression," is the general theme of this year's Y-Orpheum show, according to Bob Hofmann, EE Soph, member of the executive committee which selected the theme.

The theme and rule changes were announced at the Y-Orpheum workshop Saturday. Approximately 20 house directors attended the workshop.

The Y-Orpheum executive committee members are Hofmann, producer; Charlotte Riley, Psy Jr, assistant producer; Louann Oberhelman, Sp Sr, director; Richard Brantingham, BA Soph, business manager; and Karen Peterson, MGS Sr, executive secretary.

This year entries for the show are to be divided into three divisions—men's, women's, and combined. A combined entry will consist of one fraternity and one sorority.

"The committee is encouraging combined entries this year. They think it will be a great addition to the quality of the show," Hofmann said.

This year there will be eight shows instead of seven. Duplicate trophies will be awarded to the combined entry winners.

Each sorority or fraternity—or in the case of combined entries, the sorority and fraternity—will receive a $30 reimbursement if they spend that amount or more. An itemized statement and receipts for purchases pertaining to the production must be furnished before reimbursement will be made.

Council Will Discuss Campus Ice Skating

Student Council will discuss creating an area for ice skating on the campus in its meeting this evening.

Areas under consideration include the west end of the ROTC drill field, the football practice field and archery range south of Memorial stadium, and a plot of ground east of the All-Faith Memorial chapel.

Other items which will be under Student Council consideration this evening are making the Games and Rallies committee a permanent part of the Student Governing association committee structure, and establishing a Faculty Evaluation committee.

The Games and Rallies committee, as proposed for discussion this evening, would co-ordinate pre-game, halftime, and post-game activities, plus rallies, in connection with K-State athletic events.

The proposed Faculty Evaluation committee would be entirely made up of student and would attempt to evaluate teaching abilities and qualifications of faculty members.

A YOUNG MAN IN TROUBLE is advised not to "walk lightly" by a roommate in the K-State Players' production, "Tea and Sympathy," presented in the Auditorium last night and Saturday. The young man is Tom Lee (Doug Moore, Ar 03), right. Counseling him is a roommate, Al (Jack Macy, PrL Fr). Tom has been suspected of homosexuality, and everyone—with the exception of an understanding older woman played by Nancy Lange, EEd Sr—is quick to accept his guilt.

Have a 'Festive Turkey Time,' Wishes Collegian Editor, But . . .

THANKSGIVING VACATION will be upon us within a day and the Collegian wishes to take the opportunity to wish its readers a festive turkey time. The luck of 11 Kansas university men has made it possible for us to remain at home an extra day this Thanksgiving, which is something for which we can all be thankful.

The Collegian will not publish tomorrow because our crafty advertisers have found it doesn't pay to try and get college men and women to stay and buy. A happy Thanksgiving to those business men who make it possible for us to publish daily.

Right now, the Collegian would like to say thanks to the student body of K-State for being newsy enough to publish five times a week. This is a newspaper about K-Staters and until they do something, we have no news to print.

THIS WOULD PROBABLY be the time to damn all those educators who believe students at Kansas State should continue to be students despite our forefathers who stopped for a day. We don't, however, intend to do anything of the sort. We just hope your professors are benevolent enough to forego an assignment over the holidays.

The biggest per cent of you will be driving or riding home in automobiles so be careful of all these crazy drivers that use the same road you do. Most of them shouldn't have been granted drivers licenses so you'll have to watch them rather closely.

However, if you do decide that you're going to have a pleasure trip, get yourself and your passengers killed coming to K-State. If you're in an accident going, the news will be old by the time we print again. In all seriousness, be careful on the road. We just hate to lose subscribers.

WHILE ON THE SUBJECT of physical abuse, we would like to congratulate the Wildcat football team. Its 3-6-1 record doesn't tell near the story. The Cats scared Oklahoma so bad the Okies lost to Notre Dame and went up to East Lansing this Saturday and had the Spartan on the ropes for three quarters before the radio went bad and some game ended 27-9.

But, happy Thanksgiving to everyone connected with Kansas State college, soon to be called Kansas State university.

The next Collegian will be published Wednesday, December 4.—Roger Myers.

Senate Subcommittee Opens Investigation Of U.S. Missile and Satellite Program

Compiled from United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Washington—The Senate Preparedness subcommittee opened its investigation of the U.S. missile and satellite program today with a warning that the nation is facing a greater crisis than at Pearl Harbor.

Dr. Edward Teller, University of California physicist known as the father of the H-bomb, was called as the first witness.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, chairman of the subcommittee, said in opening the hearing that the challenge of Soviet Sputniks demands from the nation "the greatest effort in American history."

He said the American people were disturbed by the tremendous military and scientific achievements of the Russians and that "our supremacy and even our equality has been challenged."

The subcommittee met in the floodlit, marble-walled Senate caucus room with six of the subcommittee members present, along with four other members of the Senate Armed Services committee.

Johnson promised "a complete and exhaustive inquiry into the state of our defenses" and the steps that must be taken to meet the Soviet challenge.

Teller already was on record as saying the United States has lost a battle comparable to the Pearl Harbor disaster by letting the Soviet Union forge ahead in the rocket and space race. He said on a television program last night that it may take this country 10 years to overtake Russia's scientific lead and that Russia holds an edge comparable to that held by the United States 15 years ago.

Johnson said the subcommittee hoped to get a clear definition during its inquiry of the threat to U.S. security, which he described as "perhaps the greatest our country has ever known."

"It would appear that we have slipped dangerously behind the Soviet Union in some important fields," he said.

Johnson said the committee was offering no judgments yet and that its goal was to find out what should be done.

"We will not reach that goal by wandering up any blind alleys of partisanship," he said.

He said the facts he had heard so far gave him no cause for comfort but that he did not feel that they should be withheld from the public, if the committee observed security requirements.

Johnson said the Soviet satellites showed that the United States had lost "an important battle of technology" but that a lost battle was not a defeat but a challenge.

Possible Rift Between Queen, Princess

London—Informed palace sources today dismissed as "silly" reports of a rift between Princess Margaret and Queen Elizabeth II over Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

There were reports the 27-year-old princess was "cold shouldering" the Queen and Prince Philip by not attending functions with them and that she still wanted to marry Townsend.

The palace sources made it clear they did not wish to report but did say the Princess "makes her own decisions"—that she is a grown woman who can decide for herself whether she wants to attend various royal functions.

The palace sources made it clear they did not wish to make an official statement on reports of the alleged rift.

Reports of the rift appeared in the New York Daily News which quoted "friends of the Princess" as saying:

Princess Margaret, still head over heels in love with Peter Townsend, has made a tearful new appeal to her family for permission to marry the divorced commoner. . . . She was turned down sympathetically, tactfully and flatly. . . . As a result, Meg has begun cold-shouldering her royal duties."

Sunday Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said the Princess was cutting out some of her royal engagements to try to lead her own life and that Queen Elizabeth doesn't like it.

The Sunday Express said the Princess' frequent absences from royal occasions in the past few weeks have caused "speculation and concern" in Buckingham Palace circles.

It said the Queen was "shocked" when Margaret turned up four hours late for the party given Wednesday by Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary.

The reports said instead of attending the dinner Margaret made a last minute visit to a west end theater then went on with friends to a hurriedly-fixed supper at the Savoy. She turned up at Buckingham Palace after midnight.

Readers' Forum

Dear Editor,

I have recently completed a detailed analysis of Collegian spot-check surveys, and am led to believe that you are not polling a true cross-section of student opinion. This failure lies partly with your questions, which many students find difficult to comprehend, and partly with your accidental selection of only exceptional students for interviewing.

The question asked was: "Do you, as a student, think that Kansas State should have alumni?"

LEROY HARVEY, VM Soph—I don't think any student can say, since we haven't got all the facts. The Student Council should appoint a committee to investigate the situation.

JAN SYNDOR, EEd Sr—Yes. By having alumni we will improve our relations with other schools.

WILLIE SCHWARZ, Ag Fr—There aren't too many alumni. But I don't think the Union should take over the Alumni Association.

NELL GWENN, HT Fr—No, it is all right in high school, but I don't think college is the proper place.

GEORGE GRIDLEY, EE Soph—Yes. They are necessary for Homecoming.

REGINALD ARCHIMEDES GLOTZ III, CE Jr—Would you repeat the question?

JUDY POTSHERD, BAA Soph—I guess its all right if you don't have to be one.

RIENHOLD ZIGMITZ, PrL Jr—Yes, but the alumni problem should be redefined in terms of its meaningful and functional interrelationship with the campus, and more planning should be done to determine the lines of effective responsibilities and clarifying corrdinating of details. So I don't think so.

MORGAN PLOTZSKY, Janitor—Sure! They tip better than students!

Sincerely,
Bruce L. Wilson, Eng Gr

Varsity-Frosh Tilt Slated for Tonight

K-State's varsity basketball team meets the Wildcat freshmen in Ahearn field house tonight in preparation for the December 3 season opener against Texas Western. Tipoff time is 7:30 p.m.

"We may not look too sharp at times in this game because we'll be doing a lot of experimenting," said head Coach Tex Winter. "But this should be a very interesting game."

"We are quite a bit ahead of where we were at this time last year," he said. "The team is pretty sharp right now and I hope we can maintain this edge for the opening game."

Winter plans to employ an all-veteran starting lineup with Hayden Abbott, 6-3 senior, and Bob Boozer, 6-8 junior, at forwards; Jack Parr, 6-9 senior, at center; and Roy DeWitz, 6-3 senior, and Don Matuszak, 5-11 junior, at guards. The team average is 64½.

"The starting lineup is pretty well set for the time being," said Winter, "but with the fine talent we have on the rest of the squad, any of the alternates could break into the first five."

"I don't see how we could possibly have a chance," said frosh coach Howie Shannon. "We just hope the varsity will take mercy on us."

"We are pretty well pleased with the progress we have made, though. Although as a whole this squad is weaker than last year's, we have a few freshmen players that are potentially as good as we have ever had."

ALL-AMERICAN—Football captain Ellis Rainsberger, K-State's 6-0, 199-pound senior center, is an honorable mention all-American choice of NEA for 1957.

Rainsberger, who said he was pleased with the honor, was named to the United Press all-Big Seven first team, Associated Press all-Big Seven second team, and Missouri university's all-opponent team last season.

Atzenweiler Best Picker

Larry Atzenweiler won the final pigskin prognostication contest of 1957 by coming the closest to the Michigan State-Kansas State football game score. Atzenweiler missed the actual score by two points as he picked MSU, 27-7. The final score was, 27-9, MSU.

Tied for second were C. D. Combs, Gene Reed and Melvin McCall, both of whom picked Michigan State to win, 28-7.

Cats Lead 3 Quarters Before Spartans Roll

By LARRY GUSTIN

East Lansing, Mich.—K-State led the No. 1 team in the nation, Michigan State, for three quarters before the Spartans scored three fourth quarter touchdowns to pull out a 29-7 victory Saturday before 36,000 chilled fans to wind up the 1957 football season.

Michigan State opened the scoring midway through the first quarter. Mike Panitch passed to Tony Kolodziej from the K-State 15, and the second-string end sped to the one-yard line where he was forced out of bounds by Les Krull. Don Berich plunged for the TD and Dave Kaiser's conversion attempt was wide.

K-State came right back to score a safety when Walt Kowalczyk was trapped in the end zone by Don Zadnik after catching a punt on his own one to make it 6-2.

Right half Keith Wilson circled left end early in the second quarter and ran five yards for the Wildcats' touchdown. Zadnik's conversion gave the fired-up Wildcats a 9-6 halftime lead.

In the final quarter Michigan State capitalized on an unsuccessful punt attempt by the Wildcat's Wilson who was dropped on his own 11.

Three plays later, Kowalczyk plunged into the end zone. Kaiser's conversion gave MSU a 13-9 lead early in the final period.

Several minutes later the Spartans tallied again as Art Johnson streaked 25 yards untouched. Kaiser ran right end for the conversion and a 20-9 margin.

Michigan State's final touchdown came with 58 seconds left in the game when Blanche Martin found a hole in the line and scored. Kaiser converted to make it 27-9.

WHAT TO DO TILL THE PSYCHIATRIST COMES

Once upon a time at the University of Virginia there was a coed named, oddly enough, Virginia University who was handsome and kindly and intelligent and ingeniously constructed and majoring in psychology. Virginia went steady with a young man on campus named, oddly enough, Oddly Enough who was supple and fair and lithe and animated and majoring in phys ed.

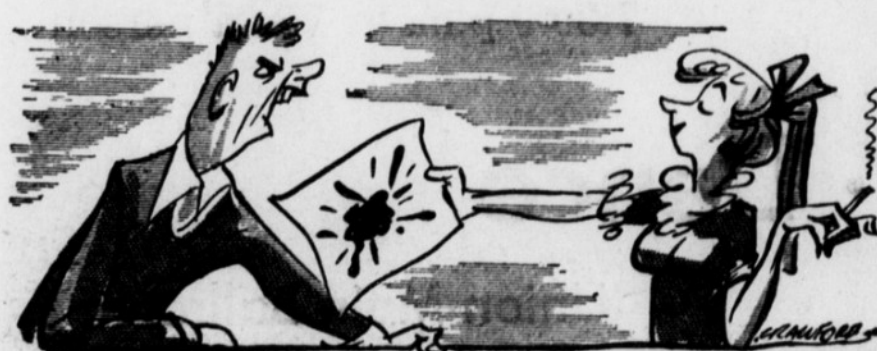

Virginia and Oddly enjoyed a romance that was as idyllic as a summer day, as placid as a millpond. Never did they fight—never, never, never!—because Virginia, who was majoring in psychology, did not believe in fighting. "Fighting," she often said, "settles nothing. The scientific way is to look calmly for the cause of the friction."

So whenever she and Oddly were on the verge of a quarrel, she used to whip out a series of ink blot tests and they would discover the true underlying cause of their dispute and deal with it in an enlightened, dispassionate manner. Then, the irritant removed, their romance would resume its tranquil, serene, unruffled course.

After six months of this sedate liaison, Oddly was so bored he could spit. He loved Virginia well enough, but he also believed that people in love ought to fight now and then. "It opens the pores," he said. "And besides, it's so much fun making up afterwards."

But Virginia would not be provoked into a quarrel. One night Oddly tried very hard. "Hey," he said to her, "your hair looks like a bat's nest and your ears look like last year's turnips and your face looks like a pan of worms and as for your head, I've seen better heads on newel posts."

"My goodness, we're hostile tonight!" said Virginia cheerfully and whipped 120 Rorschach cards out of her reticule. "Come," she said, "let us examine your psychic apparatus."

"Who Makes your Clothes-Bethlehem Steel?"

Oddly tried again. "Who makes your clothes?" he sneered. "Bethlehem Steel?"

"Hmm," said Virginia thoughtfully and lit a cigarette. "This sounds like an anxiety neurosis with totemism, anagogic trauma, and a belt in the back."

"I hate you," said Oddly. "I hate your looks and your clothes and your toenails and your relatives and the cigarettes you smoke."

"Now, hold on, buster!" cried Virginia, her eyes crackling, her color mounting, her nostrils aflame. "Just keep a civil tongue in your stupid head when you talk about Marlboro! Nobody's knocking that filter, that flavor, that flip-top box while there's breath in my body! It's a great cigarette, it's a doozy, it's a dilly, it's a bear—and anybody who says a word against it gets this."

By "this" Virginia meant a series of combinations to the head and liver, which she now delivered to Oddly and turned on her heel and stormed away.

Oddly brought her down with a flying tackle. "I love you," he said.

"And Marlboro?" said she.

"And Marlboro," said he.

And they kissed and plaited love knots in one another's hair and were married at Whitsun and smoked happily ever after.

© 1957, Max Shulman

And you too, gentle readers, will smoke happily ever after, once you try Marlboro, the cigarette that gives you such a lot to like—including, we earnestly hope, this column.

Ever meet a fanatic?

He's got just one thing uppermost in his mind.
If he's looking for a job he's thinking only of pay or only of security. Reasonable men, however, weigh these and many other factors when they're evaluating career possibilities. Such factors as opportunity, challenging work, training, professional associates—things fanatics never bother to consider.

The Bell Telephone Companies have a booklet for reasonable men. It's called "Challenge and Opportunity." It's not the sort of thing that'll make a fanatic's eyes light up, but it ought to interest a thoughtful young man—whatever his college background—who is weighing career possibilities. Get it from your

Wildcats Smother Texans, 76-31, To Open Season

Defense Sparkles

By JAY WORKMAN
Collegian Sports Editor

K-State's Wildcats opened their basketball season with an impressive defensive display and a 76-31 victory over Texas Western in Ahearn fieldhouse last night before 9,000 fans.

Center Jack Parr led the Cats with 18 points.

Jack Parr, 6-9 center, and Bob Boozer, 6-8 forward, led the Cats in scoring and rebounding. Parr had 18 points, high for the game, and eight rebounds while Boozer made 11 points and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Roy DeWitz and Hayden Abbott followed for the Cats with 10 points apiece. These four cagers accounted for almost a two-thirds of K-State's total.

It was the most successful K-State opener since 1949 when Nebraska was held to 28 points.

Charlie Brown, 6-0 forward, was the Texas Western standout as he and Jon Sanders, 6-3 forward, each sank nine points.

Brown was the top Texas rebounder with nine.

K-State swished 31 out of 70 shots from the field for a 44.3 per cent while Texas was only able to can 12 of 50 for a 24 per cent mark. K-State hit 14 of 22 free throws and Texas was good on 7 of 13.

Although the Cat man-to-man defense was tight, they gathered only 12 personal fouls and no Wildcat was in danger of fouling out.

Parr opened the scoring on a free throw with 11 seconds gone in the game. Boozer followed with a tip in before Sanders started Texas scoring with a jump shot. Parr then tipped one in and Brown hit a long push shot from out front for a 5-4 tally with 15:21 left and that was as close as the Texans ever got.

The Cats then pulled away to a 21-6 lead with 7:59 left on several buckets from under the basket.

The Wildcats led by 21 points, 37-16 at the half.

Texas opened second half scoring when Jack Burgess hit a jump shot with 40 seconds played but DeWitz and Parr came right back with a pair of field goals to make it 41-18.

The Cats then flipped in six points while Sanders was making four for Texas and with 12:37 to play K-State was on top, 47-22.

Then for a period of 9:30 Texas failed to score as the Cats pumped in 14 more. Texas even tried stalling as K-State coach (Continued on page 4)

Game photos by Darryl Helkes

STRUGGLING FOR POSSESSION of the ball are K-State's Hayden Abbott and Texas Western forward Jon Sanders, Texan Jack Burgess (24) and Cat center Jack Parr (32). Abbott scored 10 points as the Cats routed the Aggies 76-31.

NUMBER 54

At All-College Assembly

McCain Gives Staters Look At Modern Foreign Colleges

"Our war with Communism will be won or lost in the realm of ideas, and not weapons, technology or diplomacy," President McCain said in giving "A 1957 Look at European Universities" in an all-College assembly this morning.

"Europe is a major battle ground of this conflict of ideas. We should coordinate our efforts with those of European universities to a greater degree than ever before and increase the number of exchange students and teachers," Dr. McCain said after spending six months in Europe on an Eisenhower Exchange Fellowship.

The major trends evident in European universities are also characteristic of American universities, he explained. Student enrollment is sharply rising each year, and facilities are being enlarged.

A larger proportion of youth from the middle and low income families are attending college through state aid, loan funds, and modifications of strict entrance requirements. They are also increasing the number of students majoring in science and engineering, and they have set up a successful research program.

"Despite enrollment increases, only about 8 per cent of the youth in each age group in Europe attend universities, as compared to 40 per cent in Kansas," he said.

"I discovered there is much greater public respect for professors and higher respect for learning. Despite these measures, their school admissions are determined to a large degree by class distinction and sometimes determined by tests at the of 11," Dr. McCain stated.

"Graduation from a European secondary school is the equivalent of two years in a United States liberal arts college," he said.

Eight Finalists Named For Speech Contest

Eight students will compete in the Larry Woods speech contest finals, after winning the preliminaries yesterday.

The finalists are Annette Maxwell, Gvt Fr; Judy Hoy, RT Fr; Donnice Adamek, BMT Soph; Ronald Minarcini, CE Soph; Joyce Beery, Sp Fr; Frances Schwartz, BMT Soph; Marilyn Hansen, HE Fr; and Cynthia Ziegler, HEN Soph.

The finals will be at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, December 10, in the Student Union little theatre, according to Dr. Charles Goetzinger, assistant professor of speech.

The preliminary winners were selected from contestants representing each Oral Communications I class, and were judged by faculty members of the Speech department.

Anita Grimm, chairman of the contest, will present the winner of the finals $30 and a Larry Woods certificate; second place winner, $20, and the certificate; and third place winner, $10, and the certificate.

The awards are provided by a fund Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Woods of Independence established as a memorial to their son, Larry E. Woods, a former K-State speech major, who lost his life in World War II.

The judges of the finals are Allan Langton, Manhattan insurance salesman; Mrs. Charles Reed, former K-State speech instructor; Dean Doretta Hoffman of the School of Home Economics; and the Rev. S. Walton Cole, Manhattan Methodist minister.

Senior Class Elections Set for Next Two Days

Seniors will vote tomorrow and Friday for class officers. Polls will be open from 7:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days in Anderson hall and the Union lobby, according to Dwight Bennett, Ar 03, Student Governing Association Election committee chairman.

All seniors can vote by presenting their activity tickets, he said.

OPEN FOR TRAFFIC—The shortcut footbridge over the track at the north end of Memorial stadium opened for business last week. Tuesday workmen were applying a coat of paint.

Class Assignments Begin; Seniors Pre-Enroll Today

Seniors are pre-enrolling for second semester from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. today and tomorrow in Anderson hall, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

Those with last names beginning from A to G are receiving early assignment today. Seniors with names from H to O will enroll tomorrow afternoon. Those from P to Z were assigned to classes yesterday.

Juniors with names from P-Z will enroll Friday; A-G, Monday; and H-O, Tuesday. Graduate students may enroll with juniors or seniors.

Sophomores, in the above alphabetical order, will be assigned to spring semester classes December 11, 12, and 13. Freshmen will pre-enroll December 16, 17, and 18. December 19 and 20 are reserved for eligible students who do not enroll at their scheduled times.

All currently enrolled students who had no failing grades at the nine weeks may be assigned to classes for the spring semester.

Fees are to be paid January 13 through January 24 at the cashier's office, Gerritz said.

Welcome Back to Pre-Christmas Grind, And Keep Letters to the Editor Coming

WELL, WELL, WELL; welcome back to the grind. We hope you had a restful vacation over the Thanksgiving holidays, and hope you can hold out until the Christmas vacation.

There will be only 13 issues, counting this Collegian, of the paper during December, but we plan to throw in a special Christmas issue of some kind before December 20, which is the last day of class in 1957.

This will be a busy time of year for most students, what with shopping to do, 14-week tests to study for, and basketball starting. The Collegian will try to help you stay abreast of all the events, worthy of publicity, which are on tap.

CHRISTMAS TIME is the social season and the majority of K-State's Greek and organized houses will be putting on something special. If your group is doing something out of the ordinary for the Noel, the Collegian would like to know about the event. The staff member who should be contacted is Janice Graham, Collegian society editor.

During the past couple of weeks, the Collegian has been fortunate enough to receive a multitude of letters to the editor. The Collegian is proud that students will take the time to sit down and write. We feel these letters are an index of readership and urge K-Staters to continue sending them. However, it's been pointed out to us that our deadline for such letters is not clear.

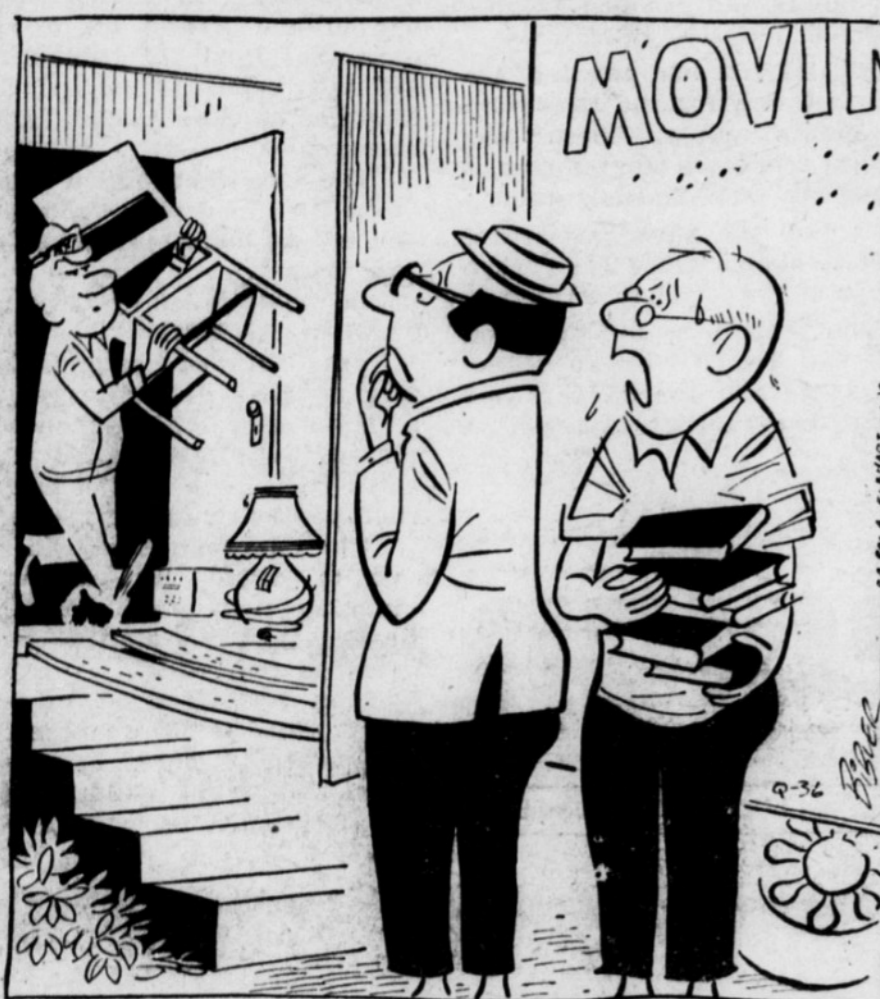

The Collegian has an editorial page deadline of the afternoon before publication. This means the letter must be in our hands by Monday afternoon if it is to appear in Tuesday's paper. When we say afternoon, we mean by at least 3 p.m.

SO, IF THE LETTER didn't reach us until Monday night, it would not appear until Wednesday. If the letter was written Monday, and mailed Tuesday it wouldn't reach us until Wednesday. Therefore the letter would be published (maybe) on Thursday.

If you're still confused, just mail the letter and we'll print it first chance we get.

Nevertheless, keep those letters coming. If you send us a letter and it doesn't get published, drop in and see us and we'll explain why it never reached the backshop.—Roger Myers

Scheming Journalist Are Awful Nasty Fellows, Often Plotting Against Nice People (the Public)

By Jim Bell

JOURNALISTS ARE nasty fellows. Those guys just sit around all the time and try to think up ill to do to nice people like the public and engineers.

Close as I am to the situation, I find it not only easy, but plausible, to point out to the public (and engineers) the fallacy of journalistic ways.

To show you what can happen, I came upon a bevy of the nasty fellows in Kedzie hall (even on our own campus) the other day. They were sitting around kibitzing and second guessing. So, not wanting to miss any of the mess they were no doubt concocting within their nasty skulls, I sauntered up, raised my hand and arm by way of greeting, and gave them all a smiling, cheery "hi." (Smiling, cheery "hi's" are stock with those fellows—you gotta be awful careful.)

WELL, A BIG, curly-headed fellow with a fiendish glint in his left eye was obviously concocting some kind of mess for consumption by the general, blood-thirsty public. He looked at the nasty fellow nearest me and asked, "Is he o.k.?"

"Yeah," said the nasty fellow nearest me. "Now on with the concocting of some kind of mess for consumption by the general, blood-thirsty public."

By this time, as you can well imagine, I was all ears. I edged closer, trying to keep off the hooves and tails that abounded everywhere. Oh, I tell you, these were nasty fellows!

"Well," said the big curly-headed fellow with the glint in his left eye, "why don't we change our plans, and start a smear campaign against the president of the model trains club?"

"I DON'T KNOW," said a dubious nasty fellow. "What's wrong with a smear campaign against somebody big like Zsa Zsa Gabor?"

"Now there," said the nasty curly-headed fellow with the glint in the left eye, "now there, is an idea!" He seemed to like that one.

"We could give her a big buildup—not that she needs any—but we could give her one anyway, then knock the props out from under her, and in this manner determine the way, the very way, of all flesh," the dubious nasty fellow said. "Oh, I'm glad I'm a journalist and get to take unfair, nasty, low-down, below-the-belt, unethical cracks at nice people like the public and engineers." With that he laughed gleefully, and trotted off to organize the big-buildup, big-letdown campaign.

WELL, THAT WAS about enough for me. I got out of that den of iniquity fast. What I mean, fast. Next thing you know, those nasty fellows might have decided it was time for doing ill to somebody nice like the general public or somebody.

Those journalists are awful nasty fellows.

Basketball Scores With Housemother

K-State has an especially interested basketball fan this year—Mrs. James A. Naismith, widow of the inventor of basketball.

Mrs. Naismith, new Kappa Delta housemother, says she has always loved the game but became particularly interested in it after marrying the "Father of Basketball."

She explained that he invented basketball in 1891 for a physical education class at the International YMCA Training school, now Springfield college, Springfield, Mass., which was tired of the routine gymnastic work between football and baseball seasons.

The first game was played with old peach baskets hung from the gymnasium balcony and a soccer ball. The first teams had nine players each since his class had 18 men. They played according to a list of 13 rules made by Dr. Naismith.

In inventing the game, his main idea was to create an indoor game that would eliminate the tackling and running of the popular outdoor sports.

After considering many games he decided to use the soccer ball. He had planned to use boxes as goals but resorted to a couple of peach baskets that a janitor gave him. Placing the baskets above the players' heads eliminated the scramble at the goal.

"The game was a success from the time the first ball was tossed up, and word soon got around that the gym class was having fun," the inventor, himself, said, in a book he wrote about the beginning of the game. The name, basketball, was suggested by a member of the first team.

Basketball spread throughout the city and to other YMCAs, and soon people throughout the country became interested. The game continued to grow in popularity until today it ranks among the leading competitive sports of the world.

"No one was more surprised than he that basketball grew to become the game most attended by Americans," his wife recalls. "Three years before he died, he was present for the 1936 Olympics in Berlin where basketball was first added to the competition."

Although he was an ordained minister and surgeon, he settled at Kansas university where he taught physical education and medicine for 40 years, becoming head of the Physical Education department.

Rules have been added and modified to the original 13 to meet the new conditions that have arisen, until now there are over 250 statements in the rules.

Many are surprised to know how little the game has changed. The five fundamental principles set up by Dr. Naismith in planning the game are still the unchanging factors of basketball.

A large, light ball and an elevated, horizontal goal have been used since the beginning. Running with the ball and personal contact have never been permitted. Both teams still occupy the same area and any player can get the ball at any time when it is in play.

The biggest change is in the skill of players and the kind of plays adopted. The dribble and pivot were adopted soon after the game began, and in 1895 the number for a team was set at five. The rules for penalties have changed many times since the time when two fouls kept a player out of the game until the next basket was made.

Soon fans around the world will see the life of this man and his great invention relived in a movie soon to be produced. For several years Mrs. Naismith has been conferring with Hollywood people who are writing the story which will be completed within the next two years.

AWS Suggests Changes For Seven KS Activities

Seven recommendations for campus activities have been made by the Associated Women Students' council and forwarded to the appropriate committees or organizations.

The action came at an AWS Council meeting before Thanksgiving vacation, following approval of the recommendations by at least two-thirds of the 11 women's living groups.

Included in the recommendations are proposals to bar any woman student from being a candidate for more than one "major" queen position a year, to add a third division to the annual Homecoming float competition, and to eliminate Parents' Day competition.

Other recommendations included a proposal to the Dean of Students and Activities board for establishing a committee of student and faculty representatives from all fields for the purpose of scheduling all-College events, and to place more emphasis on cultural events such as Artist Series and plays by scheduling them at times that do not conflict with other major College events.

Weather Stops U.S. Moon Launching Set for Tonight

Compiled from United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—Bad weather threatened today to delay efforts to launch this nation's first satellite until at least tonight.

The American moon launchers insisted there had been no mechanical failures in the effort so far although a number of "variables" in the mechanism were being adjusted.

A gusty storm front moved into the Cape Canaveral area this morning even as the Navy Vanguard satellite team proceeded with the methodical countdown that precedes all launchings.

The hour of whizzing a basketball-sized satellite toward a hoped-for orbit first was delayed until approximately 3 p.m. CST by the late start of the 11-hour countdown.

The weather experts were almost as busy as the rocket launchers, checking their calculations. The elements suddenly became an all-important factor.

Winds rose to 18 miles an hour on the tip of Cape Canaveral this morning and reached at least 25 miles per hour in gusts by 4 p.m. The forecast was for near zero visibility during the afternoon.

The Vanguard missile, a slender 72-foot long three-stage rocket that will transport the American moon, cannot be safely launched in winds over 20 to 25 miles an hour.

The weathermen said the storm front was expected to break up about 5 p.m. and the forecast for tonight was for clear skies and moderate winds.

The Navy launching team was taking its time getting the Vanguard ready for flight.

Herschel Schooley, defense department public information chief, said, "It is perfectly obvious they are getting a lot of variables" in putting the rocket through its pre-flight test and they have to doctor the times as they go along."

No Sense of Crisis

Washington—Democratic congressional leaders complained today the Eisenhower administration still has not shown the sense of crisis needed to answer the Soviet challenge to leadership in the space age.

This criticism came from dominant Democrats in Congress even though they were told yesterday the administration is planning a two billion dollar step-up in spending for a half a dozen military programs including missile development.

President Eisenhower presided at most of yesterday's four-hour bipartisan conference with 31 congressional leaders on defense and foreign policy. He planned to be on hand again today for a second meeting, just for Republican congressional leaders, on the administration's domestic legislative program for next year.

On the basis of yesterday's talks GOP leaders were convinced the President will submit to Congress next month a very tight but balanced budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. They believe Congress will find this budget tough to cut, and that the Presi-

Cat Defense Sparkles To Hold Texans to 31

Tex Winter began to clear his bench.

But the Cat reserves continued to widen the margin, leading 66-24 with 3:58 left and had the widest margin of the game at 48 points, 72-24, with 2:55 remaining.

While Texas Western was sinking eight points to close the scoring, Bob Graham and Steve Douglas were hitting jump shots for the 76-31 final.

K-State will play Indiana university Saturday at Bloomington.

Cat Cagers Backed Up In Opinions

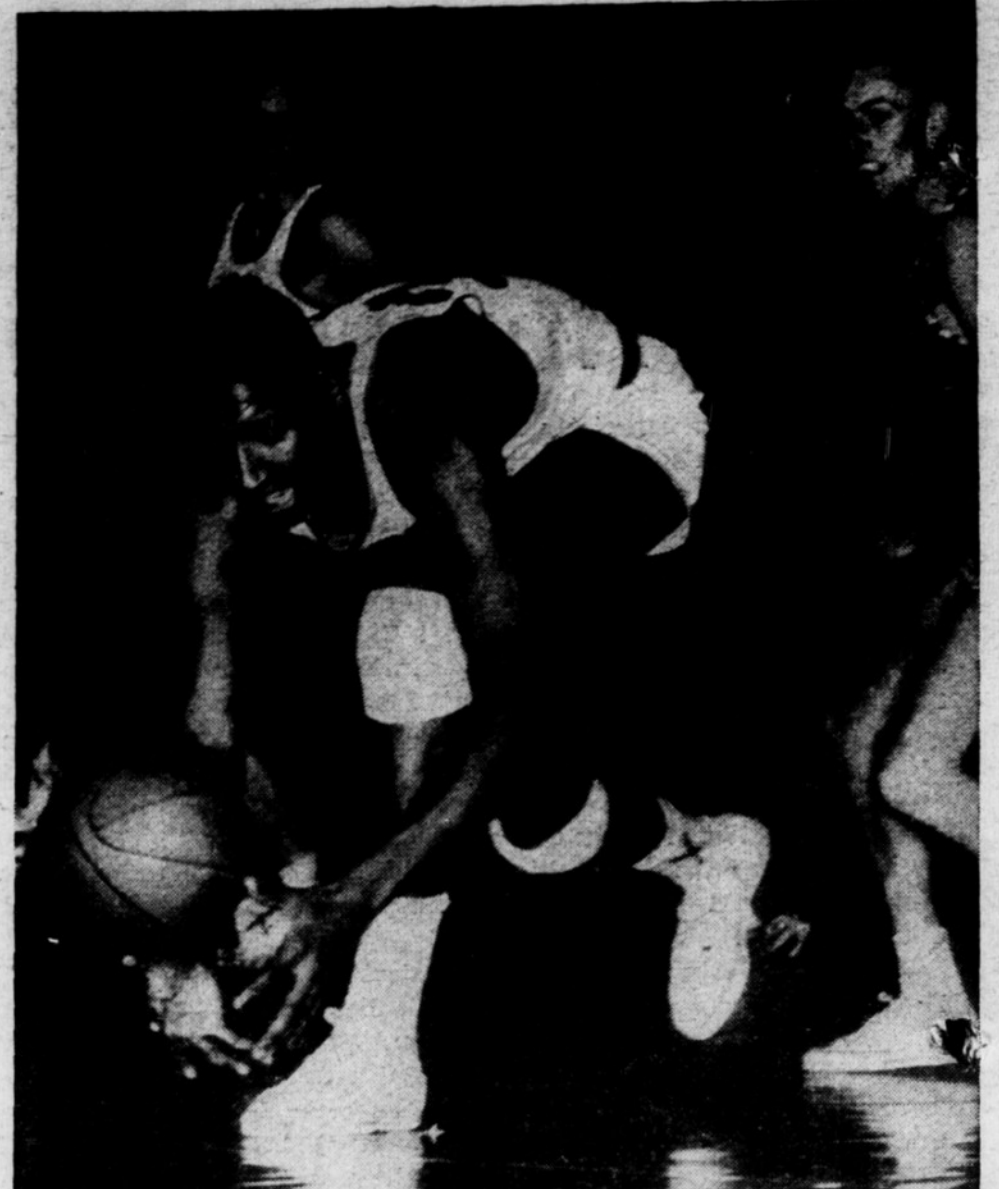

By DAN KERSHAW

The five probable cage starters and the top sophomore basketball player all have the opinion that K-State will wear the Big Eight conference crown this year. And after last night it appears they are right. It is also their opinion that Iowa State and Kansas will give them the biggest share of trouble this year.

Bob Boozer, junior forward said, "We definitely should take the conference title this year." Along with Matuszak, Boozer rates Iowa State and KU as the two biggest threats to the Wildcats. Boozer added, "As the years go by, the conference gets rougher and rougher and on any given night any team could beat any other team."

Hayden Abbott, senior forward said, "This year is going to be real tough as it is every year, but I think with our depth and potential we should come out on top. KU should be our biggest threat but there are two or three teams in the conference who should be an equal threat."

Roy DeWitz, senior guard, said, "In the Big Eight, besides Kansas, Oklahoma should have a good team because its whole team is back. Iowa State will be tough and Colorado could be tough. But I think the first four teams will be K-State, Kansas, Iowa State and Oklahoma."

TRYING VAINLY to keep the ball from going out of bounds, K-State forward Bob Boozer can't quite find a handle for the ball. Roy DeWitz and Texas Western guard Jack Burgess watch the ball.

IM Cage Play To Start Again Tonight at 6:45

Intramural basketball will resume tonight with nine games scheduled. Play was halted because of the Thanksgiving vacation.

Three fraternity division games will be on tap tonight. Delta Sigma Phi will play Sigma Chi. Sigma Nu will tangle with Theta Xi and Alpha Gamma Rho will play Sigma Phi Epsilon.

These three games start at 6:45 p.m. and will be played on the west, center, and east courts, respectively.

In the independent division the Coffee Grinders play Acropolis. Outlaws go against YMCA, and Five E's line up against Sigma Phi Nothing. These three games start at 7:35 p.m.

Rounding out tonight's action will be three more games in the independent division. The Raiders tangle with the Rebels, while Flu Flu Five go against the Vets. The River Rats play West Stadium.

These games begin at 8:25.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

Working with Sports

KU Fired Top Coach . . .

KU's Coach Chuck Mather was named coach of the year by the United Press in one of the most surprising of the post-season selections.

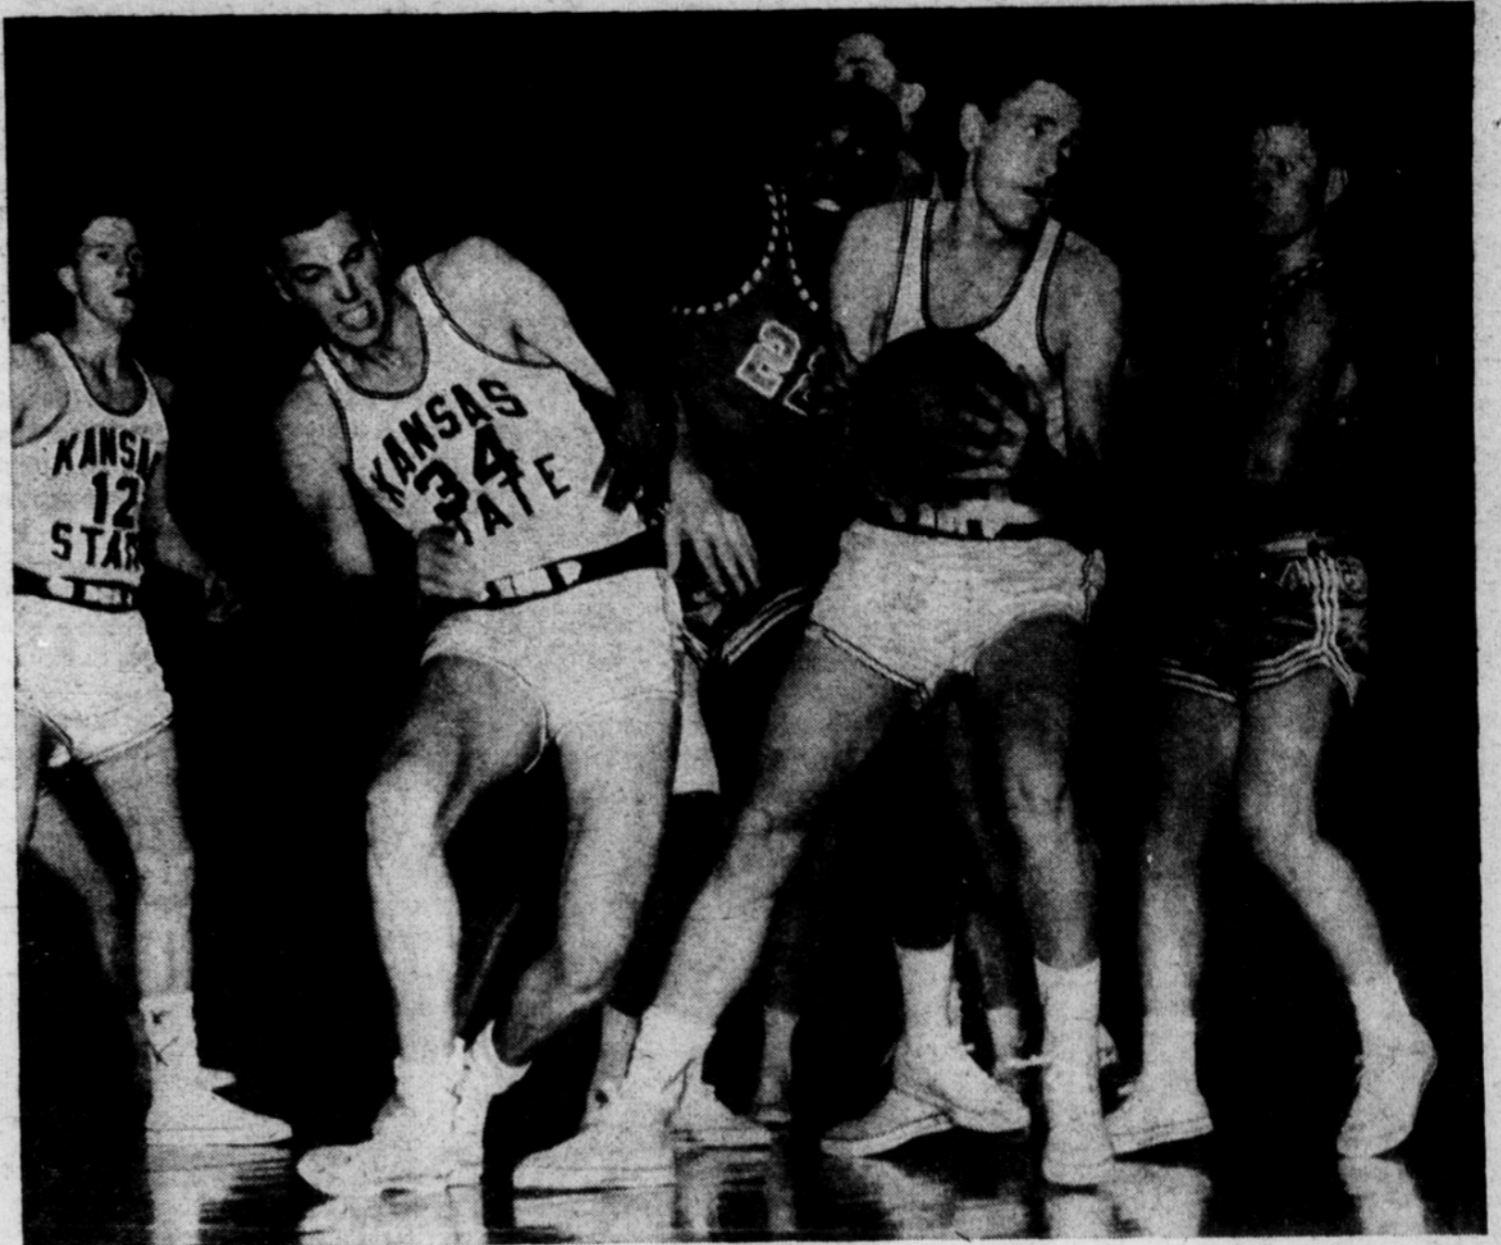

Mather was pressured at mid-season to announce his resignation and then won the last four games on his schedule to give the Jayhawks the No. 2 berth in the Big Eight.

Kansas alumni and the KU student body that worked so hard to get rid of Mather really stepped on their own tails when Mather began to win for them. If the blood-thirsty people at KU had played their cards a little closer to their chests they would have waited until the end of the season to make any decisions—that's what ethical schools do.

But the Hawks got emotional and proved how big, brave, smart, and powerful they are by firing a top-flight coach in the middle of the season. We guess that's the way people down there do things—half-cocked and backwards.

UP picked an all-conference with a pair of Missouri Tigers for tackles on the first unit, Charlie Rash and Merv Johnson, which was a shock to us because most of the writers we talked to during the season thought K-State's Jack Keelan was going to be in there. Keelan, along with another Missourian, Bob Lee, filled the second team tackle slots.

What Do I Do Now Coach?

Top-Ranked Cage Teams Start Fast

By UNITED PRESS

Three of the nation's top-ranked college basketball teams are off to flying starts today, but it appears the loss of Jim Krebs has wrecked Southern Methodist as a big power.

Third-ranked Bradley, seventh-ranked K-State and ninth-ranked Notre Dame all opened their 1957-58 campaign with smashing triumphs last night. Bradley clobbered Illinois Normal, 97-47; K-State crushed Texas Western, 78-31; and Notre Dame walloped St. Ambrose, 82-63.

At Iowa City, Iowa, however, SMU's Mustangs, who were rated fourth in the country last season when they compiled a 22-4 record, suffered a second loss in 24 hours when they were beaten, 65-60, in overtime by Iowa. The pre-season dope was that the loss of the 6-8 Krebs would mark the end of Southern Methodist's three-year reign in the Southwest conference—and the dope appears to be standing up.

Press Board of Coaches

U.P. Tabs Tar Heels 1st, Wildcats Picked Seventh

By UNITED PRESS

New York—North Carolina's "Yankee Tar Heels," who went unbeaten in 32 games last season, were picked by the United Press board of coaches yesterday to repeat as the 1957-58 national college basketball champions. The U. P. picked K-State as seventh in the nation.

Kansas, beaten by the Tar Heels by one point in a triple-overtime NCAA tournament finale, again is ranked second, with Bradley, last year's National Invitation tournament champion.

Twenty of the 35 coaches who comprise the rating board cast first-place ballots for coach Frank McGuire's defending champs, and they were the only team to be named on all 35. Kansas and Bradley each missed two.

With points awarded on a sliding scale for votes from first to 10th place, North Carolina rolled up 324 points against 294 for Kansas and 206 for Bradley.

San Francisco, the 1956 national champion which surprised by finishing third in the nation last season, almost took that spot again in the pre-season poll with 202 points. Kentucky, reported to be another Adolph Rupp powerhouse, took fifth with 171. The Wildcats were ranked ninth last season.

Kansas, of course, has Wilt Chamberlain and the seven-footer is a one-man guarantee of a top season.

Michigan State, surprise Big Ten co-champion last year, is sixth in the pre-season ratings. Kansas State, Kansas' top rival in its own conference, stands seventh. Temple, fourth a year ago, again gains the highest rank given an eastern team but this time it's eighth. Notre Dame, top midwest independent, is in the No. 9 spot. Washington rounds out the top 10.

"WHAT DO I DO NOW COACH?" K-State's Glen Long seems to be thinking as he tries to decide what to do after gathering in a rebound last night. Wildcat Wally Frank (34) struggles with Texan Harold Holmes (22) for possession of the ball. Cat guard Sonny Ballard (12) and Texan Jerry Gilley (42) follow the play. K-State must have known what to do most of the time last night as the Cats all but chased Texas Western from Ahearn fieldhouse in a 76-31 rout.

K-STATE FORWARD Bob Boozer collides with Texas Western forward Charlie Brown during last night's game in Ahearn fieldhouse. Boozer scored 11 points and gathered in 11 to be second high scorer for the Cats. Brown and Jon Sanders led the meager Texas scoring attack with nine points each as K-State overpowered the Texans 76-31.

"Texas Western is better than the score shows," Tex Winter, K-State head basketball coach said after the Cats had won last night, 76-31.

"They waited for good shots and we didn't give them any. I was pleasantly surprised with our defense, it was real good."

"I can't say much about next week but Howie Shannon, assistant coach, is scouting Indiana. We have never beaten them back there. They lost last night so they won't want to blow two."

"Indiana will be tough next Saturday," center Jack Parr said, "Our defense held up to-night sometimes when our offense didn't."

"We were a little bit rusty at times," guard Don Matszask said, "we did a lot of standing when we should have been cutting and didn't work the ball to well. Indiana will be the real test."

SUSPENSION STORY—Chuck Steger, M.E. '52, probing dynamic properties of new Air Spring developed by Von Polhemus (L.). A nationally recognized authority on suspension systems, Mr. Polhemus directs Structure and Suspension Development Group of GM's Engineering Staff, helps guide Chuck in his professional career.

Because engineering is a profession at GM —we offer you a career—not a job

ONE REASON engineering standards at General Motors are so high is that GM recognizes engineering as a profession. And the men who engineer the many different products made by General Motors are respected for the profession they practice.

That is why, when you are invited to join General Motors as an engineer, you don't simply take a job—you start a career.

It is a career that is rewarding both professionally and financially—starting on your first day of association with General Motors at any one of its 35 divisions and 126 plants in 70 cities and 19 states.

During your early days at GM, for example, you work with a senior engineer who guides your career along professional lines.

You are also actively encouraged to pursue your education towards an advanced degree. For we at General Motors recognize that, in doing so, you will become more valuable to us and the engineering profession.

You are given the opportunity to obtain professional recognition through participation in engineering society forums, presentation of technical papers, winning of patents and other recognition of your accomplishments.

And you are also encouraged to take an active role in your community's affairs—because a truly professional man is a good citizen as well as a good engineer.

All this is for a reason—and a good one.

Many of the men who will fill the key positions at GM in the future are the young engineers joining GM today. This is not theory, it is fact. For 14 of our 33 Vice-Presidents are engineers, 23 of our 42 Division General Managers are engineers, too.

Today we are looking for young engineers—such as you—who may fill these positions tomorrow. The rewards—both professional and financial—are substantial. If you feel you have the ability, write us. It could be the most important letter of your life.

June graduates!

A General Motors Representative will be on hand to answer questions about job opportunities with GM.

A note for all coeds! If you are missing a blue and white net petticoat, better check the lost and found haven. Other unclaimed items include a green umbrella, a black faille duster, and silk scarfs of all sizes and colors.

K-Staters must be exceptionally warm blooded or else have an abundance of jackets and coats because raincoats, ROTC overcoats, sweaters, and lightweight and heavy jackets have been found and turned in.

No costume is complete without jewelry. And the lost and found department probably has that pair of cuff links you lost last Monday or the bracelet you were sure somebody swiped.

Or maybe your lighter is missing. As long as your lighter is in absentia, you can't light your pipe either. But, of course, when you look for the pipe, you find it's gone. But they're all safe and sound in the lost and found department.

For you artists! Did you misplace that candle holder, ink pen, indelible ink, and orange construction paper? Your worries are over because they're all in one big sack in the sanctuary for lost and found items.

Even aggies and engineers are guilty of losing things. A few slide rules have been turned in. And for the aggies—sure you didn't lose that old faded pair of blue jeans during Ag Week?

Campus Receives Major Face Lifting

Building and remodeling on the K-State campus is continuing at an all-time high, according to R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the Physical Plant.

Construction of the new home economics building is progressing, and plans are underway for additions to two present buildings. The postal center in Anderson hall will receive a major "face lifting" sometime in the future.

Justin hall, new home economics building, will soon begin to "come up out of the ground", said Gingrich. The piling is completed and is ready for pouring the concrete for the foundation walls. However, freezing temperatures may delay this step, said Gingrich.

The final preliminary conference on the plans for the addition to Kedzie hall will be in Topeka Friday. Final conference on the addition to Eisenhower hall will be sometime next week.

After these conferences, the architects will prepare the working drawings and specifications.

Contracts for both the Eisenhower hall and Kedzie hall additions should be ready for letting by June 1, according to Gingrich.

The postal service center in Anderson will be remodeled and expanded to provide boxes for all departmental offices and campus organizations. Vincent Cool of the Campus Planning department is drawing the tentative plans.

SGA Quarters Moved to SU

The Student Governing association has moved its office from Anderson hall to the southwest corner of the activities center in the Union. Actual work on the office has not yet been completed.

Two new partitions are being set up to separate the office from the remainder of the activities center. They are moveable and will be used as bulletin boards on which SGA business bulletins will be posted.

Completion of the new office is expected as soon as all of the materials for the new partitions arrive. Cost of the project is approximately $330.

German Officers Will Visit Army ROTC Unit

The K-State Army ROTC unit has been selected by the U.S. Department of Army as part of the itinerary for four German officers visiting this country under the Mutual Assistance program. The primary purpose of their visit is to observe officer training facilities and programs.

Brig. Gen. Oskar Munzel, Lt. Col. Robert Schott, Maj. Hans-Joachim, and Capt. Willi Schroder, all officers of the Army of the Federal Republic of Germany, will be on the campus Friday.

The officers will visit President James A. McCain and observe military science classes and college facilities during the day.

Alpha Phi Omega

Eight pledges of Alpha Phi Omega, National Scouting Service fraternity, were recently initiated into active membership, according to Ray Swearingen, BA Sr, president.

The new members are Sylvester Ekart, TA Sr; Gale Urban, PH Fr; Frank Blodgett, Ag Fr; Palmer Haynes, Ar 03; Edward Fabricius, CE Soph; William Channon, FT Fr; Ira Goldbach, PrV Fr; and Richard Kice, ME Fr.

AFROTC Speech Contest

Cadet 2nd Lt. John R. Roberts was recently chosen the best "Air Power" speaker by Arnold Air Society, air force honorary. He will receive an award from the Republican Aviation corporation.

Cadet Roberts was selected from a field of four finalists. The others were Cadet 1st Lt. Larry Van Pelt, ME Jr; Cadet 2nd Lt. Frank C. Chrisbens, BA Jr; and Cadet 1st Lt. Donald L. Howell, EE Jr.

The award is given each year to the junior AFROTC cadet who makes the best 15-minute presentation on air power.

RP Activity Blanks

Royal Purple activity blanks for seniors graduating at the end of the fall semester will not be available until sometime during the week after Christmas vacation, according to Marcia Boyd, TJ Jr, Royal Purple editor.

The date will depend on when the Royal Purple staff receives the list of graduating seniors from the Registrar's office.

Omicron Nu

Eight home economics students were recently initiated into Omicron Nu, home economics honorary.

4-H Club Congress

Nine K-State 4-H club members attended the National 4-H Club congress in Chicago, December 1-5 and other events scheduled with the International Livestock Exposition.

Members who attended were Mary Jo Mauler, HEJ Fr; Kay Slade, EEd Fr; Maurine Neal, HE Fr; Richard Rees, FT Fr; Sharon Fallon, HE Fr; Alice Nagel, HDA Soph; Connie Clary, EEd Soph; Fern Jahnke, SED Fr; and Sara Sylten, HE Fr.

Theta Sigma Phi

Members of Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honorary for women, held initiation and pledging at the home of their sponsor, Miss Helen Hostetter, professor of technical journalism, recently.

New initiates are Jacqueline DuMars, HEJ Jr; Sharon McKinnie, TJ Sr; Janice Graham, TJ Sr; Nancy Molter, TJ Sr; Janice Kraft, HEJ Sr; Marcia Boyd, TJ Jr; and Carol Sitz, HEJ Fr.

Dixie Good, HEJ Jr; Sandra Wilson, TJ Jr; Sue Goss, TJ Jr; and Donna Snodgrass, HEJ Jr, are new pledges.

WACs

Capt. Elizabeth A. Harth of the Women's Army Corps, officer branch of Headquarters, Fifth U.S. Army, will be on campus Friday to discuss opportunities in the WACs for women college graduates. She will be in the Student Union during the day.

The Army is offering qualified women graduates direct reserve commissions as lieutenants and the opportunity to start a career in the Army as junior executives.

Jardine Terrace Election

Dan Orrell, ME Jr, recently was re-elected mayor of Central Jardine Terrace, according to A. Thornton Edwards, director of housing.

Students at Jardine Terrace were allowed to organize their own student government because the problems arising in married housing units are different from those of single housing units, according to Edwards.

Whi-Purs

Membership cards and copies of the Whi-Purs constitution were distributed at a meeting of Whi-Purs yesterday afternoon in Willard hall, according to Carol Hawks, SED Fr, president.

Political Science Club

William Avery, Kansas congressman from the first district, will speak at a Political Science club luncheon today at 1 p.m. in the Union, according to Gene Olander, SED Soph, Political Science club vice chairman.

Avery will also speak at a meeting of Young Republicans at 7:30 p.m. in the Walnut room of the Union.

Union Art Exhibits

Paintings of water colors by architects of Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa, and Colorado are now hanging in the art lounge of the Student Union. The exhibit, which started yesterday, will run through December 11, according to Prof. J. C. Heintzelman of the Architecture and Allied Arts department.

FORMER BASKETBALL STANDOUT, Jim Smith, class of '55, is kept busy with paper-work in his newly appointed job as Student Union Games manager.

Jim Smith Named SU Games Head

Jim Smith, former K-State basketball standout, has been hired as Student Union Games manager, according to Loren Kottner, Union director. Smith replaces Severt E. (Andy) Anderson. He took over as games director Tuesday.

Smith graduated from K-State in 1955 with a degree in physical education. Following graduation, he served two years in the Air Force.

The new Games manager attended K-State on a basketball scholarship and was on the varsity from 1952 to 1953. During his senior year he was voted most inspirational player, but was forced to the bench during much of his senior year because of a knee injury.

"Coming back to Kansas State seems like coming home to me," Smith said. "I like my job, but it will probably be some time before I know exactly what my duties are."

Jim plans to begin work on a master's degree in education next semester. "This job at the Union will provide valuable experience as well as giving me information I can use while working for my master's degree," Smith said.

Brainerd, Minn., is his home town. While attending K-State, Smith was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Seventeen Campus Coeds Vie for 1958 RP Queen

One of 17 K-State co-eds will be crowned 1958 Royal Purple Queen at the Stan Kenton dance in the Union ballroom Saturday. Band leader Kenton, who is the contest judge, will perform the crowning ceremony at 10:15 p.m. during the dance intermission.

Kenton will give a concert in the College auditorium at 7:30 p.m. and the dance is to begin at 9 p.m.

The queen and three attendants, representing their respective sororities and dormitories, will be selected on the basis of photographs sent to Kenton.

This is the 43rd annual year-book queen contest for K-State in a colorful series that dates back to 1916. During these past 43 years the queen has been selected in many different ways and has reigned under many different titles.

During the early years the queens were referred to as Beauties, Joans, Aggie Girls, Kansas Girls, and Popularity Queens among others. It was not until 1933 that the title Royal Purple Beauty Queen began to be used.

There is no definite information given in the old annuals as to how the early queens were chosen. But C. J. Medlin, Royal Purple faculty adviser, said that those students who purchased the yearbooks in advance were given the right to vote for a queen candidate.

The first selection by a judge was made by Florenz Ziegfeld, producer of the famed Ziegfeld Follies, in 1925. Since that time such noted personalities as Cecil B. DeMille, Don Ameche, Errol Flynn, Bing Crosby, Dick Powell, and Cary Grant have chosen the queen.

Not all of the RP queens and attendants have been picked by distinguished individuals or student vote, however.

According to the 1930 RP the "Most Beautiful K-State Women were chosen by the members of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity who study diligently at the Oregon State college at Corvallis."

Traffic Appeals Board Declares Three Guilty

The Traffic Appeals board judged three students guilty and one not guilty of violating campus traffic rules at its meeting yesterday in the Union.

Gloria Zoeller, Eng Jr, received a traffic ticket for parking her car in a staff parking stall in the center section of the Union parking lot. She explained that she had not noticed the stenciling on the stall curbing. The board declared her guilty after hearing her appeal.

Terry Lee, ME Jr, was judged guilty of parking in a staff stall in the Union parking lot. Lee said that he had paid no attention to the recent stenciling of stall curbing in the center section of the parking lot.

Jim Vader, BA Soph, appealed his ticket received for parking in an area not designated as a parking lot. He explained to the board that he had hurriedly parked his car north of Dickens hall in an effort to keep an appointment. The area was not designated as a parking lot, nor was there a sign stating that parking in the area was prohibited, according to Vader. He was declared guilty of a traffic violation.

Marion Hinshaw, EE Jr, appealed a traffic ticket received when his car was parked in a staff parking stall in the Union parking lot. Hinshaw said that his car was parked in the center section of the lot in a stall which had not been stenciled.

He explained to board members that the particular stall had not been stenciled because it had been occupied the day the stenciling was being done by a car which was locked, prohibiting the moving of the vehicle. Hinshaw was judged not guilty.

Yule Vespers To Be Given By KS Choir

The K-State department of music will present the annual Christmas Vespers Sunday, December 8, at 3 p.m. in the College auditorium.

The program will consist of numbers by Marion Pelton, assistant professor of organ and music and the K-State College A Cappella choir under the direction of William R. Fischer, assistant professor of music. Miss Pelton will begin the program with an Organ Prelude "Rhapsody on Christmas Themes" by Gigout.

Satellite Launching Postponed Again; Fuel Valve, High Winds Are Blamed

Compiled from United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—A weary Vanguard missile crew today blamed a leaking fuel valve and wild winds aground and aloft for their failure to launch an earth satellite last night.

But the crewmen will get a full day to iron out the kinks in their space machine and get some rest.

J. Paul Walsh, deputy director of the Vanguard project, announced flatly early this morning that there would be no test during the day.

Walsh held a midnight press conference after yesterday's scheduled firing of the Vanguard, a six-inch aluminum moon already operative in its nose, was postponed. The postponement came at 9:40 p.m. (CST) and followed a "disheartening" period of delay encountered by the test crew, which at one point within 50 minutes of firing time.

The originally scheduled getaway time was 4 p.m., but hour after hour the launching was set further back until finally it was called off.

Walsh said the Navy would ask the Air Force missile range today for a new firing schedule, but the requested time would not be earlier than Friday.

Missile firings—Vanguard or otherwise—do not usually occur on Saturday or Sundays, but it was indicated the Vanguard could be fired during the weekend if it becomes necessary and if conditions are right.

Russia Launches Atomic Ship

Moscow—Russia today launched the world's first atomic surface vessel, the 16,000-ton icebreaker Lenin.

The ship was put into the water at Leningrad, the official Soviet news agency TASS announced.

It said the ship would have a speed of 32 kilometers an hour (about 20 miles an hour) "in unobstructed waters."

"The ship will be easy to steer and will be capable of breaking ice two meters (six feet) thick," the announcement said.

The Lenin is the first atomic-powered surface vessel. However, the United States has two nuclear powered submarines, the Nautilus and the Sea Wolf.

The keel for the first U.S. atomic-powered surface vessel was laid last Monday at the Fore River shipyard of the Bethlehem Steel Corp., at Quincy, Mass. The vessel is not expected to be completed until 1961.

TASS said "over 500 factories helped manufacture the ship's machinery. The power of the ship's engines is estimated at 44,000 horsepower."

"The trans-Arctic atomic icebreaker will be able to remain at sea for several months," it said. "In 24 hours it will use only a few tenths of grams of its atomic fuel."

Convention United Against Teamsters

Atlantic City, N.J.—The AFL-CIO begins its third year today apparently united on throwing out its largest affiliate, the Teamsters union, on corruption charges.

About 1,200 delegates opened the federation's second convention this morning. The vast majority seemed willing to follow AFL-CIO President George Meany's advice to expel the Teamsters.

Meany said yesterday he would not advocate expulsion of the 1,500,000-member truck union if James R. Hoffa, major target of AFL-CIO corruption charges, would step aside as president-elect.

Hoffa, now on trial on wiretapping charges in New York and defending a Washington court action to void his election has repeatedly refused to resign despite threats of ouster of his union.

The convention plans to vote on the Teamsters' expulsion tomorrow afternoon.

Slavs, Poles, Boycott Red Publication

Both Yugoslavia and Poland apparently have decided to boycott a proposed new international Communist publication.

Dispatches from Eastern Europe say that plans to start the publication were approved at the recent conference in Moscow of Red leaders from all over the world.

It would be sponsored by Communist parties in free countries as well as in those under Communist rule.

The publication would be a weak propaganda substitute for the old Communist international and the Communist information bureau.

Soviet Russia failed in an attempt to win support for a bid to form a new international Communist organization, which it would have sought to dominate.

Both President Tito of Yugoslavia and Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland were among those who refused to agree to the setting up of any such organization.

Now both Tito and Gomulka seem to have refused to take any part in the new propaganda publication.

The reason is that the material used in the new publication naturally would be bitterly anti-western. Neither Tito nor Gomulka wants to lend his name to anything of that sort and risk antagonizing the United States.

that the total effect will be a positive, contributory one and will bring credit to the school."

So NOW THERE IS a student Gestapo which has the authority, though maybe not the power, to review any athletically connected activity which it did not originally sponsor.

Though the basic philosophy behind such a committee is good, there is now an opportunity to stifle much of the halftime stunts which were spontaneous and clever. Control and review is a good thing most of the time, but through wrong use, it can have the effect of smothering new ideas.

Student committees in the past have been extremely jealous of the power vested in them. Generally if the committee sees some group trying to go over its head, it becomes spiteful and and seeks immediately to regain control.

IN THE ENSUING FIGHT between committee and organization, the idea for the half time or pre-game stunt will be lost.

But, you say, there are also non-students on this standing committee. Well, they will help the student members to be wise and consistent. Perhaps their help will be such that eventually they will be making all the decisions.

The games and rallies idea arose from the mishandling of the 1957 Homecoming festivities. A proposed Games and Rallies committee rushed in at the last moment and announced that it'd pay the rent and save Homecoming. The proposed group thereupon announced that winners of the house decorations would be announced at a Friday-before-Homecoming pep rally.

The IFC and Panhellenic council, perennial handlers of the decorations judging, put the stops to that, and the winners weren't announced at the pep rally. Result: a standing SGA committee for the organization of all activities pertaining to pre-game, half time, and post-game activities.

SO ANOTHER ROADBLOCK to initiative has been erected. By the time an organization goes through the Dean of Men's office, the Student Activities board, and the Games and Rallies committee, the game has been played and the season is over.

But, and here is the big "if" that appears in everything, if the Games and Rallies committee will tackle its responsibilities with vigor and a collective open mind, it will surely be a credit to Kansas State. Lord knows K-State needs some co-ordination of some kind to pep up pep rallies.—Roger Myers.

Student Council Establishes New Standing Committee

Student Council established the Games and Rallies committee as a standing Student Governing association committee at the last Council meeting.

A need for better organization of pre-game, half-time, and post-game activities, and rallies connected with athletic events brought about development of this committee.

Jurisdiction of the Games and Rallies committee will pertain to activities, rather than to organizations or individuals. It will serve as a co-ordinating body rather than a controlling body. However, when any group or individual moves into the Games and Rallies' area of responsibility, the committee will have final authority over them.

Council designated 12 persons as permanent members of the committee. They are head cheerleader, president of Purple Pepsters, president of Whi-Purs, president of Wampus Cats, president of the student body, chairman of the Flash Card section, representative of Alpha Phi Omega, head of the Athletic department, Athletic Ticket manager, head of sports publicity, band director, and program director.

Other temporary members will be appointed throughout the year when their responsibilities pertain to a specific game or rally, according to Neil Scott, Soc Sr, student body president.

The chairman and secretary will be elected from student members of the committee, excluding the student body president.

"The Games and Rallies committee is something that has been needed for a long time," says Ollie White, program director. "It should be able to effect a well co-ordinated program of activities which will add color to games and rallies, and stimulate interest in them."

Jean Hedlund, band director, comments that the committee will unify the efforts of a large number of student groups. "It will also help me personally in co-ordinating my work with the band with other groups," he said.

Council also established a Faculty Evaluation committee composed of three members to evaluate courses on the campus according to their value to students. Members of the committee have not been selected yet. A faculty member may be added to the committee later, Scott said.

Mortuary Science Is Offered at KU

By UNITED PRESS

The creation of a Department of Mortuary Science by the University of Kansas starting in January and the appointment of Paul R. Keenan, former Dean of the Canadian School of Embalming, to direct the program was announced today by Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy.

The new program, initiated with a special appropriation from the Legislature, will be under the joint sponsorship of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, School of Medicine, University University Extension and the Kansas Funeral Directors Association.

Classes will be conducted in Wahl hall at the University Medical Center in Kansas City.

KU will be the fourth university in the United States to offer a Mortuary Science Department. The other three are Minnesota university, Wayne university in Detroit, and Temple university in Philadelphia.

Graduates Must Rent Gowns by December 20

All seniors planning to graduate in January must make arrangements for their caps and gowns at the Campus Book store by December 20, according to Robert A. Anderson, assistant director of admissions and registrar.

The prices for cap and gown rentals are $3.60 for those receiving Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Arts degrees, $8 for Master's degrees, and $9.85 for Doctor's degrees. They should be picked up at the book store a few days before graduation and returned the following day. A 50 cent refund will be given for tassels returned.

Applications for degrees must also be made 30 days prior to graduation," Anderson said. "Graduating seniors who haven't received a graduation check sheet should stop in the Registrar's office so their names can be put on the list."

Sneaky Pledges Chicken Out

"SNEAKING" OUT EARLY yesterday afternoon for chicken dinner in Junction City, Gamma Phi Beta pledges kidnapped Judy Stover, pledge trainer. Judy Willis and Gwen Bourquin (in car) watch as Miss Stover is pushed into the car by Barbara Schrader, Pat Vycital, and Pat Farrow. This wasn't the only prank the pledges played. They brought actives' pajamas to the Delt house, turned the silverware over to the Tekes, gave the houseboys and cooks the evening off, and instructed the DU's to deliver dog food to the Gamma Phi actives at supertime!

Make It A Musical Christmas This Year

YEO & TRUBEY

Oboyoboy! It's Time for That Fat, Jolly Fellow

Maybe I'll get a new one.

By SHARON TOTTEN
Yep, Christmas is rolling around again and kids all over are gleefully awaiting the arrival of that fat, jolly fellow called Santa Claus. Of course every cheery cherub and even the grimy urchins are on good behavior from now until Christmas morning, when they can again be themselves. For Christmas Eve is the time when that red-suited, bewhiskered space traveler arrives with a pack full of toys and goodies.

And on the K-State campus, many parents slave away over college textbooks while their children slave away over that all-important letter to Santa Claus. While Dad wracks his brain trying to think of the best way to convince his professor that he should pass, junior wracks his brain trying to think of the best way to convince Santa Claus that he should have a space helmet for Christmas. While Mom searches for Christmas dinner menus, Susie searches for Santa Claus snack menus.

Ugh! Hope Santa brings me a crane!

Don't worry, Santa. I'll chain him this year!

Jardine Terrace
Dear Santa Claus,
I've been very good this year. Please bring me a space helmet and a puppy.
Thank you for the train.
Please bring Professor Grump a great big bottle of bourbon so he will be happy and pass my daddy.
Your Friend, Mike

A red one, please?

Sure I been a good girl.

Pfeifer Leads Wildcats In Final 1957 Statistics

Senior halfback Ralph Pfeifer led the 1957 Wildcats in two departments and was second in two other departments in the final grid statistics.

Pfeifer, all-Big Eight selection this year, led the Cat gridsters in rushing with 468 yards in 115 carries for a 4.1 average. He also led the team in scoring with four touchdowns for 24 points.

Pfeifer finished second to end Jim Luzinski in pass receiving. Luzinski caught 9 passes for 117 yards while Pfeifer caught 11 for 109 yards.

In punt returns, halfback Ben Grosse was first with two returns for 50 yards with Pfeifer returning two for 43 yards.

In other departments, Dick Corbin was the top passer with 24 completions for 286 yards and Dick Allen led the gridsters with two kicks averaging 40 yards.

Rainsberger MU All-Star

On Missouri's all-opponent 1957 grid team was the repeat selection of Ellis Rainsberger, K-State center, who was a two-to-one choice over Sooner Bob Harrison. Rainsberger also was named to the Bengals' 1955 all-opponent team at guard. He won a freshman football numeral at Missouri in 1950.

The Tigers' all-opponent team for 1957:

Ends John Tracey, Texas A&M, and Jim Letcavits, Kansas; tackles Charles Krueger, Texas A&M, and Doyle Jennings, Oklahoma; guards John Wooten, Colorado, and Bill Krisher, Oklahoma; center Ellis Rainsberger, K-State; quarterback Roddy Osborne, Texas A&M; halfbacks Bob Stransky, Colorado, and Phil King, Vanderbilt; and fullback Homer Floyd, Kansas.

IM Cagers Resume Action

Intramural basketball play resumed last night with six independent games and three fraternity games on the slate.

In fraternity action the Sigma Chi's ran over Delta Sigma Phi, 38-13. The halftime score was 27-2. Jim Shields of Sigma Chi was the game high scorer with eight counters.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, with a 12 point contribution by George Laddish, downed Alpha Gamma Rho, 30-22.

Bob Turley hit 18 points to pace Sigma Nu to a 32-19 victory over Theta Xi.

In the independent division West Stadium continued its winning ways with a 48-16 rout of the River Rats. Duane Shaw bagged 14 for the winners.

In the lowest scoring game so far this year, Acropolis downed the Coffey Grinders, 8-5.

Sigma Phi Nothing stopped the Five E's, 29-23.

The Rebels won over the Raiders by a 35-27 count with Ron McCutcheon sparking the Rebel attack with 11 points.

Darrell Rosenow hit for 12 points as he led his YMCA teammates to a 28-21 victory over the Outlaws.

The Vets, through the combined efforts of Wes Wilkinson and Jerold Darold defeated the Flu Flu Five, 27-18.

Carlson Most Inspiring; Meier New Grid Captain

Wally Carlson was named "most inspirational player" of the 1957 K-State football team last night at the annual football recognition banquet in the Student Union.

Named as team captain for next season was Gene Meier, junior guard, who was a starter this year.

Lynn Waldorf, former K-State and California grid coach, was the featured speaker. He talked about football when he was at K-State and told of the rewards of competition.

Thirty-two K-State football lettermen were announced at the banquet.

Andy Stewart, Davenport, Iowa; Jaydee Stinson, Lawrence; Tony Tiro, Chelsea, Mass.; Joe Vader, Kansas City; George Whitney, Topeka; Keith Wilson, Birmingham, Ala.; and Don Zadnik, Cleveland, Ohio.

Pfeifer in Blue-Gray Game

Ralph Pfeifer, K-State's leading ground gainer and scorer this past grid season, has been named to play for the Blue squad in the annual Blue-Gray football classic at Montgomery, Ala., December 28.

Pfeifer, who ran up a total of 468 yards rushing for the Wildcats this season, will play offensive left halfback for the Blue squad. He was invited by Don Faurot, Missouri athletic director and one of the coaches for the North team.

A three-season letterman at K-State, Pfeifer averaged 4.1 yards a carry this past season and caught 11 passes for 100 yards. He was leading 'Cat scorer with 24 points. He is 6-0 and weighs 196 pounds.

Pfeifer will join the Blue squad December 21 at Montgomery for training and pre-game activities. The latter include a dinner-dance for both squads, December 21, a Christmas party for both, December 25, and tours of the surrounding area.

Game participants receive gold footballs and game jackets in addition to all expenses. They also receive an all-expense trip to the bowl game of their choice on New Year's Day.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"I looked at all the angles"

Howard R. Winter, B.B.A., Texas A. & M., '51, is now a Commercial Manager with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Houston, Texas. He's in charge of 30,000 telephone accounts and a staff of 36 people.

Howard's interest in a telephone career dates from his first interview with a telephone company representative. "I looked at all the angles," he says. "We discussed pay and chances for advancement, which looked excellent because of the rapid growth of the Bell System. We talked about many different kinds of work, and about what would be expected of me."

After receiving his degree in business administration, Howard joined Southwestern Bell's Commercial Department. "It was natural for me," he says. "I have a business background, I like to sell and make contacts."

"My training gave me a really solid foundation in the business. Two years in the Army interrupted it, by the way, but the two years were credited to my telephone company records and count toward all benefits. After I'd returned and finished my training, I was made a business office supervisor. And since February, 1956, I've been a Commercial Manager in Houston. Each assignment I've had has been a real challenge and has presented a tremendous opportunity to contribute to and advance in the business."

Be sure to investigate the career opportunities for you in the 17 Bell Telephone Companies serving all 48 states. On your campus the local company represents the others. For more information about these career opportunities, read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office, or write for "Challenge and Opportunity" to: College Employment Supervisor, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., 195 Broadway, New York 7, New York.

Students May Apply for KS Directory Manager

K-State students can now apply at the Student Government Association desk in the Union Activities Center for the position of student manager of the 1958-59 Student Directory, according to Warren Keegan, Ec Sr, chairman of Campus Industries. Applications will close December 11.

Campus Industries, authorized by Student Council to select a manager for the directory, was also given permission by the Council to help the manager sell advertisement for the directory.

The advertising manager will receive a progressive commission rate, Keegan said. Up to and inclusive of $2,000, he will receive a straight 10 per cent commission. For each additional $100 over $2,000, the manager will receive an additional 1 per cent increase in remuneration up to 20 per cent.

"This year the ad man should not have any trouble selling $2,000 of advertising," Keegan said. "Melvin Schwartz, ME Sr, last year's manager, made a complete report of the advertising campaign he carried on last year."

Borden Award

Carol Ward, HEJ Sr, was recently announced as recipient of the $300 Borden award for 1957.

The scholarship, which goes annually to the home economics student having the highest grade average at the conclusion of her junior year and who has taken two advanced foods courses, was announced by Mrs. Doretta Hoffman, dean of home economics at K-State.

Miss Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Ward, 6310 Verona Road, Kansas City, had a 2.4 grade average for her first three years at K-State. She received Phi Kappa Phi freshman recognition and sophomore honors.

She has been secretary-treasurer of Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honorary; vice president of the home economics journalism club; a member of the staffs of the Kansas State Agricultural Student and the K-State Collegian; co-publicity chairman for Hospitality Days; and is a member of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary.

Debate Tournament

Four K-State students will debate the right to work issue at the Iowa university tournament at Iowa City, December 6 and 7, according to Dr. Charles Goetzinger, assistant professor of speech.

Sharon Nuttle, PrL Soph, and Pat Trent, BMT Soph, will take the negative side of the issue, and Jim Shane, His So, and Mary Ruth Hall, ML Jr, will debate the affirmative.

Public Relations Committee

Ten students have been appointed subcommittee members of the Public Relations committee of the Student Governing association.

SGA and Campus Relations subcommittee: Jim Lisher, Ec Soph; Bob Blackwelder, AgE Soph; Nora Crocker, SED Soph; and Marsha Hesler, BMT Sr.

SGA and Public Relations subcommittee: Joanne Taylor, EEd Soph; George Doss, ML Fr; and John Nelson, BAA Fr.

General Publicity subcommittee: Irene Mangelsdorf, EEd Imogene Lamb, TJ Soph; and Jim Meeks, NE Fr.

Union Movie

"The Pearl" is the movie scheduled for the weekend at the Union little theater. The movie will be shown at 7:30 Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings. Admission is 25 cents a person.

Indian Exhibit

Indian students are presenting a program showing various phases of Indian culture tonight at 7:30 in the Union little theater to which all interested persons are invited to attend.

Costumes worn by Indians will be modeled. Dances and music native to India will also be demonstrated and played. The program is the first of its kind at K-State and is given to acquaint Americans with cultural traditions of India.

An exhibit of jewelry, ivory carvings, and fabrics is on display in the main lobby of the Union in connection with the program.

Y-Orpheum Entries Due In Activity Center Today

Y-Orpheum entry blanks should be turned in to the Student Union Activities Center by 5 p.m. today, according to Bob Hofmann, Y-Orpheum producer and chairman of the Y-Orpheum committee.

Y-Orpheum is scheduled for March 28. Script finalists will be announced February 1.

The production is not just for Greeks. All organized houses are encouraged to enter," Hofmann said.

There will be a general meeting of house directors December 12 to discuss what will be expected in the scripts. A synopsis of each script will be due December 16.

Scripts must be submitted to James L. Rosenberg, assistant professor of English, by January 6 for criticism. Rosenberg will serve as consultant for script writers, but he will not judge the scripts. He will return the scripts to the houses on January 9 for final polishing, according to Hofmann.

The deadline for revised scripts to be returned is noon, January 18. They will be checked for missing pages and other mistakes, and will be returned to the houses that evening, said Hofmann.

The final script deadline is Sunday, January 19. Judges to select the winning scripts will be announced after the final deadline.

The scripts will be coded so that only the producer and assistant producer will be able to identify them with the houses, Hofmann said.

Hofmann explained that the length of time allowed for revision of the scripts and the opportunity of having constructive criticism this year, should result in better finished products.

This year entries in Y-Orpheum will be divided into three divisions—men's, women's, and combined. A combined entry will consist of one fraternity and one sorority working together on the same stunt.

Duplicate trophies will be awarded to the combined entry winners, Hofmann said.

CI Considers Crafts Plan

Campus Industries is considering installing a crafts program in the Union, according to Warren Keegan, Ec Sr, chairman of the Campus Industries committee.

Campus Industries is corresponding with Ohio State university, which has a similar program. The committee will submit a proposal to Student Council concerning the idea when it feels enough information has been obtained.

The committee is sending a letter to the national office of Curtis Circulation company asking them to send a representative to Campus Industries. A proposal to sell magazines for the company was accepted by the committee.

Seniors' Voting To End

Seniors can vote for the 1957-58 senior class officers until 5 p.m. today. Polls are open in Anderson hall and the Union.

Results of the election will be announced in the Collegian Monday.

Eight Depart Tuesday For SCONA Meeting

Eight K-State students will leave Tuesday for the third Student Conference on National Affairs at Texas A&M December 11-14.

They will join approximately

Panhel Discusses House Decorations

Suggested changes for future Homecoming house decorations were discussed at a meeting of Panhellenic council last night.

Janell Farrell, TxC Sr, Panhellenic president, reported a suggestion that the organized houses set up their decorations in a central location, possibly the city park.

This would relieve traffic congestion while the displays are in operation.

The decorations would be of a specified size with no moving parts to cut out some of the work and expense.

Blocking off the streets so on-lookers would have to walk by the houses was also suggested.

Proposed changes in the present decoration judging rules were presented by Emily Douthitt, EEd Jr, member of the Student Council Homecoming committee.

The committee suggested changing the completion time for the decorations from 6:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. and the movement sequence from 30 seconds to 45 seconds, and revising the score sheet. The theme also would be turned in with the application.

Panhellenic council and Interfraternity council will jointly entertain the College foreign students, who are unmarried undergraduates, at a Christmas dinner party December 16 in the Union, according to a decision made at the meeting.

Union Gets Christmas Spirit

By KATHY SCHULTIS

Step into the Union and step into a world of Christmas carols! Union committee chairmen, sub-chairmen, and committee members decorated the Union last night for the Christmas season.

Christmas carols is the theme of the decorations, according to Barbara Ericson, BA Sr, chairman of the Hospitality committee. Each Union committee is responsible for decorating a different part of the Union.

"O Come All Ye Faithful" is the holiday invitation to the State room, while "Joy to the World" will be pictured in the dive. "Frosty the Snowman" will make his appearance in the games area.

The main lounge will reflect the thoughts of many students who say, "I'll Be Home for Christmas." Union personnel extend a special holiday greeting to all by saying, "Merry Christmas to You," through decorations in the activities center.

Students are invited to step into the ballroom, truly a "Winter Wonderland," before heading home for the holidays.

Religious scenes will be painted on various windows in the Union. Windows overlooking the southwest balcony will depict "Silent Night" and the expanse of glass facing the stairs on the north side of the building will reflect "Oh Holy Night."

"Hark the Herald Angels

Sing," is the expression of the main lounge and the art lounge will be decorated to the theme of "Away in a Manger."

A SQUIRT and a squish, and another Christmas stencil goes up in the Union. Dave Thomas, Bob Byers, and Bob Smith, all sub-committee members, apply the finishing touches.

New SC Meeting Place Lets More Guests Attend

To enable more students to sit in on Student Council meetings and exercise their rights as members of the Student Governing association, Council will meet in a larger room, SU 207, starting Monday night. Council meetings begin at 7 p.m.

Student Council has always had open meetings, but because of the shortage of seating space in the former meeting place, 205, room for guests has been limited.

The move to larger quarters is the first major project of the newly formed SGA Public Relations committee.

Don Smith, IE Sr, chairman of the committee, feels that "All students will have the opportunity to learn the functions of Student Council and to voice opinions on controversial issues confronting Council."

"Attending Student Council meetings should make students not presently working in any phase of student government more familiar with the governing body and over-all governing structure," Smith said.

Auditions Are Tuesday For Big 4 Talent Show

Students wishing to audition for the Big Four talent show, to be held February 13, or for the KSC talent show, to be scheduled later, are invited to participate in a general audition Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Union ballroom.

All persons interested in emcee jobs are also invited to participate in the audition Tuesday.

The audition will also serve to fill the booking agency files of the Campus Entertainment committee, according to Larry Foulke, NE Jr, chairman of the committee.

The Return of the Native, Less Razor, from Yukon Wilds

By CHARLENE STRAH

WITH A SIX-MONTH GROWTH of beard and a mustach, John Trachsel appeared on the K-State campus this week to retrieve the car that left him stranded in Alaska.

The beard is the result of five months spent at Excursion Inlet, 80 miles north of Juneau, Alaska. "Two weeks after I got there my razor wouldn't work and, since there was only one store on the inlet, I thought it would be easier not to shave," Trachsel explained.

He made the trip in his 1950 Plymouth with two Acacia fraternity brothers, Jack Kochner, Psy Jr, and Denny Bassett, AE Jr—but was not with them on the return trip.

"BEFORE WE LEFT the 'Spirit of Acacia' was painted on the trunk of the car. The only person who even seemed to notice it was a proprietor in Haines, Alaska, who was a former Kansan. He told me he was sure he should know where Acacia, Kansas, was," Trachsel laughed.

After spending the summer of 1956 near Anchorage he tried the Southeast part for better luck—and found it last summer. "I made $2 the first summer, but I did very well this year," he said.

Since jobs were hard to find, Trachsel left the group in Juneau to work in a salmon cannery on the Inlet, while Kochner and Bassett secured summer jobs washing dishes and doing construction work.

Trachsel was to meet the two in Seattle at the end of August, but he decided to stay on the Inlet for the remainder of the salmon season. When he got to Seattle two months later, his car was not there. He called his former companions only to find that they had driven it back to Kansas, and he would have to make the trip by train—he had only $1.50 in his pocket. (Bassett and Kochner only recently learned that he made it back.)

BEFORE LEAVING ALASKA, Trachsel had sent his earnings ahead and went by boat to Seattle, cooking for the six-man crew aboard a rescue craft carrying salmon eggs. He worked HAIRLESS JOHN TRACHSEL, who expects to enroll again at K-State next semester as a BA Sr, drove his car to Alaska last summer with two fraternity brothers. The fraternity brothers were back in school this semester—and so was John's car. But John wasn't—'til now.

unloading the boat in Seattle to earn enough money to return to his home in Goodland.

"I didn't even have a nail in my pocket when I was hired as a carpenter's helper on the beach gang of the cannery," Trachsel said.

John wouldn't have had much time to shave anyway as he was on 24 hour call and at one time worked for 60 hours, with only two hours off, pitching fish from boats to an elevator. (He was the only one of five beach workers to last through the busy season.)

His surroundings on the isolated Inlet were about 100 cannery workers and their families, with one combined lodge and general store.

"THIS WAS A WONDERFUL season," he said. The cannery processed and packed 130,000 cases of salmon at $25 a case this year to double its nearest competitor and its catch of last year.

"I used to like salmon but I have lost my desire to eat salmon and to go fishing," he admitted.

Trachsel said that he would like to go on another adventure before he enrolls at K-State as a senior in business administration next semester. He plans to do farm work at Goodland and wants to take a trip to Mexico.

"I don't know how long I will keep my beard," he said, "maybe forever—and try for the penny" (like Abraham Lincoln).

Colorado U Students Seem To Have Forsaken Mr. Chips; Buffalo Mascot Banished from CU Campus 'Til Spring

By Sharon Totten

COLORADO UNIVERSITY STUDENTS apparently have little interest in their buffalo mascot, Mr. Chips. He has been banished from the campus until next spring.

The University Student committee in charge of the buffalo hopes to have the mascot "100 per cent domesticated" by spring, so that he can be led around by a rope. Students have shown only indifference to the buffalo in his two previous appearances when he was toted around in a truck.

A buffalo head presented to Mortar Board and Heart and Dagger, senior honoraries, at the Colorado-Nebraska game this fall, in recognition of Colorado's winning the game between the two teams last year, is still residing in the back of a truck behind the Sigma Nu house at Nebraska.

It seems no one cares enough about it to go and get it.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST EVENTS on the University of Oregon campus occurred last week. A publication called the Pigger's guide went on sale.

This publication, according to the Oregon Daily Emerald, is just full of invaluable social contacts. "In this day and age, it's a bargain that can't be topped anywhere," says the Emerald.

Here's a new one. Students at Iowa State college have dreamed up a new queen contest. They are calling this one the Bomb Beauty. Wonder what the qualifications are.

MEMBERS OF TWO University of Oregon sororities awoke one morning last week to find their front doors missing . . . but things could have gotten worse, and they did.

Coeds who were sleeping on the second floor of another sorority house were awakened by fire crackers set off by a male intruder who entered through a second-floor window. This scoundrel left by way of the front door taking a dinner bell and a wood carrier with him.

One of the sorority houses recovered its door the following day but the other was left doorless for several days. According to the Oregon university dean of men, the culprits have not yet been caught. He reported that the Intrafraternity council will take up the matter.

Readers' Forum

To the Editor:

We have, of late, become ardent admirers of the Student Council's valiant attempt to co-ordinate student activities. We have, however, noticed one discrepancy in the efforts of the Council which we should like to point out at this time.

We should like to suggest that the Student Council set up a committee to investigate subversive activity. Of course, once the Council discovers that subversive activity exists, it will probably be necessary to set up a coordinating committee. This committee should have the power to suggest to the Council measures which will assure no overlapping in the activities of these subversive organizations. It would detract from the activities program, for example, if the Communists and the Fascists were trying to infiltrate union committees at the same time. This would be a clear duplication of services.

We have, of course, heard the charge that all these efforts on the part of the Council to co-ordinate activities is really "creeping socialism." But inasmuch as "creeping socialism is necessarily subversive, the Council could control this by co-ordinating these subversive activities.

We call upon our senior co-ordinating body, the Student Council, to perform this vital co-ordinating service in this co-ordinating scheme of co-ordinated confusion.

KS Union Committees Plan Pre-Christmas Fun, Goodies

Christmas parties have been planned for K-Staters by the Union Music Library and Coffee Hours committees, the chairmen of the two committees reported to Union Program council members last night.

Reports from other Union committee chairmen concerning committee activities were also given during the meeting.

"Rig a Twig," a tree trimming party sponsored by the Coffee Hours committee, is scheduled for December 18 from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in the Union main lounge. Each organized house has been invited to make an ornament for the tree to be decorated. The trimmed tree will be given to Mrs. James A. McCain, during the party.

Entertainment for the party will consist of group singing led by Don Wilbur, BPM Soph; the reading "Eloise at Christmas," given by Clenece Roberts, Sp Soph; and a skit presented by the Campus Entertainment committee. Santa Claus will be present to hand out treats. Hot punch and cookies will also be served.

The Music Library committee is inviting all students to a Christmas party December 16 in the Union music library at 3 p.m. Entertainment has been planned and refreshments will be served, according to Virginia Taylor, SED Soph, chairman of the committee.

Rosalyn Rowell, Soc Sr, reported that the Movies committee is sponsoring two children's Christmas parties December 14 in the Union little theater.

Ag Teams Rank High In International Meet

Three K-State judging teams placed among the top three teams at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago this week. The meats and poultry team each placed second and the crops team placed third.

The meats team, coached by Robert Merkel, assistant professor of Animal Husbandry was only three points behind first place Wisconsin university. The team scored 2,679 points to 2,682 points for the winners.

Fred Toplikar, AEd Sr, was second high individual in the entire meat contest, and was second in lamb and pork judging. Charles Michaels, AEd Sr, was sixth high individual.

The other team member was Harry Todd, AH Jr. Allen Fort, AEd Sr, and Darwin Francis, AH Sr, were alternates.

The poultry team, coached by Ray Morrison, instructor in poultry husbandry, placed second behind Texas A and M college. Loyd Vernon, PH Sr, was third high individual in the contest; Jack Kersting, AEd Sr, eighth; and Clinton Russell, AEd Sr, sixteenth.

Vernon was elected president of the National Collegiate Poultry club at a convention held in conjunction with the international.

The crops team lacked only 22 points of placing first in its contest. Finishing with a total of 5,020 points the team placed behind Oklahoma State university which had 5,041 points and Texas Technological college, which had 5,033 points.

In individual ratings in the crops contest Max Ulrich, TA Sr, was third high man; Jack Kersting, AEd Sr, ninth; and Jim Beauchamp, TA Jr, eleventh.

AG MAG EDITOR Gary Yeakley, AgJ Sr, admires two plaques awarded to K-State's agricultural magazine, which was picked as tops in the country last year.

K-State's Ag Magazine Judged Tops in Nation

Kansas Ag Student, K-State Ag magazine, was awarded the top recognition in the nation for general excellence at the annual Agriculture College Magazine convention in Columbus, Ohio, recently. With 14 other magazines competing, K-State's placed first.

K-Staters attending the convention were Gary Yeakley, AgJ Sr, editor; Lawrence Odgers, IM Sr, business manager, Don Miller, AgJ Sr, assistant business manager; and Loren Henry, AgJ Jr, assistant editor.

Each of the 14 schools submitted three magazines. The judges based the award on readability, content, and the cover. A rotating plaque, which the magazine has to win three times in a row, was won for the first time by K-State.

"I feel that we had more originality and variety in the magazine along with co-operation and co-ordination from the staff than the other magazines," Yeakley said.

Old Barracks on Way Out

A HOMING PIGEON nesting in the louver of one of the old Elliot court barracks apparently didn't get his eviction notice—or maybe he is just asserting his rights as a fowleus homeownerite. At any rate he was still at home when the barrack was loaded on a truck and moved to make room for the men's dormitory that will soon be constructed on the location.

Work on the removal of 19 barracks in Elliot Court should be completed by December 15, according to A. Thornton Edwards, director of Housing. The National Marketing company of Topeka is razing the old buildings to make way for the new two and one-quarter million dollar men's dormitory which is expected to start being constructed next spring. Bids will be opened sometime in March, Edwards said.

Plans for the 600 men dorms and a dining hall have been completed. One of the dorms and two-thirds of the dining hall are scheduled for completion in the fall of 1960. The rest of the dining hall will be completed the same time as the other dorm.

The dormitories will be six stories high, with 100 men on each floor. Each floor will have its own officers and government. Construction plans for the second dorm have not been made as yet, said Edwards.

Cat Cagers Travel to Indiana In Hopes of Breaking Jinx

K-State's basketball team travels to Indiana Saturday with hopes of breaking the spell Bloomington has on the Cats. K-State has lost five straight games at Indiana's fieldhouse, four of them by 20 or more points.

Last time Coach Tex Winter could rally his troops for the battle it turned out 96-72 with Indiana never in doubt of the outcome. In 1953 the Hoosiers took a 26-point win; in 1948 it was 20 points; and back in 1936—in the first of the scraps—it was worst of all at 27 points.

The four wins K-State has been able to salvage from the 10-game series have all come outside of Bloomington. The annual home-and-home series started in 1950 with the inauguration of K-

State's Ahearn fieldhouse.

The yearly game probably has served up more basketball thrills than any other non-conference scrap on the Wildcat docket. Typical of earlier games was last year's overtime battle at Manhattan in which the Cats scrambled to an 84-77 decision after the score was knotted 73-73 at the end of regulation play.

Although they were upset, 76-68, by Ohio U. last Monday, the Hoosiers rate at least as strong as last season when they shared the Big Ten crown with Michigan State. Archie Dees, 6-8 forward and center, is back to lead the scoring. He led Big Ten point-makers with 25 points a game last season, and was voted the loop's most valuable player.

Dees, who ran at center all the way last year, has been scooted to forward to make room for sophomore Frank Radovich, 6-7½ standout, at center. Other than Radovich, however, the Hosiers show a veteran lineup. Paired with Dees at the forwards is Jerry Thompson, 6-4½ senior. Starting guards are Pete Obremskey, 6-3 senior, and Gene Flowers, 6-2 junior. That gives Indiana a height average of 6-5, shading K-State's 6-4½ average.

For K-State there seems little reason to change the lineup which started the 76-31 rout of Texas Western last Tuesday. Starters then were forwards Bob Boozer, 6-8 and Hayden Abbott, 6-3, center Jack Parr, 6-9, and guards Roy DeWitz, 6-3, and Don Matuszak, 6-0.

Lane Trades Minoso In New Indian Policy

By UNITED PRESS

Trader Frank Lane, who "stole" Minnie Minoso from the Cleveland Indians seven years ago, has now returned the Cuban hustler to the Tribe in a deal that indicates a new Cleveland pattern.

If there can be an over-emphasis on pitching, the Indians had it for several seasons with their "Big Four," but in Lane's first trade since he shifted on November 12 from general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals to a similar post with Cleveland, he hinted loudly his desire for a better balance between pitching and fast, aggressive play.

In his first deal, Lane sent Early Wynn, Cleveland's veteran right-hander, to the Chicago White Sox along with outfielder Al Smith.

Stormy Baseball Talks End

By UNITED PRESS

The epoch-making minor league convention ended today after one of the stormiest weeks in the history of baseball—and with more turbulence to come.

The embattled owners sparring with a slump that has seen the nation's minor league structure fade from a high of 56 leagues in the early post-war years to 27 for 1958, have threatened to go to court to keep the majors from televising a "Game of the Week" on Sundays.

And the class AA Texas league, tired from a week of wrangling, finally decided that it could do without Shreveport as long as Louisiana had the mixed-racial ban on athletic events.

These are the items that promise trouble ahead.

All settled is "Operation Big Switch"—the realignment of the major and minor league map in United States.

The Giants are set in San Francisco and the Dodgers (ostensibly) are set in Los Angeles.

The Pacific Coast league has added three new cities—Spokane, Wash., Phoenix, Ariz., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

The Pioneer loop, with its key city gone in Salt Lake, may wind up with a six-team league and the best guess is that Twin Falls (Magic Valley, Idaho), may drop out for a year, returning with one other club to make an eight-team circuit in 1959.

The Texas league has won the consent of Bonneau Netters, Shreveport president, to either re-locate the club outside Louisiana or sell it to another owner. And it plans to bring in Mexico City and Monterrey from the Mexican League.

But over the horizon looms the "hoge-man" of baseball—television.

Intramural Scores High In Last Night's Basketball

High scores were the rule in last night's intramural basketball action in Ahearn gym.

The Hobos topped the scoring with a 46-23 win over Kasbah. David Cline led the victors with 14 points while Dirck Praeger was high point man for Kasbah with eight.

The Hillbillies, behind Jack Keelan's 16 points, topped the 1226 Club, 44-26. Jerry Underwood, with 12 points, topped the 1226 Club.

House of Williams overpowered the Spartans, 42-27. Roger Congleton led House of Williams with 11 points.

The Eight Balls edged the Hic Cups 26-23 as Louis Vallis led the winners with nine points.

The Speedsters beat South Jardine, 31-27, with Tom Watkins sinking nine points for the winners.

Hillel won over Disciples Student Fellowship, 25-19. Charles Hahn paced the Hillel with 16 points. Don Foster was high man for DSF with 10.

Frank Rodman scored eight of Newman Club's 19 points as they defeated 375 Club, 19-15.

In the only fraternity division game, Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeated Delta Upsilon 37-19. Leading the Sig Alphas in scoring were Steve French and Jim Allen who scored eight points apiece.

Westminster Foundation edged House of Brec, 23-22. Douglas Erbeck was top man for the victors as he scored nine points.

Delegates Meet Here For Fourth Conclave

Approximately 90 delegates from eight Kansas colleges will be guests of the Roger Williams
Fellowship at the annual Kansas Baptists Student Conference to be held here December 7 and 8.

Ronald Butler, Chm Sr, is president of this conference which is a part of a national Baptist student movement, organized by the American Baptist Convention to promote interest in and awareness of the importance of Christian higher education.

Participating in the convention are Emporia State Teachers College, Kansas University at Lawrence, Ottawa University,
Pittsburg State Teachers College,
Ft. Hays, Kansas State College,
Southwestern at Winfield, Arkansas City Junior College, and Kansas State College.

The topics and adult leaders for the discussion are: the scientific world, Floyd Sloat, assistant professor of mathematics at Kansas State; the social world, the Rev. Dale Turner, minister of education at the Baptist church in Arkansas City; the political world, Roland Pickhardt, university pastor at Kansas University; the spiritual world, Milton Danielson, chairman of the Department of Philosophy and Religion, Ottawa University; the business and professional world, Dr. Paul Young, acting Dean of Arts and Science at Kansas State; and the academic world, Dr. John Raad, Student Secretary of the Iowa Baptist Convention, Cedar Falls, Iowa.

The Kansas division of this national Baptist convention started in 1954 and a Kansas State, graduate, Joe Bayles, was the first president.

SUSPENSION STORY—Chuck Steger, M.E. '52, probing suspension systems, Mr. Polhemus directs Structure and Suspension Development Group of GM's Engineering

Staff, helps guide Chuck in his professional career.

Because engineering is a profession at GM —we offer you a career—not a job

ONE REASON engineering standards at General Motors are so high is that GM recognizes engineering as a profession. And the men who engineer the many different products made by General Motors are respected for the profession they practice.

That is why, when you are invited to join General Motors as an engineer, you don't simply take a job—you start a career.

It is a career that is rewarding both professionally and financially—starting on your first day of association with General Motors at any one of its 35 divisions and 126 plants in 70 cities and 19 states.

During your early days at GM, for example, you work with a senior engineer who guides your career along professional lines.

You are also actively encouraged to pursue your education towards an advanced degree.
For we at General Motors recognize that, in doing so, you will become more valuable to us and the engineering profession.

You are given the opportunity to obtain professional recognition through participation in engineering society forums, presentation of technical papers, winning of patents and other recognition of your accomplishments.

And you are also encouraged to take an active role in your community's affairs—because a truly professional man is a good citizen as well as a good engineer.

All this is for a reason—and a good one.

Many of the men who will fill the key positions at GM in the future are the young engineers joining GM today. This is not theory, it is fact. For 14 of our 33 Vice-Presidents are engineers, 23 of our 42 Division General Managers are engineers, too.

Today we are looking for young engineers—such as you—who may fill these positions tomorrow. The rewards—both professional and financial—are substantial. If you feel you have the ability, write us. It could be the most important letter of your life.

June graduates!

A General Motors Representative will be on hand to answer questions about job opportunities with GM.

Endowment Gets $5,000

The K-State Endowment association received a gift of $5,000 to be added to the investment account of the Muchnic Foundation scholarship program, according to Kenneth M. Heywood, director of Endowment and Development. These scholarships were created primarily to encourage excellent academic work by young men in the Engineering school. Juniors and seniors are eligible for the scholarships.

"This fine gift by a prominent Kansas organization is another demonstration of a growing interest in helping worthy K-State students prepare to take their place in industry and business," Heywood said.

This recent gift brings the scholarship endowment to $15,000 as last year the Foundation made an initial grant of $10,000.

Gordon E. Carlson, EE Sr, is the first recipient of the Muchnic Foundation scholarship.

Integrity Candidates Elected For 3 of 4 Senior Offices

Senior class officers elected Thursday and Friday are Gene O'Connor, PEM Sr, president; Barbara Ericson, BA Sr, vice president; and Nancy Howard, SED Sr, treasurer—Integrity party members; and Joyce Graham, BAA Sr, secretary—United Staters party candidate.

Approximately one-third of the senior class voted in the election. Ballots cast totalled 402. Fourteen of these were thrown out because they violated ballot marking rules.

O'Connor received 233 votes to defeat Dave Nuttle, AH Sr, (USP) who had 103 votes, and John Quinn, CE Sr, write-in candidate with 48 votes in the voting for senior class president.

Votes cast for vice president, Miss Ericson, 161; Marcia Hessler, BMT Sr, (USP) 105; independent candidates Marc Asher, BPM Sr, 74; and James Osborn, Ag Sr, 32; write-in candidates Richard Barrett, CE Sr, 3; Vernon Strahm, CE Sr, 3; Jack Drury, CE Sr, 2; Gene Ismert, Geo Sr, 1; and Melvin Burdorf, CE Sr, 1.

In a close race for secretary, Miss Graham defeated Becky Culpepper, EEd Sr, (Int) by one vote, 188 to 187. Votes for write-in candidates were Stanley Rieb, CE Sr, 2; Tom Bowman, PrL Sr, 1; Kurtz Paulson, CE Sr, 1; and Richard Johnson, NE Sr, 1.

Seniors receiving votes for treasurer were Miss Howard, 121; Terry Turner, AH Sr, (USP) 106; independent candidates Bill Schick Tanz, GA Sr, 83, and Dorothy Craft, EEd Sr, 53; and write-in candidates Frank Green, CE Sr, 3; and Donald Durr, CE Sr, 3.

SC Will Consider Plan for Insurance

Student Council will act tonight on a voluntary health and accident insurance plan for students which has been drawn up by one of the interested insurance companies.

The plan includes a $500 blanket coverage for accidents, a schedule of surgery costs, and provisions for hospitalization and miscellaneous medical expenses.

The plan is entirely voluntary and K-State does not have to have a specified percentage of students enrolled in the plan to keep it in effect.

"We are hoping to have the plan approved and the company designated with a policy drawn up and ready for subscription by the students at enrollment time second semester, Council Chairman Paul Hatfield, AEd Sr, said.

The plan would become effective next fall.

All members of the student body are invited to attend the Council meeting, which is in SU 207, to voice their opinion on adoption of the insurance plan.

Council will also act on recommendations from the Constitutional Revision committee to change the scholarship requirements of candidates for election or appointment in student government.

If the recommendations are adopted, candidates must have a scholastic average of 1.3 instead of C, and the eligibility of candidates will be based on their all-College averages rather than the previous semester's grades.

No 'Mood Indigo' for Emily, Queen of 1958 Royal Purple

By KATHY SCHULTIS

"It's just one of the happiest moments of my life!" exclaimed Emily Mohri, EEd Soph, after Stan Kenton crowned her 1958 Royal Purple queen during the intermission of the Royal Purple ball Friday night in the Union ballroom.

Miss Mohri represented Pi Beta Pi sorority. Attendants were Kaydene Dashen, EEd Soph, Chi Omega; Carol Lala, HEA Soph, Alpha Delta Pi; and Deena Martin, BA Fr, Southeast hall. The queen and her attendants were selected by Kenton from photographs sent him earlier. Miss Mohri was given a bouquet of red roses and attendants were given bouquets of white carnations.

Marcia Boyd, TJ Jr, editor of the 1958 Royal Purple, was in charge of intermission ceremonies. The Nightcaps, a K-State vocal quartet with piano accompaniment, sang several selections before the crowning of the queen.

The Kenton concert and dance were sponsored by the Union Dance committee. Approximately 550 couples attended the Royal Purple Ball, according to Mike Dole, ChE Jr, chairman of the Dance committee. Cost of the Kenton appearance was $2,000, and ticket sales for the concert and dance

La Citadel Gets IOHC's Plaque For 1.42 Grades

La Citadel, men's independent organized house, is the new possessor of the IOHC travelling scholarship plaque, according to Bob McFall, AgE Sr, president of the Independent Organized House council.

The award was made at the IOHC dance Saturday night. Nathan Bolls, Zoo Jr, who represented OK House, last semester's winner, presented the plaque to the winning house. La Citadel had a grade-point average of 1.42 last spring.

MUSIC BY KENTON almost blew the roof off the auditorium Friday night. Kenton and his band presented such standards, as "Love for Sale," "Stompin' at the Savoy," "You and the Night and the Music," "Key Largo," "Everything Happens to Me," and "Laura" at a concert preceding the Royal Purple ball.

concert with his famous theme, "Artistry in Rhythm."

KU Will Have 'Crash Program' In Football—Hutchinson News

Here is a little gem from the December 3, issue of the Hutchinson News which was brought to our attention and we feel bears reprinting. We publish it not as a slam at Kansas university, but rather as food for thought. The item is from the editorial comment column of the News and is headlined "Pressure Is On."—Ed.

"Plans have not yet been worked out for speeding up production of scientists, but at the University of Kansas there apparently will be a crash program to produce better football.

The University has hired Jack Mitchell away from the University of Arkansas, to coach a football team which already stands second in the Big Eight conference, and is expected to better itself.

"The determination at KU is obvious. There have been some outlandish cries for economy, and even some muttering that educational demands will require more and better paid professors.

"Nevertheless, Mitchell comes to Kansas at $15,000 a year which is more than we pay the presidents of Fort Hays, Emporia State, and Pittsburgh State colleges. The good Drs. Cunningham, King, and Axe probably don't know a split-T from the water bucket, which may explain the differential.

"From all reports, young Mitchell is highly proficient in his chosen profession. Considering what's expected of him at KU, and comparing his income to the likes of Bud Wilkinson, he is probably underpaid.

"And the pressure on him will be terrific. Not only must he take the Jayhawks the only logical way they can go from second place, he must also prove himself more valuable to the state, on the basis of pay, than the presidents of our three state teachers colleges."

Smooch Lines Banned To Protect Health of KS Students—for a Fact

MANY OPINIONS, for and against, have been expressed about the ban on smooch lines and many K-Staters wonder if the statement released by Associate Dean of Students Margaret Lahey was the real reason the kissing was banned.

Smooch lines were prohibited about a week after the flu epidemic struck the campus. The ruling remained in effect even after restrictions on some type of public gatherings and semester specials for women were lifted.

This reasoning seemed rather shallow and left the impression that something more basic than health protection was behind the ban. Very few students accepted the explanation of prevention of trench mouth and only a few more could see the logic in doing away with smooch lines to prevent respiratory disease.

BUT YOU CAN ARREST your fears. The ban on smooch lines is not the preparatory move for a morals crusade at K-State. In an interview with Dean Lahey, she pointed out that the ban was kept in effect strictly for health reasons.

Quoting from a letter that went out to the sorority presidents, Dean Lahey said, "Although the current flu threat apparently is over, Dr. Lafene, director of Student Health service, anticipates another outbreak during the winter months. In light of this, and because we are concerned with the general health and welfare of students at Kansas State college, Dr. Lafene and I believe the restrictions on smooch lines must be continued at least for the remainder of the current school year.

"Incidentally, the purpose of banning smooch lines is not to stop pinnings and engagements. Who knows but what the restriction may even encourage your more reluctant members so more cigars and chocolates will be passed this year than before."

AS MORE PROOF THAT the ban is strictly for health reasons and not because the administration doesn't like smooch lines, here is a dandy little denunciation of the custom from Director of Student Health, Dr. B. W. Lafene.

"If K-State coeds could see the extremely filthy mouths of the men on this campus, who seem to be allergic to toothbrushes, they would want no part of the promiscuous kissing a smooch line involves. And when I say filthy, I mean exactly that—dirty, unwashed, physically unclean mouths and teeth.

"Trench mouth is the most immediate and most serious disease one can contract from this promiscuous smooth line business," Lafene said. "Elimination of smooch lines would also cut down on the incidence of glandular fever, flu, bronchitis, and pneumonia. One can also get tuberculosis from the promiscuous smooch lines.

"One individual can pepper a whole smooch line with any one of these diseases. These filthy mouths I speak of are prominent among K-State men. If you don't believe me, come visit us sometime when we're giving entrance physicals."

So, as you can see, when Dean Lahey and Dr. Lafene decided smooch lines should be banned, they did it only to protect the health of the kissing segment of the student body. There is no ulterior motive here to interfere with the social pleasures K-Staters enjoy.

One thing about this ban, K-Staters will, no doubt, be the healthiest introverted students in the Big Eight.—Roger Myers

Eisenhower Back To White House; NATO Summit Meeting Is Possible

Compiled from United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Gettysburg, Pa.—President Eisenhower returns today to the White House and a jam-packed schedule possibly in preparation for his attendance at the NATO summit conference in Paris.

Eisenhower will be given a thorough medical checkup this week before announcing whether he will fly to Paris Saturday for the meeting.

The President planned to leave for Washington late today after spending a long weekend in the peace and quiet of his farm home here.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the chief executive "certainly" benefitted from his days of rest at the farm.

Eisenhower, who suffered a mild stroke two weeks ago today, wants very much to attend the Paris meeting of the heads of state of North Atlantic Treaty Nations. As of now, and pending the medical exam, he believes he is physically up to the task.

If his doctors do not give him a go-ahead to attend the meeting, they will in effect be saying that Eisenhower is not now up to heading an important diplomatic mission.

The exam will be conducted by Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, the President's personal physician. Outside neurological experts also will be called in for the checkup.

Apparently to clear the way for his possible attendance at Paris, the President planned a busy schedule for tomorrow and Wednesday. Among other things, he will meet his cabinet, the National Security council and with his economic advisers.

The two-day pace was another indication the President felt he was up to making the Paris trip and to assuming more of the burdens of office.

Eisenhower also will have an opportunity to hold a press conference Wednesday and he might choose this forum for his Paris announcement.

Vanguard Attempt Was Merely a Test

Washington—Last October 9 President Eisenhower remarked in a news conference that this country would launch a small test satellite in December.

The sequel, on December 6, was an appalling blow to U.S. prestige. The three-stage rocket that was to launch the little moon exploded on the ground at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

To the men of U.S. satellite project Vanguard the international furor over what happened is a marvel.

Their rocket failed. They were disappointed, being human. But the failure was not as surprising to them as complete success would have been. As one of them had said before the fact, the odds were heavily on the side of failure. So why all the shock?

Go back to the White House announcement, issued July 29, 1955. It said the United States would launch small earth satellites in the international geophysical year, July 1, 1957-December 31, 1958.

The Naval research laboratory was given the job of developing a launcher for the U.S. satellites. Denied use of proof-tested military rockets, the Naval lab set out to produce a small three-stage launcher specially designed for the assignment.

Last year Vanguard had made enough progress to plan a pre-launching test schedule. It called for seven test firings, gradually increasing in complexity and six "earnest tries."

The first test, dubbed "test vehicle zero," took place December 3, 1956, when a first stage prototype was fired. The second, TV-1, was on May 1, 1957, incorporating first and third stage rockets. TV-2, a first stage with second and third stages, was fired at the Cape October 23.

The official verdict on all three of these preliminary "birds" was "highly successful." None reached or was intended to reach the planned orbital altitude of 300 miles and the orbital speed of 18,000 miles an hour.

On August 9, 1957, Vanguard had revealed a new aspect of the test program. In the last four of the seven experimental firings test spheres 6.4 inches in diameter with radio transmitters would be launched to orbital altitudes.

No launching dates were given for a good reason—each test was a delicate performance involving new and never-before tried equipment still in the process of development. Not even Vanguard knew precisely when everything would be ready. Moreover, the Vanguard shoots had low priority; military missiles had first call on the facilities at Cape Canaveral.

In any case TV-3—the rocket that misfired in Florida last week—was strictly a test, not an "earnest try," and it never was intended to be anything but a test. It would have to work almost perfectly to put its test sphere into an orbit. On September 30, 1957, Vanguard Director John P. Hagen said if TV-3's sphere got into an orbit it would be "by chance."

Nevertheless when last week's now notorious "count down" started on the Cape, the world was watching. It was almost inevitable in light of Russia's Sputniks that a horde of newsmen, cameramen and broadcasters should swarm over the Cape in anticipation that the U.S. baby moon might reach an orbit.

Defense officials deny any unprecedented plans for publicizing the event, other than meeting the requests of the press which they considered a reflection of public interest.

As one defense official put it, the United States doesn't operate in secrecy; Vanguard wasn't a military thing and any such activity must be taken in the merciless light of publicity.

Cats After Third Victory Against Tough Purdue

By JIM WOODHAMS
Indiana Daily Student Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—"I am expecting Purdue to be a tough defensive team," K-State Coach Tex Winter said following the Wildcat's 66-61 defeat of Indiana's basketball team Saturday. The Cats meet Purdue tonight.

"Purdue beat Miami of Ohio last week and Miami was rated higher than Ohio, who beat Indiana. And they tromped Missouri, 76-49, tonight."

"Indiana has a good team and I am pleased with the win but I can see where we have a lot of work to do. We missed too many shots, as our .333 percentage shows. The rebounding of Bob Boozer was what turned the game in our favor."

Center Jack Parr said, "It was a tough game but a good one to win. Archie Dees is a top-flight player."

Cats Tackle Purdue Tonight
K-State winds up its two-game road trip tonight at 7:30 against Purdue in Lafayette, Ind.

Coach Winter believes the Cats cannot afford to let up after their win over Indiana.

"We rate Purdue every bit as good as Indiana," Winter said. "Purdue split with the Hoosiers last season and has good height and scoring potential."

In plastering the Tigers Saturday, the Boilermakers hit a torrid 41.2 per cent of their field goal attempts.

The Boilermakers lost only two starters from last year's team which compiled a 15-7 record. Two of those wins came over the Big Ten co-champs, Michigan State and Indiana.

The Wildcats will again have to contend with a race-horse attack as Purdue, like Indiana, likes to run with ball and use fast breaks.

Although the Boilermakers do not have a real big man, their starting unit will average 6-4, a shade under K-State's 6-4 1/2 average.

Boozer Leads KS Victory
Boozer led the Cat win over Indiana with 27 points and 19 rebounds while Parr had 16 points and 13 rebounds. Dees had 17 points and 12 rebounds for Indiana.

Indiana led by as much as 11 points mid-way through the first half as K-State was cold and the Hoosiers were hitting for a .429 average. But the Cats came back to a two-point margin at intermission, 36-34.

The lead changed hands four times in the second half with Wally Frank laying one up with 1:56 remaining to put the Cats ahead to stay.

Probable starters:

K-State	Pos.	Purdue
Abbott (6-4)	F	(6-5) Greve
Boozer (6-8)	F	(6-6) Fehrman
Parr (6-9)	C	(6-5) Elson
Dewitz (6-2)	G	(6-0) Austin
Matuszak (5-11)	G	(6-5) Merther

One Week To Buy Cage Tourney Ducats

Tickets for the pre-season Big Eight basketball tournament in Kansas City are available through the Wildcat ticket office in Ahearn fieldhouse.

Frank Mosier, ticket manager, reports that the deadline for buying tourney tickets through the K-State office is Dec. 16. Priority will be given orders for all four nights of the tourney—Dec. 26, 27, 28, and 30. Only four-night orders will be filled until after Dec. 10.

Ticket prices are $3, $2, and $1 per night. For mail orders an additional 25¢ an order should be enclosed to cover mailing and handling.

First round games of the four-night event pit defending champ Kansas against Oklahoma and Colorado against Iowa State, December 26. In the bottom bracket K-State plays Missouri, Dec. 27, starting at 7:30 with Nebraska meeting Princeton, tourney guest team, at 9:30 that same night.

Eight Frat Victors In IM Cage Action

Eight fraternity teams won games in last Friday's intramural basketball action.

Delta Tau Delta whipped Phi Delta Theta, 25-21, in the closest contest of the evening.

The most lop-sided game saw Pi Kappa Alpha drub Beta Sigma Psi, 39-16. Daniel Bird tallied 16 points for the winners and James Raffety scored seven points for the Beta Sigs.

Delta Sigma Phi almost duplicated the PiKA's victory by handing Theta Xi a 39-17 setback.

Bob Oblander, who tallied 10 points, led Lambda Chi Alpha to a 30-12 win over Alpha Tau Omega.

Acacia beat Farm House, 27-16, with Tom Amerine scoring 12 points for the winners.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, led by George Laddish's 12 points, defeated Sigma Chi, 29-20.

Beta Theta Pi won from Tau Kappa Epsilon, 32-22. George Serpan's 10 points was high for the winners.

Sigma Nu's Bob Turley tallied 16 points, but that was not enough as Alpha Gamma Rho defeated Sigma Nu, 30-20.

Varsity to Meet Frosh In K-State Swim Action

The K-State varsity swimming team will oppose the K-State freshman team Saturday at 2 p.m. in Nichols gym.

Coach Bill Thrall has eight lettermen returning to the squad.

Lettermen include Tom Coblenz, backstroke; Dave Dicken, butterfly; Gordon Harper, freestyle; James Mariner, backstroke; Don Matsuoka, freestyle; Fred Nolen, breaststroke; Tamotsu Onuma, freestyle; and Marion Towns, diving.

Ira Goldbach, Dave Hinderlitter, and Craig McNeal are Coach Thrall's three top freshmen swimmers. Hinderlitter is last year's state high school champion in the 100-yard free style. Goldbach and McNeal will participate in the butterfly and freestyle, respectively.

Other freshmen swimmers are Charles Portman, diving; Dallas Livengood, diving; Bill Brandenburg, freestyle; and Dave Leavengood, freestyle.

Due to the shortage of freshmen, Coach Thrall will fill in with reserves from the varsity.

The first varsity meet is with Kansas here, January 15.

NUMBER 58

Social Policy Clarified By KS Activities Board

All organized living groups, campus organizations, and advisers will soon receive letters from the Student Activities board informing them of the proper procedure to follow when scheduling any type of social event.

The board decided at its meeting yesterday that such action was necessary since many organizations have unknowingly secured late social permits and since they are not familiar with the provisions of the College drinking policy.

Briefly the College policy concerning alcoholic beverages states that:

1. All organizations are expected to abide by the state liquor laws at all times.

2. Liquor is prohibited at any College function, whether it is held on or off campus, in town or out of the city limits.

3. No one under 18 shall be allowed to purchase liquor.

4. The term, liquor, includes beer, and other beverages containing a higher percentage of alcohol.

Groups planning out of town functions or meetings must verbally agree to adhere to the policy outlined in the preceding paragraph. The agreement is to be made at the time the Activities board approves the social permit for the event.

This agreement is valid only if the social permit has been secured two weeks in advance of the event. Social permits for events to be held within the city limits need to be secured two days prior to the event.

The board's decision to send the letters was brought about by Pi Tau Sigma's late request to have a social permit approved for an out-of-town dinner. Bob Thomas, ME Sr, representing the mechanical engineering honorary, said that neither he nor his adviser was aware of the deadline for securing social permits. The board approved the permit for the function providing that members of Pi Tau Sigma agree to abide by the College policy on drinking.

SC Accepts Plan To Insure Staters

Student Council accepted the voluntary health and accident insurance plan last night which has been drawn up for K-State students by an interested insurance company.

Council agreed to co-operate with the College in opening bids and effecting the plan.

Since the plan was passed at this time, it is very probable that it will be put into effect next semester, according to Paul Hatfield, AgE Sr, chairman of Student Council.

The accident benefit provided by the policy is a maximum of $500. The policy does not designate specific medical benefits for which the $500 must be spent. It may be allocated in any manner necessary.

Sickness benefits include hospital room and board, surgeon's fees, physician's visits to the patient while he is hospitalized, and ambulance services.

The plan is entirely voluntary. All full time students will be covered 24 hours a day for a full twelve month year, summer vacations included. Students will be insured at school, at home, or while traveling, and participation in all school sponsored activities and sports except interscholastic football is included in the coverage. Intramural football is covered.

A special feature of the policy makes it available to wives or husbands and all dependents of students.

The coverage applies mainly to the area of emergencies, Dean of Students, Herbert J. Wunderlich, Council adviser, pointed out.

Union Board Stays Tough On Invaders

The restriction of military personnel from the Student Union was discussed last night by Union Governing board members in an effort to answer a student request that such persons be restricted from using Union facilities unless accompanied by a student or faculty member.

Loren Kottner, Union director, said the present policy regarding outsiders is to ask such persons to leave the Union when their behavior becomes "obnoxious." Kottner further explained the rule applies to any student and outsider, not just to service men.

The board members decided the present policy should continue to be enforced since it has been in existence for only a short time. The policy is to be reviewed at a later meeting in an effort to determine if it should be revised.

Another Coed Molested, This Time Near Nichols

A K-State coed was molested late Friday afternoon by an unidentified man. The incident occurred as the coed was crossing the vacant lot at the corner of 17th and Anderson at 6:10 p.m. According to the girl, the man jumped out from behind a tree and started running after her. She started running with the man in close pursuit. She kept up the footrace until she reached Nichols gym where he quit the chase. The coed described her attacker as a "tall man wearing a gray overcoat."

Reports of another girl being molested in the vicinity of the women's dorms was not confirmed by either the campus police nor the Manhattan police department. This attack reportedly occurred last Friday night also.

This is the second such occurrence near this campus within the last month. Last year seven coeds were molested during March.

Cats Trip Purdue For 79-73 Victory

By JAY WORKMAN
Collegian Sports Editor

K-State's basketball team came through with its second consecutive win against Big Ten opposition last night by cutting down Purdue, 79-73, in Lafayette, Ind., before 10,000 screaming fans.

Big Bob Boozer led the Cats with 25 points after sinking 27 against Indiana Saturday. Sophomore Wally Frank followed with 18 pleasantly surprising counters, 12 of them coming in the second half. All-American center Jack Parr was third high with 14.

Harvey Austin, 6-0 guard, was high for Purdue with 17, while Bill Greve had 14 and Bob Fehrman 12.

Purdue had the lead for the last time with 8:07 left to play when Parr committed his fifth foul and Wilson Elson made the free throw for a 60-59 score.

K-State went ahead to stay, 61-60, on a tip-in by Boozer with 7:43 remaining. Two field goals by Frank and another free toss by Boozer gave the Cats a six-point margin.

Purdue closed within three points with 46 seconds left on a lay-up and a free throw by Austin. Glen Long hit a lay-up to give the Cats a five-point gap but a two-handed set shot by Greve brought Purdue back within striking distance.

Then with 17 seconds to go Don Matuszak swished a free toss for a 77-73 score and Roy DeWitz put in the clincher for the 79-73 final.

Purdue went into the lead quickly in the opening minutes and K-State didn't catch up until seven minutes had been played. The Cats went ahead for the first time, 14-13, on a jump shot by Boozer. The Wildcats surged to a 25-16 margin but Purdue came back fast with 10 quick points for a 26-25 edge with 9:30 left in the half.

The score see-sawed from then until intermission with the Cats coming up with a three-point margin, 43-40.

The first part of the second half was close with the Cats going to a six-point spread at one point and Purdue coming back for a three-point margin before K-State went out in front to stay.

AWS Council Backs Social 'Dead Week'

Associated Women Students' council has recommended to the Student Activities board that a "dead week" be declared during nine-weeks and the week before finals. If the recommendation is adopted there will be no college activities during these two weeks. It was also recommended that no events requiring participation of organized living groups, such as Homecoming, be scheduled during the five or fourteen weeks.

AWS council took final action on these recommendations at a meeting last night in the Student Union.

Two additional recommendations went to Interfraternity council. One advocates that a specific number from each house participate in Interfraternity Sing. The other asks that queen campaigns and float competitions for fraternity functions such as Derby Day, Flush Bowl, and the Pretzel Bowl be eliminated.

The AWS Conference committee reported that it is working in conjunction with the Department of History, Government, and Philosophy to secure a nationally known speaker for All-Women's Day next spring.

The council approved the appointment of Margaret Crouch, HT Jr, to the chairmanship of the Conference committee following the resignation of former chairman Mary Beth McCoy, HT Jr.

KS To Host High School Educators

Approximately 75 Kansas high school educators are expected to participate in K-State's sixth annual students-principals-counselors conference Thursday, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

The educators will meet with their 1957 graduates who are now freshmen at K-State. This year the school representatives will be given the opportunity to visit freshman classes.

The purpose of these meetings is to discuss the common problems that students experience in adjusting to college life and to determine how the high schools and the College might improve their programs to reduce these problems.

The deans from each school will excuse freshmen from their 11 a.m. classes in order that they may participate in the conference.

PULLING THEIR CARDS during pre-enrollment Monday are Betty Britton, EEd Jr, and Carol Cooper, HEA Jr. Mrs. Herbert Cormack searches through a row of cards looking for line number 1173—or is it 1713—or 1137? Is KS Union Grabbing too Much Activities Authority?

HAVE YOU EVER got the impression that the Student Union was taking over?—taking over non-union activities? More than likely if you've paid much attention to conduct at dances, pep rallies, and the like, you have noticed a trend in the direction of growing Student Union supervision.

Is this a good or bad thing? Let's try to analyze the situation.

The Student Union has the personnel and the facilities to control student activities. It employs a co-ordinator — Program Director Ollie White—to make suggestions and oversee the operation of the Union's vast program structure. White is a salaried professional in the area of getting students to come out of their holes and do something, to work with others, and to take on some measure of responsibility.

THE STUDENT UNION committee structure probably takes in close to 1,000 students. It gives them something constructive to do with their spare time and teaches them some principals of organization.

This Union committee work gives students practical experience in working with money. Committees, such as the Dance committee and the Jazz committee, which have handled events like the Stan Kenton appearance and the Dave Brubeck concert, must take the blame if the project loses a lump of money. These people will be much better qualified to handle their own finances as a result of this type of work.

Perhaps along with your growing suspicion that the Union is taking over, you've noticed the rise, both in quality and quantity, of the activities in which K-Staters may participate. Perhaps you've also observed that this rise has taken place since the opening of the new Union building.

THE HIGH QUALITY of the last Y-Orpheum was due, for the most part we feel, to the intervention of the Union in what used to be strictly a YMCA project.

There have been more are lectures to attend, there have been more coffee hours to go to; there has been, we feel, a better selection of Union-sponsored movies.

Perhaps the blame, or credit, for this increased activity should go to a new, modern building rather than to a person or persons. With the state room and cafeteria located in the building, it's only natural and logical that students should congregate there. Where else can you get a pack of cigarettes or a cup of coffee between classes?

The Student Union is the logical center of campus activities.

ON THE OTHER HAND, if all, or the majority, of the control over student activities lies in the Union, what's to prevent the directors from saying what will and what won't be allowed? This could be a bad thing if the directors of such an institution should suddenly develop a dictatorial attitude.

If this were to happen, a few people could control the non-academic activities of K-State—and a big part of college education, we feel, comes from sources other than the classroom.

Should these directors finally get total control of student activities, as the present trend indicates, student ideas would no longer be useful, and the value of student participation and training would be lost.

Organizations which planned and carried out various worthy projects, such as the election of a Homecoming queen, judging of Homecoming house decorations, publication of a Miss Wildcat calendar, and sponsorship of picnics and watermelon feeds would be browbeaten into submission or forced to bend to the will of the Union.

WE HAVE SENSED a growing sentiment that within two years activities will be controlled by a building, and not by the students as it should be.

Union Director Loren Kottner has another title, that of co-ordinator and adviser for all campus activities. This is one of his duties as a salaried college employee.

The term Union in this writing refers to the programming segment of the institution as opposed to the business end.

So perhaps the Union shouldn't get control of student activities. Perhaps the Student Council should launch an investigation to stop the activities auto before it slides completely into the Union garage with the resulting possibility that the door might bang shut.

The problem: should the Union be legislated against because it's trying to improve the quality and quantity of K-State activities, or because it's getting too much power?

WE DON'T LIKE to see K-Staters lose control of student functions, but if they're too lazy to do things for themselves, if they lean on the professional help of the Union too heavily, control could be given to the Union. At any rate, let's not be greedy for power for power's sake.

As we said before, it's hard to say whether Union control is good or bad. You must make your own decision and act accordingly—Roger Myers.

Oregon Student Body President a Believer In Winning (Bets, Grid Tilts)—Not Cycling

By Sharon Totten

THE UNIVERSITY of Oregon student body president lost a bet—and it seems that he lost a little sleep in the bargain. At any rate, the Oregon Daily Emerald reports that he slept soundly after bicycling his way from the campus of Oregon State to the campus of the University of Oregon.

The bet was with the Oregon State student body president. They were betting of course on the Oregon State-Oregon university "old rivalry" football game. The unfortunate bicyclist preferred to travel under a disguise, because under the terms of the bet, he not only had to pedal his way from the Aggie campus to Oregon, but had to wear an OSC jacket to add to the punishment.

THE KANSAS UNIVERSITY Student Union opened at the usual time last Friday morning—with only a faint trace of the powerful stink that drove about 400 persons from the building Thursday night.

The Daily Kansan reported that, although the source of the odor had not been found, building officials and a university chemist believed that it was caused by a sulphur stink bomb placed outside the building. The building was closed at 9:30 Thursday night after the fire department left the scene.

Several cases of upset stomach and headaches were reported as a result of the odor, but none of the victims had to be treated at Watkins hospital.

The smell was even detected several blocks north and east of the Student Union. "It reminded me of opening the hole of a ship and smelling spoiled onions," one of the fire department officers said, recalling his service days.

THE DAKOTA STUDENT reports that a University of Dakota fraternity has a new—and somewhat unique—pledge. What is so unique about it? It is small, brown baby monkey—and a Montgomery Ward monkey at that.

It seems the fraternity members mailed an order blank to Montgomery Ward and ended up with a monkey. So far the new pledge has no name, but the fraternity is conducting a contest to find one for him. The monkey lives in a cage in the storeroom of the fraternity house.

And what is the fraternity getting out of all this? Well, they now have a new pledge trainer—a monkey type pledge trainer, that is.

IN ADDITION to putting out the Daily Campus, journalists at the University of Connecticut are busy helping organize a Centrifugal Bumble-puppy league. From a small beginning at Connecticut university's New Haven hall, the Bumble-puppy idea is spreading over Eastern schools.

The Daily Campus managing editor, reported first on the league in his column. He explains, "The idea came from Aldous Huxley's novel 'Brave New World'."

The paper even used a picture of an official Centrifugal Bumble-puppy machine, which is used in the game. Powered by solar energy, it is nine feet tall, shiny, and has a base with eight holes in it through which the ball, called a "round," is thrown by the spinning centrifugal disk.

Above all, says the Daily Campus managing editor, a Centrifugal Bumble-puppy team must keep its CBP machine shiny. He is inviting inquiries about organizing teams on other campuses.

Gymnastic Team Travels to Hays

The K-State gymnastics team will open its season with a double-dual meet with Oklahoma State and Fort Hays State today at Hays.

All three teams will be competing at the same time but the meet will be scored as two dual meets for K-State.

Coach Frank Thompson will take a nine-man team for the meet. The gymnasts going are Mike Dziura, Jerry Johnson, Robert Gramzow, Harold Loomis, Ray Berkley, Ron Leslie, Allen Olsen, Bob Campbell, and Ted Bare.

The events will be free exercise, trampoline, side horse, high-bar, parallel bars, and tumbling.

Forfeits Mar Play In IM Basketball

Forfeits marked last night's intramural basketball play. Because of 14-week tests two games were forfeited.

Wesley Foundation forfeited to the YMCA team and the River Rats won a forfeit from the Flu Five.

Undefeated West Stadium met stubborn resistance but downed OK House, 29-26, after an 11-11 half-time score.

Pi Phi's Win IM Badminton

Kathy Horrige and Kaye Aye, both representing Pi Beta Phi, won the women's intramural badminton tournament Saturday morning. Barbara Burnes and Sonia Brown, both representing Chi Omega, were runners-up in the single elimination tournament.

Miss Horrige and Betty Crawford, Van Zile hall, will compete for first place in the singles table tennis tournament finals Thursday at 5 p.m. in Nichols gym. The preliminary games were played last night. Miss Burnes finished third in the tournament, and Linda Stout, Chi Omega, took fourth place.

The first round of games in the doubles tables tennis contest will begin tonight at 4 p.m.

Outstanding Passer

Washington, (U.P.) — Sammy Raugh, fabled passer of the Washington Redskins, completed 210 of 354 passes in 1947—one of his greatest seasons in the National football league. Sammy's heaves gained 2,935 yards and produced 25 touchdowns that season.

Alphas for the biggest margin of the night, 40-20.

The Raiders stopped the Five E's, 25-18.

Jere Hinkle tallied 18 points to pace the Spartans to a 34-26 victory over the Hic Cups.

The Speedsters took a 29-16 game from the Brewster Boys.

Despite a 17-point contribution by Phil York, South Jardine bowed to the Hobos, 38-31.

The Outlaws slipped by the Coffey Grinders, 25-23.

All Three Wire Services Put Wildcats in Top Ten

By JAY WORKMAN

Depending on whose rating you check, K-State's basketball Wildcats are somewhere between the No. 1 and No. 10 college team in the nation.

The Associated Press ranks the Cats 5th, United Press places them 6th, International News Service rates them 10th, and the Dunkle power index system places them No. 1. With three games played, the Cats have done nothing to indicate they don't deserve their high rankings, either.

The Wildcats beat their last two opponents, both Big Ten teams, by respectable margins and on their home floors to boot so there is a good possibility the Cats could move up in the rankings by passing Big Ten teams rated ahead of them.

Activities

Speech Finalists Vie For Prizes Tonight

Eight students will compete in the Larry Woods speech contest finals at 7:30 tonight in the Student Union little theater, according to Dr. Charles Goetzinger, assistant professor of speech. First place winner will be awarded $30, second place winner $20, and third place winner $10.

Alternate Henry Czerwinski, BA Soph, will replace Annette Maxwell, Gvt Fr, who is ill. The other seven finalists are Judy Hoy, RT Fr; Donnice Adamek, BMT Soph; Ronald Minarcini, CE Soph; Joyce Beery, Sp Fr; Frances Schwartz, BMT Soph; Marilyn Hansen, HE Fr; and Cynthia Ziegler, HEN Soph.

Radio Classes

Radio amateurs who would like to obtain their operators' licenses, can do so through participation in a series of code and theory classes being sponsored by the Kansas State Amateur Radio club. These classes meet on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday evenings at 7:30 in Military Science 3.

Those who are interested in attending should contact Clifford Chamney, Bot Jr, or Louis Klusmeyer, EE Jr. Last semester, seven persons obtained their licenses with the club's assistance.

Arab-American Club

The Palestine problem will be discussed at a meeting of Arab-American club tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Eisenhower 101, according to Samih Hasayen, ME Sr, publicity chairman. A movie about Arabian countries will also be shown. All students are invited to attend.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

Men in the know know true from false

College grads over forty suffer from a decline in their earning power.

☐ TRUE ☐ FALSE

False. In fact the older they get the more money they earn. Statistics show that the average man's earning power declines rapidly after he reaches 45. The college grad's income is still going sharply up at this point.

College educated men tend to be bachelors to a greater degree than average American males.

☐ TRUE ☐ FALSE

False. Recent studies show that Mr. College Grad is no longer avoiding the marriage license bureau the way he used to. In fact statistics now indicate that having a college degree actually lessens the probability of a man leading the bachelor life.

Jockey brand is America's best known brand of men's underwear.

☐ TRUE ☐ FALSE

True. Independent surveys prove that Jockey is not only the best known underwear in the U.S. but also in 98 countries around the world. Just shows how universally men value comfort and fit.

Cynthia Ziegler Wins First In Larry Woods Contest

Cynthia Ziegler, HEN Soph, placed first in the semi-annual Larry Woods Memorial speech contest last night. Anita Grimm, chairman of the contest, presented her a check for $30 and a Larry Woods Certificate.

Marilyn Hansen, HEx, Fr received $20 for second place, and Henry Czerwinski, BA Soph, was the recipient of a $10 check for third place.

"First, I'm going to buy a ticket to the Mortar Board banquet, and then I'm going to treat my Oral Comm I class for choosing me as their representative," said Miss Ziegler, in regard to her cash prize. "The rest will probably go for Christmas presents," she added.

Cynthia spoke on the subject, "The Road to Maturity." She said a person must compromise with himself concerning his abilities, and not to become frustrated at not being perfect. A mature person realizes his shortcomings.

"Advertising" was the topic for Miss Hansen's speech. She pointed out the good and bad points in the various advertisements which appear in business.

Henry Czerwinski explained about the morale failure of our Korean prisoners.

The other contestants in the final were Judy Hoy, RT Fr; Ronald Minarcini, CE Soph; Joyce Beery, Sp Fr; and Frances Schwartz, BMT Soph. Donnice Adamek, BMT Soph, was unable to compete in the contest because of a sudden call home due to an accident in her family.

The judges for the finals were John Stites, Manhattan lawyer; Doretta Hoffman, dean of the School of Home Economics; Allen Langton, Manhattan businessman; the Rev. Walton S. Cole, Methodist minister; and Mrs. Charles Reed, former K-State speech instructor.

Scripts for Y-Orph Into Judges Hands

Fifteen Y-Orpheum entries have been turned in by fraternities and sororities, according to Bob Hofmann, EE Soph, chairman of the Y-Orpheum committee.

Of the 15, nine are combined entries. Clovia is the only entry in the women's division. Five fraternities were entered in the men's division.

Combined entries: Alpha Delta Pi-Phi Delta Theta; Alpha Xi Delta-Sigma Chi; Delta Delta Delta-Beta Theta Pi; Kappa Delta-Alpha Kappa Lambda; Chi Omega-Alpha Tau Omega; Pi Beta Phi-Delta Tau Delta; Kappa Kappa Gamma-Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Gamma Phi Beta-Tau Kappa Epsilon; and Alpha Chi Omega-Alpha Gamma Rho.

Men's division: Acacia, Phi Kappa, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Nu, and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

"The Y-Orpheum executive committee was surprised about the way houses turned out for the new combined entry plan," Hofmann said.

He explained that final entries in Y-Orpheum will be based on the quality of the scripts. When there is only one entry in a division, that script will be compared with the others, however, it will automatically be in the show, only if it is good, he said.

Sophomores from P to Z Will Pre-Enroll Today

Sophomores with last names beginning from P to Z will pre-enroll today from 1 to 4 p.m. in Anderson hall. Sophomores from A through G will register for second semester tomorrow afternoon and those from H to O will enroll Friday.

Freshmen, in the same alphabetical order, will receive class assignments next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday afternoons. All eligible students who fail to enroll by this time may do so December 19 and 20.

"MONEY TALKS," or so the saying goes, but in the case of these three students, the saying was reversed last night at the Larry Woods speech contest. Speech professor Charles Goetzinger waves envelopes of money in front of third place speaker Henry Czerwinski, BA Soph; second place winner Marilyn Hansen, HE Fr; and first placer Cynthia Ziegler, HEN Soph.

K-State's Eight SCONA Delegates Attend Meet

Eight K-State students are attending the third Student Conference on National Affairs at the Texas A&M Student Center today through Saturday.

Those attending the conference are Marc Asher, BPM Sr; Gail Cross, AA Jr; Kay Eplee, BA Jr; George Hooper, BA Sr; Warren Keegan, Ec Sr; Nell Scott, Soc Sr; Jim Shane, His Sr; and Kathy Schultis, HEJ Jr.

Students will take part in discussions of "The Role of the United States in World Affairs." A major goal of SCONA is to help students grasp the complexity of U.S. foreign policy.

Round table discussions will cover such topics as the relationship of the United States with the Middle East, Europe, Africa, the Western hemisphere, and the Far East.

Each discussion group will consist of 20 student delegates and a recorder.

Eminent educators, industrial leaders, journalists, and government officials will lead the discussions and advise.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, (Minn.-Dem.) will give the keynote speech this afternoon. His subject will be "The Middle East."

John Scott, assistant to the publisher of "Time" magazine, will conclude the conference with an address Saturday noon.

Also participating in SCONA will be Eugene M. Zuckert, former assistant secretary of the Air Force, and former member of the Atomic Energy commission; Dr. Ronald Hilton, director of Spanish-American studies at Stanford university; and Glenn Costin, of the Dallas Council of World Affairs.

Representatives to the conference are being housed in guest rooms of the Texas A&M Student center.

Coffee-Hounds Slurp In 23,100 Mud Cups

By KATHY SCHULTIS

K-Staters are hungry people! Saw many, many students standing in two long lines near the cafeteria and State room of the Union the other day.

Asked one of my sisters (sorority, that is) what all these people were doing and she said they were waiting to get a bite to eat. All these people just eat a bite? Decided that an investigation was necessary to determine just how much these students eat.

So, trooped into the Union food service office and asked to talk to the person in charge of planning menus and buying all the food. A lady dressed in white told me to sit down and make myself comfortable.

Did just that and she proceeded to tell me exactly what quantities of certain foods are purchased for hungry K-Staters. By the way, her name is Mrs. Merna Ziegler and she is the head dietitian (whatever that is) in the Union food service department.

Found out that the total number of doughnuts eaten each morning is anywhere from 75 to 125 dozen. Most students like to have a cup of coffee with that doughnut (or two, or three) so, decided to find out just how much of the hot stuff is consumed.

The dietitian informed me that 22 dozen pounds of coffee are used each week. Figured out that total (like an intelligent person) and came up with 23,100 cups of coffee sold each week.

Milk is another popular beverage as an average of 660 gallons are used each month. Being a lover of malts and milk shakes, decided to see if others like the stuff, too, by asking the dietitian how much malt is used. Students must like malts and milk shakes as 130 gallons of malt base were used during October in the State room.

The favorite of Americans (so I've been told) is the hamburger, and students really go for these. Over 5,000 hamburgers were sold during October.

Potatoes are also among the best sellers in the food line. (Only like French fried potatoes myself). Over 9,400 pounds of potatoes were used during October.

Two Student Offenders Cleared of Traffic Fines

The Traffic Appeals board upheld two student appeals and turned down another in a meeting yesterday in the Student Union.

Arnold Good, TJ Fr, was excused from paying a ticket which he received for parking his car in a staff lot. Good said he was returning from work and ran out of gas in front of Willard hall. He pushed his car into the staff parking area. When he returned to get the car it had a ticket on it.

Lawrence Schafer, Geo Sr, was turned down on an appeal. He parked his car on the road running north by the animal husbandry building.

Schafer said he was parked west of the Animal Husbandry building by a road which was not marked "no parking." Schafer did not consider the road a campus street or drive. Regulations state no motor vehicle shall be parked on streets or drives.

Gary Yeakley, AgJ Sr, was given an approval of a traffic violation for parking in the staff lot south of the Union.

Yeakley said he parked his car there between 9 and 9:30 p.m. in order to pick up pictures in the Nichols gymnasium dark room. Upon returning he discovered his car wouldn't start because of a corroded battery cable.

Yeakley said he wasn't able to move the car till noon the next day and by that time he had already received the ticket.

"BUT, BABY IT'S COLD INSIDE," exclaimed Charlene Glenn, student publications secretary, when the temperature hit the 9 above zero mark this morning. A cold front moved into Kansas from Canada yesterday causing students to button up car coats and get out the longies.

Dear Editor:

It was with a great deal of surprise that the undersigned learned of the awful condition of masculine oral cavities here at Kansas State University. After due consideration, however, we have become convinced that the good Dr. Lafene must have been speaking of a very limited portion of the campus men. As habitual toothbrush users, we believe that anyone with sufficient intelligence to make use of the available weapons against oral bacteria would be smart enough to stay away from Student Health in the first place.

We further believe that this illogical edict will serve only to drive the smooch line underground, thus making subversives and conspirators out of our heretofore honest, upstanding, red-blooded college youth. We feel sure that the majority of the students join us in deploring this ultimatum.

Greeks Think Over Homecoming Situation; Thought Should Bring Solution to Problem

GREEK ORGANIZATIONS, in an effort to revamp their Homecoming activities and make them more worthwhile, have taken on the responsibility of re-evaluating the time and expense of Homecoming house decorations.

Even with plans still in the discussion phase, opinions are already forming and there appears to be some difference of opinion between the members of Interfraternity council and Panhellenic council.

IFC, on one hand seems, to think the house decorations a waste of time and an emphasis on the wrong thing. Interfrat council feels the time spent constructing house decorations could be better used for studying.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL, on the other hand, seems to think much of the spirit of Homecoming will be lost if house decorations are moved to a central location in the park or done away with all together.

It's certainly true that fraternity pledges, in particular, are forced to spend a lot of time painting and stuffing when they should be up in study hall hitting the books. The majority of pledges are freshmen and need to spend more time studying until they have mastered the technique of learning without attending class.

But still, much of the spirit of Homecoming will be lost if there are no decorations to go look at the Friday night before Homecoming. The tour has become an iron-clad tradition at Kansas State and iron-clad traditions are hard ones to break.

So the only thing left to do is compromise. Most of the suggestions of Panhel and IFC are aimed at effecting some sort of a happy medium.

THE SUGGESTION of limiting the time for working on decorations from 6:30 a.m. on Friday morning to 6 p.m. Friday evening is good because it would eliminate staying up late two or three night before judging to complete a real spectacular. However, this might also encourage the wholesale cutting of Friday classes. Also this would encourage the running around and stockpiling of materials so the Greeks could rush pell mell to the park to start construction at the appointed time.

The possibility of roping off the streets around houses with decorations to eliminate the congestion of traffic is full of holes because of the present far-flung arrangement of houses. Half the streets in the northwest section of Manhattan would be inaccessible to drivers, and there is a possibility that residents in this part of Manhattan might want to go someplace without looking at the decorations.

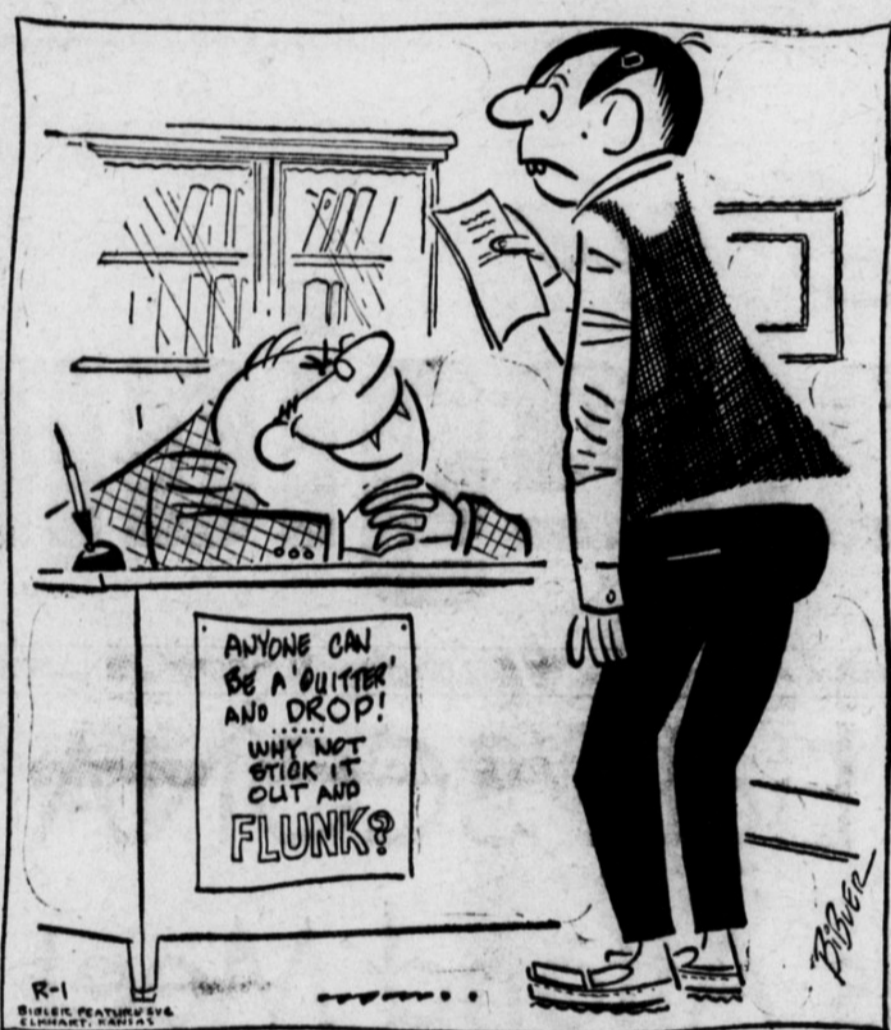

NOW ALL THAT is left is the Panhellenic assertion that much of the spirit of Homecoming would be lost if the decorations setup is changed.

There are very few traditions which cannot be improved upon if enough thought goes into the problem. Doubtless, if the two Greek policy-making groups got together they could come up with an idea which, carried out over a long period of time, would become just as acceptable a tradition.

Perhaps the situation could be improved if more emphasis were placed on the Homecoming parade. If only a parade and no house decorations was decided upon, traffic congestion would be done away with, except on Poyntz, because the decorations would move past the spectators. A big part of the time-consuming work could be eliminated because most floats, even good ones, don't take as much time to build. Judging would also be improved because the judges could watch from several angles without moving and wouldn't get so critical as they get colder and sleepier.

THERE ARE MORE suggestions and the answer can be found if some thought is given the value of Homecoming house decorations. Power to you, Panhel and IFC.—Roger Myers.

Eisenhower Will Attend NATO Conference, Bolsters Spirits of Sputnik-Stricken Europeans

By UNITED PRESS

Paris—President Eisenhower's decision to attend the NATO Summit conference gave new heart today to West European diplomats dismayed by Soviet scientific successes and faced with a new Russian propaganda campaign.

Russia already had served notice it will use every propaganda artifice it can command to offset any results of the NATO meeting, but the big propaganda campaign is expected after the NATO meeting.

One of the chief reasons, originally, for calling next week's conference was to pool Western scientific lore. The Soviets got a big boost last week when the U.S. failed to launch a satellite as planned.

Since then there have been these developments:

● Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin sent a letter to Eisenhower believed to set forth new Russian proposals on disarmament and nuclear weapon control;

● Bulganin in a reply to a letter from Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, offered to ban nuclear testing from January 1 on, if Britain and the United States do the same;

● Bulganin also wrote a letter to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer warning against the stationing of atomic arms on the soil of West Germany.

● Poland put out a feeler yesterday for a "neutral" Germany—then it announced Poland is producing its own tactical missiles equal to those of Britain and America and said it could get atomic warheads from Russia.

Cats Return in High Spirits After Successful Road Trip

K-State's basketballers were in high spirits as they landed here yesterday after completing a successful road trip during which they knocked off two highly rated Big Ten teams—Indiana, 66-61, at Bloomington, and Purdue, 79-73, at Lafayette.

"We're very pleased to have been picked so high in the nation and this road trip gives evidence that we can stay up there the rest of the season," head coach Tex Winter said.

The only bad outcome of the road trip was a severe charlie horse sufferer by 6-8 junior Bob Boozer who paced the Cats in both games with 27 and 25 points against Indiana and Purdue respectively.

He will be out of practice the rest of this week but should be ready for the Iowa game, according to Wildcat trainer Porky Morgan.

"Bob played well and scored well on the road," said Winter. "Back in Indiana they think he's the best forward they've seen in a long time and I think he's one of the best forwards in the country now."

"The happiest notes of the road trip was sophomore Wally Frank's performance against Purdue Monday night," Winter said. He was easily the most outstanding player on the floor for either team.

The Cat cage mentor said he was particularly pleased with the way the sophomores played on the road. He complimented the play of Steve Douglas, 6-4 guard, and Glen Long, 6-4 forward, along with that of Frank.

"This road trip gave us a lot of valuable experience and pointed up what appears to be our biggest weakness now. Our attack isn't hitting on all five cylinders. We've got to get more spark from the guards.

Intramural Cage Action Highlighted by Big Scores

High scores were the big factor in last night's intramural basketball action. The 1226 Club racked up the highest score of the year, when they defeated Hillel, 62-31.

AIA beat House of Brec, 32-21. John Welker was high point man for the winners with 10 points. Obed Fricke had five points for House of Brec.

Roger Congleton led House of Williams to a 32-27 win over Jr. AVMA. Congleton hit for 13 points while Bill Upchurch had 11 for the losers.

The Hillbillies remained undefeated by beating the Roadrunners, 35-22. Jack Keelan was again high point man for the winners as he collected 14 points. Leading the Roadrunners in scoring was Bernard Schulz with 10.

Dale Taylor and Larry Williams each had five points as they paced Westminster Foundation to a 20-15 win over over the 357 Club.

In last night's fraternity intramural basketball, Beta Theta Pi defeated Delta Upsilon, 42-16.

Delta Tau Delta won over Phi Kappa Tau, 31-13.

Phi Delta Theta won from Beta Sigma Psi, 28-22.

Jim Allen led Sigma Alpha Epsilon to a win over Alpha Kappa Lambda, 32-24.

Ping Pongers Beat KU, 6-1

K-State's table tennis team, sponsored by the Union games committee, whipped Kansas University 6-1 Friday night in a match played in Lawrence. K-State's only loss was by forfeit, as Danny Lee, No. 2 on the team was unable to make the trip.

Cat Gymnasts Trip Cowboys And Fort Hays

The K-State gymnastic team opened its season yesterday at Fort Hays with a victory in triangular meet with Fort Hays and Oklahoma State. The Cats finished first with 58 points, Fort Hays second with 37 and the Cowboys third with 36 points.

Top man for K-State was Robert Gramzow with 17 points. Gramzow won tumbling and free exercise, and finished fourth in the trampoline.

Freshmen and transfer students enrolled in the School of Home Economics will be guests of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary, at a tea Thursday at 4 p.m. in Calvin lounge, according to Kay Wadsworth, HT Sr, president of the honorary.

Graduate Students Association

"Early History of the Graduate Students Association" will be the subject of a talk to be given by James E. Ackert, dean emeritus of the graduate school at a meeting of the Graduate Students association Friday. The meeting will be held in the Student Union, 208, according to Dean Harold Howe, sponsor of the group.

Planned Feed Tech Wing Receives $500 Donation

A $500 donation for the proposed feed technology wing has been received by Dr. John A. Shellenberger, head of the department of flour and feed milling industries.

He received the $500 check last week from Miguel Rosic, a Lima, Peru miller, who read about the September Waters hall fire which destroyed the K-State mill.

Rosic became acquainted with Dr. Shellenberger in Argentina in 1943. His daughter, Lilly Rosic, now Mrs. John Trout of Chicago, attended K-State two years ago.

"I am deeply impressed, that I am sending you $500. If I had a million dollars I would rebuild the school for you," Rosic said in the letter.

Dr. Shellenberger is turning the money over to the Endowment association so they can keep it until definite plans are made for rebuilding the facilities destroyed in the fire.

Name Change Ball Gathering Speed

Since the college name change election, many campus organizations and the board of directors of the Alumni association have gone on record in favor of changing the name Kansas State college to Kansas State university, according to Warren Keegan, Ec Sr, Student Council KSU committee chairman.

Keegan is now awaiting official word on when a bill can be brought before the state legislature if the Board of Regents approves the change. According to a 1954 amendment, even-year sessions are restricted to budget matters.

In a straw vote at the last alumni board meeting, the directors were unanimously in favor of the name change, alumni secretary Kenney L. Ford, said. The group hasn't decided yet whether to take a poll of all Alumni association members about this.

All campus organizations were sent letters asking their opinion, to add emphasis to the referendum. The answers received so far are all favorable, Keegan said.

President McCain will send a formal proposal to the Board of Regents, before the 1958 session of the legislature, recommending the name, Kansas State college, be changed to Kansas State university.

If the Regents vote yes, they will propose the name change to the state legislature.

Charles Arthur, Manhattan lawyer and state representative from the first district, has said he will be glad to propose the name change bill early in the 1959 session, Keegan said.

Gift exchanges, parties for underprivileged children, and Christmas caroling trips are on the program for K-State fraternities and sororities during the next week.

Each year at Christmas time most of the groups sing carols at the Manhattan hospitals, old folks homes, and to shut-ins.

Entertaining children and sending them gifts are additional service projects being undertaken by half of the groups. At least eight houses will exchange gifts among themselves which will in turn be donated to orphanages and other needy children in the area.

Phi Kappa members are including their dates in an exchange of children's gifts at a party after the K-State basketball game Saturday. A prize will be given for the most clever gift.

Theta Xi fraternity will give its gifts to the children's nursery of the Methodist church in Manhattan. Along with their gift exchange for children, Alpha Chi Omega sorority is sending a basket of food to an unfortunate family.

Children in Manhattan will be entertained by Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Kappa Lambda, Phi Kappa Tau, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Delta Delta Delta.

The Sig Alphas and Tri Delts will jointly be dinner hosts for eight children Monday evening at the Sig Alph house. Santa Claus will be there with gifts for all.

Twenty-two children, ages 4 to 9, will attend a Christmas party at the PiKA house Saturday afternoon.

Kappa Kappa Gamma members will take their little guests to a movie after their annual needy children's dinner.

Giving mattresses to the Red Cross is a project of AKL along with entertaining orphans.

Farm House fraternity will have a foreign student in agriculture and his wife as dinner guest next Thursday.

Both Alpha Xi Delta and Pi Beta Phi are sending gifts to the girls industrial school at Beloit.

Chi Omega members are busy making gifts to be sent to a Wichita orphanage. Girls will receive octopuses made of yarn and a dressed doll in a crib while the boys will get bean bags and bedroom slippers.

Making rag dolls is an annual Christmas project of Alpha Delta Pi members. They send the dolls to their national headquarters where they are distributed to various crippled children's organizations.

Weatherman Expects No White Christmas

By JOYCE RECTOR

If you're "dreaming of a white Christmas," go right ahead and dream. It probably won't do a bit of good.

This was the warning of Dr. L. Dean Bark, associate professor of physics at K-State, and, more pertinently, climatologist for the experiment station at the college.

Dr. Bark has records dating back to 1900 to back up his warning. The results of a "statistical guess" on his part gave the "forecast" for Christmas day.

It probably will not snow, although there might be snow on the ground, and the temperature could range anywhere from 10 below zero to 70 above.

Looking back over the records to 1900 (they have been kept since 1863), Dr. Bark noted these facts—since 1907 it has snowed only six times on Christmas day in Manhattan. And only 13 times has there been any snow on the ground. Of these 13 times, only eight have included an inch or more of snow. A depth of 10 inches in 1918 and eight inches in 1945 are about the deepest it has gotten this time of year.

As for temperature, Dr. Bark's "guess" of between 10 below zero and 70 above was not too conservative when one realizes the extremes of temperatures reached on Christmas day.

Several times in the past, that day's temperature at Manhattan has climbed to 62. To offset those "heat-waves" have been the time in 1924 when it reached five degrees below zero, and in 1918 when the mercury dropped to minus eight degrees.

The chances of a white Christmas season are greatly improved over those for the special day. According to Dr. Bark's weather records, of the past 50 years, we have had snow during Christmas vacation 36 times. This means the chances of it happening this year are 7 to 10, as to the 1 to 8 chance of it snowing on Christmas day.

Realizing that students come from other parts of Kansas besides Manhattan, Dr. Bark stated that those in the north-central or northwest sections will have more of a chance to see snow than those in other sections of the state.

To sum up Dr. Bark's findings, the outlook is for a snowless Christmas, but you can still dream!

Sophomores from A-G May Pre-enroll Today

Sophomores, whose last names begin from A to G, are scheduled to pre-enroll from 1 to 4 p.m. today. Students begin enrollment by entering the west door of Anderson hall which leads to the IBM room.

Tomorrow afternoon sophomores from H through O will register. Freshmen will receive class assignments Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. December 19 and 20 is reserved for all eligible students who have not enrolled by that time.

Ten Debaters Will Compete In Tournament

K-State debaters will leave this afternoon for Winfield where they will compete in the Southwestern College Debate tournament, Friday and Saturday, according to Dr. Charles Goetzinger, assistant professor of speech.

The students making the trip are Tom Bowman, PrL Sr; Carl Austermiller, EE Fr; Bill Hiatt, Ar 01; Dave Nuttle, AH Jr; Phil Reid, EE Jr; Mary Richardson, SEd Fr; Sarah Heitmar, Sp Fr; Virginia Baxter, Gvt Fr; and Josette Maxwell, Sp Fr.

The Southwestern tournament is the oldest Kansas tournament and one of the largest. The tournament will consist of five rounds of debate. The top 12 teams will compete in 3 elimination rounds, and the winning team will receive a trophy.

Charles Goetzinger, assistant professor of speech, James Robbins, speech instructor, and Anita Grimm, speech graduate and assistant instructor, are making the trip also.

Collegian Posts Open For Spring Semester

Applications are now being accepted for the position of editor and for the position of business manager of the Kansas State Collegian for the second semester, according to Ralph R. Lashbrook, chairman of the Board of Student Publications.

Application blanks are available in Lashbrook's office, K205. Each application should be submitted, with a covering letter, to Mr. Lashbrook not later than December 20.

Any regularly enrolled student of the College who is scholastically eligible, may apply for editor or business manager of the Collegian.

K-State's Slighted Basketball Team Got No Welcome Home Tuesday

K-STATE'S BASKETBALL TEAM won two real tough ball games from two real tough Big Ten teams and turned the trick on the opposition's home court—which makes things even tougher.

The Cats did a good enough job to rate No. 5 in the Associated Press rankings, No. 6 in the United Press poll, and No. 10 in the International News Service poll. Only North Carolina, Kansas university, and Kentucky were able to do better on all three. This is an honor and certainly a justified tribute to the fine playing and coaching talent of the Wildcats.

The team arrived at the Manhattan municipal airport at about 1 p.m. in the afternoon. Frank Jones, in his play-by-play broadcast of the Purdue game Monday night, mentioned at least three times the team's arrival time at the airport.

HOWEVER, WHEN THE TEAM got to Manhattan, the only member of the student body on hand was a Collegian photographer. No cheer leaders, no SGA officials, and no Games and Rallies committee personnel were there to greet the conquerors of nationally-ranked Indiana and tough Purdue.

Admittedly, it was plenty cold Tuesday afternoon about 1 p.m. But we were under the impression the Games and Rallies committee was a hot organization designed to warm up student enthusiasm—especially for rallies. Guess someone has to submit a plan to them in the warm confines of the Union before the committee swings into action.

But the cheerleaders, the persons most directly concerned with student enthusiasm over athletics, really pulled a boner. This was a natural. It's doubtful the Cats will ever return from so successful and prestige-building a road trip. Maybe the white sweaters with the big block "K's" superimposed over the megaphones aren't quite warm enough. Or maybe the cheerleaders just don't have the initiative to get out and do some cheerleading where it's really needed and not in the warm Fieldhouse where K-Stater's will cheer anyway.

IT'S DOUBTFUL THAT ALL the cheerleaders had classes at 1 p.m., on Tuesday afternoon. Sure, they're not majoring in cheerleading like the Collegian photographer is majoring in good news coverage. But the Wildcats deserve more than they got.

So, hop up on that floor Saturday night, cheerleaders, and yell like crazy. You're going to have to do just that, if you want to make up for the volume you lost on Tuesday afternoon.

And rest easy you Games and Rallies grandmaws, chances are against your ever having to deal with another situation like this—at least while it's so cold.—Roger Myers.

Russian Premier Trying To Squeeze American Missile Bases Out of Europe

Paris—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin began a diplomatic squeeze against the small NATO partners today in hopes of frightening them out of agreeing to let the United States station 1,500-mile range ballistic missiles on their soil.

He sent Ambassador Victor I. Vavilov to Belgium's Premier Achille Van Acker today with a letter paralleling earlier personal messages to the Big Three and West Germany. Diplomats said similar missives were expected to the other small NATO nations.

Brussels dispatches said the message to Van Acker contained the same warnings sent to the other Western premiers. The Belgian development came as French Premier Felix Gaillard called his cabinet into session to lay down the conditions under which France might permit the United States to set up missile bases in France.

The subject of U.S. missile bases in Europe was one of the hottest issues facing the NATO summit conference which begins here Monday. The Soviet Union already was fighting the idea by again threatening to turn Europe into a graveyard in event of war.

A year-long Soviet campaign to frighten the West European nations was building up to a climax with letters from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin to President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Harold MacMillan, Gaillard, and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer warning of terrible Soviet retaliation.

Missouri Humor Magazine Gets the Boot

Columbia, Mo.—The campus humor magazine at the University of Missouri was out of business today.

The school's board of publications last night suspended "Show Me" indefinitely and impounded all remaining copies of its December issue. The issue had been ordered off the newsstands Thursday because two advertisements featured pictures of nude women.

The board said the suspension was because of "bad taste, crudity, and deterioration of professional standards," and emphasized that the order wasn't just because of the December issue but because of "cumulative dissatisfaction."

Newsman Await Jupiter Missile Blastoff

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—A chilled company of bird-watchers waited today for the Army's big Jupiter missile and the Air Force's bigger Atlas to blast up from the test center here.

Newsman and photographers huddled behind what shelter they could find on the wind-swept beaches with little knowledge of when either of the missiles would be fired.

Best guess for firing of the Jupiter intermediate range missile was within the next 48 hours. The intercontinental Atlas was believed scheduled nearer the end of the week.

There was wide speculation about a possible attempt by the army to put up a satellite with the missile visible in its service tower which observers believed might be a Jupiter C.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), former Air Force secretary and a member of the Senate Armed Forces committee, gave the newshounds no help at all when he arrived yesterday for a brief visit which he described as "more of a personal nature" than anything to do with the missile program.

Symington said he was "here to listen and not to talk . . . I have absolutely no comment to make."

Five MU Frat Men Lose Student Status

Columbia, Mo.—Five Missouri university students who admitted blowing up an old farmhouse with dynamite were out of school today with dismissals and suspensions.

Dr. Jack Matthews, dean of students, said two of the five were dismissed and will not be able to re-enter the university. He said two of the other three had been suspended until June 1, and the fifth until February 1.

Matthews said university policy prohibits saying which students received which penalties.

The five, all members of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, admitted they blew up a farm house near Easley, not far from Columbia. They were charged with malicious destruction of property and freed on $1,500 bond each.

Boone county officials set preliminary hearings for next Monday.

The five were Edmund A. Warnol, Jr., 20, of St. Louis; Thomas G. Mahack, 18, of St. Louis; John D. Butsch, 20, of Afton, Mo.; Charles T. Baum, 18, of St. Louis; and Francis A. Shipp, 19, of Columbia.

All except Shipp lived at the Lambda Chi Alpha house at Columbia. The youths said they found the dynamite about two months ago in a cave near Easley.

Democrats Blasted for U.S. Missile Lag

Washington—A Republican congressman today pointed the finger of blame at the Truman administration for U.S. failure to develop an intercontinental ballistics missile (ICBM) by 1953.

He said the administration acted counter to advice from General Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff at the time.

KS Union Decorating Party Interrupts Reporter's Studies

By ELDON MILLER

As K-State students go through the Student Union admiring the holiday decorations, they should be thankful they weren't there when the Hospitality committee was having them put up. This reporter was on the scene and is lucky to be alive to tell about it.

I was in the browsing library to study for 14 week tests when all of a sudden a herd of little females came tearing through the door with canned snow, scissors, and paper clasped tightly in their tender little meat-hooks.

Girls! Girls! Girls! All kinds, sizes and shapes were soon crawling all over the furniture trying to find places to mess up, uh, I mean decorate, for Christmas.

Now I don't mind girls when they walk shyly around the campus behaving in a refined fashion, but when they are given some materials and told to go decorate they become a disorganized mob.

Before I could fully grasp the situation, one of the herd, a little dynamo standing about five feet tall and covering her charms with a pink and yellow sweater and purple Toreador pants, came charging at me.

"Off the couch, Buster," she said in voice filled with motherly tenderness. "We are decorating for the holidays so why don't you be a good jerk and scram."

Being a true gentleman, I quickly complied. "After all," I said to myself, "who am I to stand in the way of the fair damsels who are helping spread holiday joy?"

So I retired to a far corner to study. But it was no use. Never have I witnessed such a wild display of feminine zeal.

About 20 coeds had infested the room. Some were sprawled on the floor making angels and Santa Clauses while others were dirtying up the nice, clean windows with canned snow.

And the noise! The screams and squeals of the gentler sex were unbearable. I have heard the mating call of hundreds of seals off the Alaskan coast and you can believe me when I say that a K-State coed decorating for Christmas would put a seal to shame in a screaming match.

The noise was driving me nuts. I knew what I had to do. The door was only 30 feet away. Thirty feet to freedom but I knew it would be the hardest distance I had ever covered.

Crawling through all those girls and decorations would be worse than crossing a river filled with cannibal fish or walking through an alligator pit.

But I had little choice. I was sure that I would perish out of torment if I stayed, so I decided to at least die fighting.

I grabbed my books, sprang from my seat, and started for the door.

Before I had gotten far, I felt a sharp pain shoot up my leg. I looked down to see that one of the little dames had planted her scissors in my foot.

"Git yer boxcars off the angels, Meat-head!"

I immediately panicked and bolted over a chair and ran into a gal.

"Watch where you're going, ox!"

I politely bowed and turn for the door just as a shot of canned snow hit me in the face.

"Out of the way, you stupid lug, tryin' to cause trouble or sumpin'?"

I ran, ran, ran. Fifteen, ten, five feet and through the door. I had received my first dose of the joyous season.

Intramural Cage Action Features Close Games

Wednesday's intramural basketball scene featured a number of tight ball games with three of the contests ending with one-point margins. Farm House, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Wesley Foundation each scored single-point wins last night in Ahearn gymnasium.

Farm House defeated Alpha Tau Omega 17-16 in a low scoring opener. Alpha Gamma Rho, meanwhile, edged Delta Sigma Phi, 19-18.

Wesley Foundation provided the other one-point win as they downed the Coffey Grinders, 21-20.

Sigma Phi Epsilon upended Sigma Nu, 26-18, with George Laddish scoring eight counters for the victors. Bob Turley, was the leading scorer with nine points for Sigma Nu.

Kappa Sigma won over Lambda Chi Alpha, 22-15, with the aid of John Moore and Bill Bloxom's six-point efforts. Sigma Phi Nothing defeated the Raiders, 23-19. D. W. Burgess hit 10 for the Raiders.

In the only routs of the evening, Acacia trounced Phi Kappa, 31-12, Sigma Chi defeated Theta Xi 28-15, and the Outlaws ran over the Acropolis 39-17.

Missouri U To Interview Dan Devine

By UNITED PRESS

Missouri university officials tomorrow will interview Dan Devine of Arizona State college for the head football coaching job at MU.

Thus, the question of who will get the job got another whirl in today—Missouri is looking for a coach to succeed Frank Broyles who quit to take a job at Arkansas university.

Devine, who has had three successful years at Arizona State and this past season ranked his team among two unbeaten, united major college elevens, is the first outsider to be interviewed for the Missouri job.

Cat Swimmers Prepared For Intra-Squad Clash

The K-State inter-squad swimming meet will be at 3 p.m. Saturday in Nichols gym, according to Bill Thrall, swimming coach.

The squad is divided into a purple and a white team. There are seven lettermen on the white team, with one on the purple team.

Two outstanding freshmen, Ira Goldbach, of Miami Beach, Fla., and David Hinderliter, last year's Kansas high school champion in the 100-yard free style, are on the purple team.

Lettermen on the white team: Tom Coblenz, Jim Nolen, Dave Dicken, Tom Onuma, Gordon Harper, Don Matsuoka, and Marion Towns. Other members are John Nickel and Bob Brilliant.

Jim Mariner is the lone letterman on the purple team. Other members, besides Goldbach and Hinderliter, are Jerry Fitzgerald, Graig McNeal, Bruce Smith, Ron Mihordin, Chuck Portman, Dave Leavengood, and Bill Brandenburg.

The varsity team will travel to Emporia January 11 to oppose Emporia State in its first meet of the season. The first home meet will be against Kansas university, January 15.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

Red Sox Sign OU Cage Star

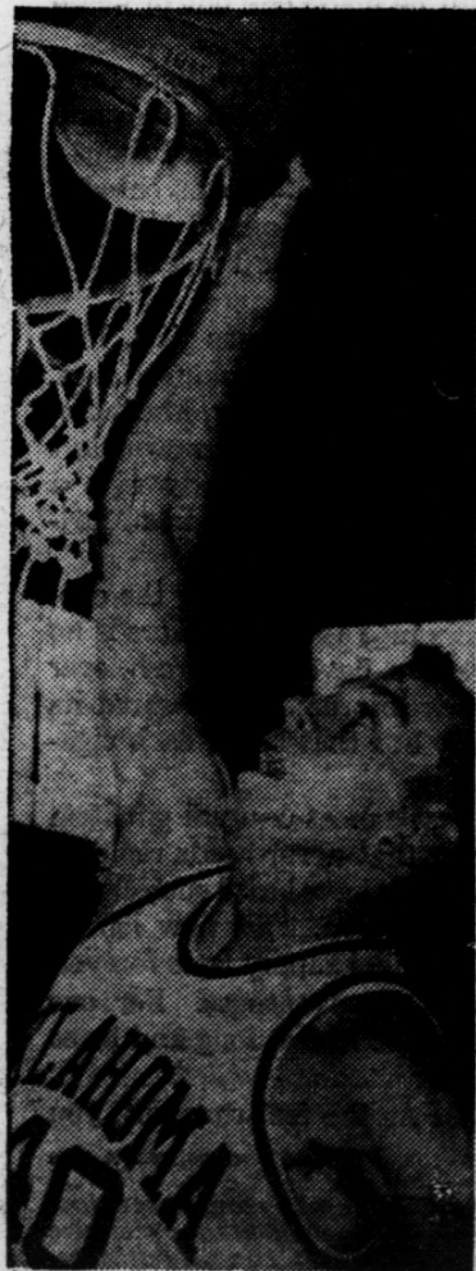

By UNITED PRESS

Don Schwall, 21-year-old University of Oklahoma junior from Ypsilanti, Mich., today signed a bonus contract with the Boston Red Sox for more than $50,000.

Schwall said he signed the contract with Red Sox scout R. B. "Wog" Rice Tuesday night but withheld details until interviewed today.

The 6-5½ right-handed pitcher had announced two days ago he was withdrawing from the Sooner basketball squad. He set a new sophomore scoring record with a 15.9 average per game during Oklahoma's 1956-57 cage season.

He hit 124 of 362 field goal attempts and 119 of 173 free throws last year for 367 points, only two less than center Joe King, and led the team in rebounding with 201 grabs.

Illinois U May Be a Threat In Big 10 Conference Battle

By UNITED PRESS

Illinois' sophomore-reinforced sharpshooters are shaping up as a solid contender in the Big 10 with a racehorse strategy that lets the rebounds fall where they may.

The experts say the Illini can't go very far because they lack an essential good big man. But they're averaging 88.6 points for their first three games and last night they scored a 91-74 triumph over a Butler team that conquered Big 10 powerhouse Ohio State. The Illini beat Marquette, 100-90, and DePaul, 75-70, in their first two games.

Michigan, also rated an "also-ran" in the Big 10 race, ran up a 44-25 lead at the half and went on to clobber South Dakota State, 95-55; West Virginia, the nation's 16th-ranked team, whipped Penn State, 84-50; North Carolina State rebounded from its loss to Clemson Tuesday night to down South Carolina, 86-73, and Wake Forest ripped Texas A&M, 68-46, in other big games last night.

Pete Tillotson and George Lee bagged 18 points each as Michigan handed South Dakota State its sixth straight loss and its fourth in five nights. The victory also gave the Big 10 an 18-8 record against non-conference opponents so far this season.

West Virginia made good on 46 per cent of its shots on its Morgantown, W.Va., home court in its rout of Penn State. The Mountaineers had a 44-29 lead at the half. Don Vincent led the winners with 19 points.

Whitey Bell and Lou Pucillo scored 22 and 20 points each as North Carolina State rolled to a 52-37 halftime margin and wound up hitting 64 per cent of its shots from the field. It was State's fourth victory in five games and South Carolina's first loss after two wins.

Wake Forest spoiled Texas A&M's first visit to North Carolina by going into the lead after three minutes and steadily widening it throughout the game. Wendell Carr scored 20 points, Dave Budd 18 and Olin Broadway 16 for Wake Forest while Neil Swisher had 15 and Archie Carroll 12 for Texas A&M.

In other games, Army beat Leigh, 64-51; Cornell downed Colgate, 71-56; Harvard crushed Wesleyan, 89-41; Syracuse topped Columbia, 55-50; Boston University rolled over Massachusetts, 67-46; Navy topped Delaware, 61-50; and Holy Cross beat Amherst, 55-52.

KS Swiss Student Describes Native Christmas

By IMOGENE LAMB

Pre-Christmas activities begin early in Switzerland, as they do in the United States, but they are much less commercialized, according to Fred Kunath, FT Sr, from Aarau, a town in northern Switzerland.

The home is the center of Christmas celebration. Shops are decorated, but there is no music booming from them, or tinsel strung across the streets.

"Public decorations are restricted to a lighted Christmas tree in the public square of the town," he explained. "The reason Americans have to make such a loud cry about Christmas and have good advertising is because Thanksgiving is right before it, and everybody is broke."

Christmas activities begin in each home in Switzerland four Sundays before the 25th. On the first of the four Sundays, a wreath of pine branches set with four candles is hung by silver strands from the ceiling above the living room table.

One candle burns the first Sunday, and one of the three remaining Sundays an additional candle is lit.

December 6 is Santa Claus day, according to Kunath. Dressed in a modest black coat, he comes from his home in the Black forest with bags of oranges, cookies, nuts, and chocolates for the good children, and a bundle of twigs for bad children.

One bag of treats is strapped on the back of a donkey, and Santa carries another himself.

Instead of hanging stockings by the fireplace for Santa to fill on Christmas Eve, children leave their slippers outside the sleeping room door to receive gifts. Such gifts as a silver hair, pine branch, or cookies are left by a Christmas angel.

Christmas trees in Swiss homes are either pine or fir, and are always green. The tree is decorated with stars and glass bulbs by the father of the household on Christmas Eve while the children wait in anticipation behind closed doors. Burning candles—the final requirement—are clipped in upright position to the tree.

"Artificial light is considered tasteless. On Christmas Eve, the Holy Night, we exchange presents, read the Christmas story, and sing carols."

The big dinner is served on Christmas night.

"We prefer goose, duck, roast pork, or even good chicken to turkey. Turkey is much too dry."

December 26, considered the second day of Christmas, is a day for winter sports and visiting. Southern Switzerland is the best location for winter sports. It is about a four hours drive from the Kunath home.

Kunath came to K-State in 1955 to study feed technology. He started as a freshman because some of his credits would not transfer from Switzerland, but he earned enough credits by his second year to become a junior. He expects to graduate this spring and return home. His parents own a feed plant in Switzerland, but he, as yet, has no definite plans.

DECK THE HALLS

The days grow short, the nights grow long, the north wind doth blow, and a light frost appears on the knees of coeds. Christmas is icumen in, and once more our keen young minds turn to the vexing problem of Christmas gifts.

Let us examine first the most vexing of all gift problems: What do you buy for the person who has everything? Well sir, when you encounter this dilemma, the best thing to do is seize it by the horns. Ask yourself this question: Does he truly have everything? Does he, for example, have a birthmark? A Mach number? A lacrosse net? An I-beam? An S-hook? A U-bolt? A T-square? A Primus stove?

(There is, incidentally, quite an interesting little story about how Primus came to invent the stove. Before Primus's invention, cooking was rather a hazardous occupation. People just built fires any old place—the floor, the closet, the escritoire—and often as not the whole house would go up in flames along with the dinner. Primus, a goose plucker of Frankfurt-am-Main, kept thinking there must be a more efficient way to cook. Finally, in a flash of inspiration, it came to him: Why not build a device to contain the fire and keep it from spreading?

...his mistake was in building it out of paper...

(Well sir, he built precisely such a device and named it after his beloved wife Stove. Primus's first Stove, it must be confessed, was less than a triumph; his mistake was in building it out of paper. The next Stove, built of wood, fared hardly better. Not until he made one out of metal could the Stove really be called a success.

(But even then the Stove was not entirely satisfactory. The trouble was that the Stove filled up with ashes and became useless after a few weeks. It remained for Primus's son Frederick to conquer that problem. He invented a mechanism to remove ashes from the bottom of the Stove and was thenceforth known to posterity as Frederick the Grate.)

But I digress. We were discussing Christmas gifts. This year, as every year, a popular gift is the smoking jacket. And what do the smoking jackets smoke? Why, Marlboro, of course—every man jacket of them. And why wouldn't they smoke Marlboros? Why wouldn't anybody with a taste bud in his head? You get such a lot to like in a Marlboro—filter . . . flavor . . . flip-top box.

Here is no filter to hollow the cheeks and bug the eye-balls; here is a filter that draws nice and easy. Here is no flavor to pale and pall; here is a flavor ever fresh, ever zestful. Here is no flimsy pack to crumble and shred its precious cargo; here is a sturdy box that keeps each cigarette plump and pristine.

Speaking of smoking, the year's most unusual gift item is a brand-new cigarette lighter that never needs refilling. You are scoffing. You are saying you have heard such claims before. But it's true, I promise you. This new lighter never, never needs refilling! The fuel supply lasts forever.

Of course, there are certain disadvantages. For one thing, the lighter is rather bulky—170 feet long and three stories high.

But look on the bright side: As the fuel runs out, you can rent rooms in it.

U.S. Heir to Christmas Customs of World

By DAN KERSHAW

Four days after the shortest day of the year, as the earth begins to turn its northern hemisphere toward the sun, more than half the nations of the world observe Christmas.

Enjoying the freedom that their forefathers gained, the people of the United States observe Christmas in many ways and most of the time just take the holiday for granted. Few stop to contemplate what it is all about.

Just what is Christmas? How did it begin? How do the different nations celebrate it, and what are the different customs observed throughout the world?

Often lost in the shuffle and rush of the yuletide season but actually the basis for the holiday is the fact that it is the birthday of Christ.

One of the customs observed throughout the world on Christmas is the singing of songs which English speaking people call carols. However in France carols are called noels; in Italy, pastorelles; and in Germany, Kristlieder.

Christmas carols originated probably in the early church, where nativity plays which told the story of Christ's birth were given. The songs made up a large and important part of these plays.

Later carols were sung by groups who went about from house to house. New carols were added, some sacred and others concerned feasting and drinking. Some of the best known carols are "Silent Night, Holy Night," "The First Noel," "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," and "We Three Kings of Orient Are."

The present day American Christmas is heir to the Christmas of many lands and many ages. Colonists from England and Holland, from Germany and Sweden, from Spain and France and Italy, have all contributed to it some of the customs of their homelands.

The Christmas celebration not only brings joy to all nations, it also means a livelihood for thousands of people from the manufacturers of modern electrical and mechanical toys to the Japan, who make colored glass glass-blowers of Germany and ornaments for Christmas trees.

Christmas Dinners Vary From Country to Country

By SYLVIA DARROW

"What's for Christmas dinner?"

If you're in old London Town, noon, Christmas day, you may have roast suckling pig with onion stuffing, old English wassail bowl, and brandied plum pudding, just to mention a few of the delicacies that appear on the traditional English menu.

In Gay "Pairee," potato rissoli, poulet 'en gelee (chicken to you and me), and red wine are among the savory foods adorning the French table.

And who ever heard of a Swedish Christmas without a Smorgasbord dinner, with Swedish meat balls, beet and herring salad, and ludfisk, holding the places of honor?

Ravioli, zuppa di pollo, and pollo al burro—sound familiar? It does if you're Italian. (In case you're wondering, zuppa di pollo, and pollo al burro are chicken dishes). This and much more would grace your table in Rome, Naples, or Nice.

But, chances are, you're like me. You won't wander much farther than the "good old USA" for Christmas dinner, and the old favorite, Tom Turkey, (or a ham if "Tom" didn't escape the Thanksgiving hatchet).

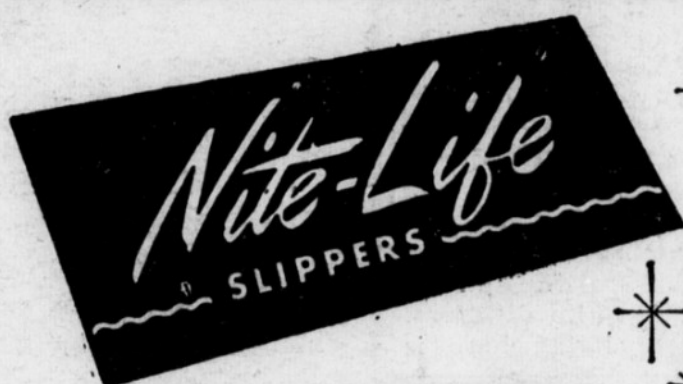

Traditionally, turkey makes up the true American Christmas dinner, and this seems to hold true with some of the affiliates of K-State.

President and Mrs. McCain's traditional Christmas dinner centers around a golden, brown, roasted turkey. The dinner also includes sage dressing, stuffed potatoes with mushroom gravy, sweet potato cassarole, cranberries, and plum pudding with hard sauce, which is the favorite McCain Christmas desert.

Not only is Mr. Turkey a favorite at the McCain house, but you'll also find he's the center of attraction on the table of Dean and Mrs. E. E. Leasure.

Minced pie and pfefferlusse (German cookies) are favorites at the Paul M. Young home. Professor Young is the associate dean of the School of Arts and Sciences.

All these menus make you hungry? Well cheer up, it's only 13 days until Christmas and your traditional Christmas dinner.

KS Foreign Student Tells of Chinese Yule Season

ERIC MOK, EE Soph from Hong Kong, China, looks through a stack of Christmas greeting cards. Eric's real name is Sei Yum but one of his father's friends suggested changing it so it would be easier to remember by Americans. Eric hopes to spend this Christmas in Pennsylvania with his brother. This will be Eric's second Christmas in the United States.

By CHARLENE STRAH

"Last year I saw my first 'White Christmas,'" says Eric Mok, EE Soph, from Hong Kong. The difference in Christmas activities were especially noticed by Eric after spending his first United States Christmas in Kansas.

Since the weather never gets under 40 degrees in Hong Kong many families gather in the parks for picnics, go for walks, attend movies, and go window shopping. The streets are very crowded with people who go out to have fun.

The Chinese New Year (about a month after the U.S. New Year) is still the biggest celebration of the year in Hong Kong, for only the Christians, a minority of the population, observe Christmas. The stores are festively decorated and remain open for business until 10 or 11 p.m. the week before and after both holidays.

Eric's family belongs to the Church of England so it celebrates Christmas by decorating a tree, going to church, and exchanging presents. In the past Eric also joined a group of students to sing carols at houses of friends on Christmas.

"People don't die so much from drinking and driving on the holiday there, though," he noted.

Every street is red from fire crackers in Hong Kong on the Chinese New Year. "This is a sign of prosperity and good luck," he explained. All people join in this celebration by gayly decorating their houses with lights and colored paper.

"I think I am pretty lucky to be here in the United States," Eric said. "It is quite different. The standard of living here is higher and the people are considerably richer."

Eating American food was a big change for Eric. He cooks for himself so he can fix some Chinese food.

Eric also has had to get used to a new name. "My real name, Sei Yum, would be hard to remember so a friend of my father's suggested Eric."

He became interested in coming to K-State through Miss Helen Hostetter, journalism professor, who taught his father at Ning New university in Canton, China about 25 years ago.

Plans for a possible visit to Pennsylvania this Christmas are being made by Eric. He will go see his brother, Ming Yum, who will graduate in January from the University of Pennsylvania.

No Bomb

Williamstown, Vt. (U.P.)—Principal Donald Brown of Williamstown High School told a secondary school meeting group he would be glad to have "anyone call him at anytime." His first call was from a man who informed him a bomb was placed into the school, set to explode the next morning. It proved a hoax.

Alums To Sell Record Album Of KS Songs

A 10-inch long play record album, "The Songs of K-State," may be bought in the Alumni office in Anderson hall, and in the Student Union.

Selling the 400 available albums is a Christmas project of the K-State Alumni association. Price of each album is $5. The album was recorded by a national recording company.

Songs on the record are "Alma Mater," "Kansas Wildcats," "King Cotton March," "Wildcat Victory," "Heavenly Light," "The Purple K," "Viva L' Amour," "Overture: Der Freischultz," and "O Dear What Can the Matter Be."

"'NUF STUFF HERE TO TIP A TREE OVER," Audrey Schwab, HEN Fr, and Curtis Zeigler, ME Soph, find as they shop for tree trimmings. The steady couple visited Manhattan stores recently to find Christmas gifts for family and friends.

AUDREY plays 'peek-a-boo' to see snowy Santa Curt has found.

Gosh! Only 10 Shopping Days; Time To See Your Loan Agency

By JANICE BATES

Only 10 shopping days 'til Christmas, and you have not done any Christmas shopping.

You take a "Scrooge" attitude and think to yourself that giving presents is a silly custom, especially when the amount of money you have to spend on Christmas gifts is a low two-digit number.

To make your Christmas shopping easy, the first step is to convince yourself that the spirit of your giving and the thought behind the gift is more meaningful to the recipient than is the amount of money spent. The second step is to hop in your car or on the bus and head down town.

If you are a fellow, the first person to shop for is your girl. She would be sure to like records, perfume, jewelry, a jewelry box, a manicure set, a sweater, or a stuffed animal to perk up her room. A picture of yourself would be a thoughtful gift.

Girls, your boyfriend would also appreciate a picture of you. His car means a lot to him, so why not get him something for his car such as a chamois for washing or a key container to match his billfold.

In buying gifts for Mom and Dad, consider something to make their work easier or a luxury item that they would never buy for themselves.

Dad might like tickets to a K-State basketball game, a subscription to a favorite magazine, a new pipe, or accessories for his car.

Mom wants her home to look like the ones in House Beautiful magazine, but she probably won't be able to have a new divan until you are out of college, so why not get something for the mantle, the coffee table, or the bookshelf. She might prefer something personal—how about a corsage for Christmas day?

It's fun to shop for brothers, sisters, nieces, and nephews. If they are 12 years old or older, make them feel grown up by giving them something you might give to someone your own age.

HUNDREDS OF SWEATERS on display, and Curt liked them all!

GETTING SERIOUS, Curt and Audrey look over "Christmas specials" in a jewelry store. They looked longingly, but did not buy.

"NOW HERE'S A NICE TRANSISTOR" Curt says, as cautious Audrey inspects a price tag.

AUDREY HAS HER TURN, as she tries on a "cute" car coat. Curt even agreed. After inspection in the mirror, it was returned to the rack, perhaps to be taken again by Santa.

WINDOW SHOPPING proved to be the most fun, as Curt and Audrey made the rounds. Here, they look over a display of ladies' fashions and perfume. Curt took a glance and was ready to go; Audrey seemed to hang back.

Christmas Comin'? Must Be—Look at the Parties

DANCING TO MUSIC by Larry Smith and his band, members of Southeast hall entertained their dates at the dorm Saturday night. The event was the annual Southeast Christmas formal and the dorm was decorated for a Christmas theme. Brenda Morgan, social chairman, was in charge of the dance.

Chi Omega

Christmas tree trimming, dancing, and drinking egg-nog were the main activities of the Chi Omega Christmas party Sunday night. The girls gave their dates socks filled with nonsense gifts.

Alpha Xi Delta

Trimming the Christmas tree and roasting weiners in the fireplace highlighted an informal gathering of Alpha Xi Deltas and their dates Sunday night. The Alpha Xi semi-formal Christmas party will be Friday night.

Clovio

"Crystal Ball" was the theme of the annual Clovia Christmas formal December 6.

Dr. John Keltner, head of Speech department, was guest speaker at the banquet.

After the banquet, members of Clovia and their dates danced to the music of Randy Kuhn and his band in the Union ball room.

Coral, green, and white was the color scheme. Table decorations consisted of coral talisman roses.

Chaperones were Mrs. Harvey Langford, assistant professor in the Family and Child Development department, and Miss Joan Engle and Harlan Copeland, both with the state 4-H staff.

Beta Sigma Psi

Santa Claus will come to the Beta Sigma Psi annual Snowman's hop December 13. A queen and a king will be selected to reign over the party. For entertainment the group will sing Christmas carols and play cards.

Pi Beta Phi

"Silver Bells" is the theme of the Christmas party given by Pi Beta Phi for dates Sunday night. Gifts will be presented to the Pi Phis' dates by a member dressed as Santa Claus, and a short skit will be given.

Farm House

Santa Claus will read a poem to each coed guest as he presents her with a gift at the Farm House Christmas party Friday at the chapter house. The poems will be written by each Farm House member to his date. A Christmas melodrama will be presented by the pledges.

Northwest Hall

"Fantasy in Frost" is the theme of the Northwest hall Christmas party Friday. Snowflakes will cover the ceiling in the recreation room. A Christmas tree will also be there. Ropes of greenery will line the stairway. Couples will dance to the music of the Dream-aires.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Hangman's nooses, bars, judges, and a fake criminal line-up lent to the Alcatraz theme of the Lambda Chi Alpha party Friday night. Lambda Chis were dressed in trench coats, and their faces were made up with black eyes and scars. Their dates were escorted to the party in a police wagon.

Special guests of the Lambda Chis were Dr. and Mrs. S. T. Keim, Jr. Dr. Keim is head of the Business Administration department.

New Sorority on Campus?

Discussion is now underway regarding the expansion of sororities at K-State, according to Miss Margaret Lahey, associate dean of students.

"Both Panhellenic council and the administration feel that with the expected enrollment increase a new group or two will be needed within the next two years," Dean Lahey said.

Panhellenic has recommended that the Dean of Students office investigate the possibility of a new sorority coming on campus. The council prefers new groups rather than increased membership for the present 10 sororities.

Dean Lahey is sending letters to several national organizations which have indicated in previous years an interest in establishing chapters on the K-State campus. Delta Zeta and Zeta Tau Alpha, former K-State sororities, will also be contacted in accordance with a National Panhellenic recommendation.

The groups to be considered must have adequate financial backing and local alumni support, she explained.

Alumni advisers of the 10 sororities will meet in the near future to discuss sorority expansion plans.

The newest K-State sorority, Gamma Phi Beta, established a chapter at K-State in the fall of 1956.

Students' Children Can Watch Movie

While parents Christmas shop, their children can attend the kiddies' show, "Treasure Island," a Christmas project sponsored by the Union Movies committee Saturday in the Student Union little theatre.

There will be two showings, one at 10 a.m., and one at 2 p.m. Each showing will last two hours. Admission is free.

In addition to the main feature, there will be a Christmas cartoon, "The Littlest Angel."

Candy treats will be given to the children as they leave, according to Rosalyn Rowell, Soc Sr, Union Movie committee chairman.

Adults accompanying small children will also be admitted to the show, she said.

Bill Harrison Named Chairman For Union's Games Committee

Bill Harrison, NE Sr, was appointed chairman of the Union Games committee at a meeting of the Program council yesterday, according to Lowell Novy, VM Soph, council chairman.

Harrison replaces Jerry Mase,

ChE Sr, who resigned because of illness.

The Games committee is in charge of bowling leagues, table tennis tournaments, and bridge tournaments and student activities in the games room of the Union.

Dates and announcements of future Union events were also discussed in yesterday's meeting.

The Coffee Hours committee is sponsoring a "Rig a Twig" party December 18 in the Union main lounge at 3 p.m.

K-State's audition for the Big Four talent contest will be January 14 in the main ballroom of the Union. Any students can audition and the winner will go on to the Big Four talent show.

The Harmonizers will sing Christmas carols December 17 for the dormitories and sororities.

Matt Betton will give his "Analogy of West Coast Jazz" at a meeting of the Jazz club January 10 in the main ballroom of the Student Union. Members of the club and their dates are invited.

A puppet show, "Aladdin and his Wonderful Lamp," will be presented April 19. K-State students will operate the puppets. The event is sponsored by the Hospitality committee.

The Music committee is sponsoring a program December 16 in the music lounge at 3 p.m. The program will include Christmas carols, readings, and refreshments.

Faculty Member's Appeal Upheld by Traffic Board

The Faculty Traffic Appeals board upheld the appeal of a faculty member charged with parking in a student stall at its meeting yesterday in the Union.

The name of the man was withheld by the board because it did not have permission of release from the Faculty Senate Executive committee. He received the ticket for parking in a student-reserved stall behind Holton hall.

The defendant said he had heavy equipment to load in his

Staters To 'Rig a Twig' At SU Christmas Party

Students are invited to a Christmas tree trimming party from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the main lounge of the Union.

The party is being given in honor of Mrs. James A. McCain, wife of the College president, and is being sponsored by the Union Coffee Hours committee.

The theme of the party is "Rig a Twig," and each organized living group has been invited to make an ornament for the tree. The tree will be presented to Mrs. McCain after it is decorated.

Entertainment for the party will consist of the reading, "Eloise at Christmas," given by Clenece Roberts, Sp Soph; a skit by the Campus Entertainment committee; and group singing led by Don Wilbur, BPM Soph. Hot Christmas punch and cookies will be served.

Union Display Picture Stolen

A picture valued at $20 was stolen from the Union art lounge sometime Monday morning, but the "thief" evidently didn't think it was worth that much—he left a $5 bill under the title card.

The picture, "Steel Plant," is by Edward J. Thias. It had been hanging on the west wall of the art lounge for 10 days, according to Professor J. Cranstom Heintzelman, director of the Kansas Federation of Artists which owns the picture. Prof. Heintzelman is with the Department of Architecture and Allied Arts.

The loss was discovered Monday morning about 11:30. It was the second theft from the art lounge this year.

A&S Day Planned For February 22d

Arts and Sciences council members set February 22 as the date for the annual Arts and Sciences Day, dropped plans for a carnival as a part of the day's activities, and set up committees for supervising arrangements at a meeting yesterday, according to Bill Schickltanz, GA Sr, president.

Kansas high school students will be invited to K-State to look over displays set up in the Union by various departments at the School of Arts and Sciences.

The day's activities will begin with a buffet luncheon in the Union ballroom at noon. High school guests will look at exhibits between 1 and 5 p.m.

Tentative plans for combining a carnival with Arts and Sciences day were dropped because organized house representatives who discussed the proposal with the council showed a lack of interest, Schickltanz said.

Annette Tighe, PEW Jr, and Charles Hostetler, PrL Soph, were appointed to arrange for sending invitations to Kansas high school students.

H-O Sophomores Finish Class Enrollment Today

Sophomores whose names begin from H to O are scheduled to complete enrollment today from 1 to 4 p.m. in Anderson hall.

Freshmen from P to Z will enroll Monday. All eligible seniors, juniors, and sophomores who failed to pre-enroll at their scheduled times may do so any afternoon next week.

Yesterday 329 students enrolled, bringing the total pre-enrollment figure for the first eight days to 2,379, according to Robert A. Anderson, assistant director of admissions and registrar.

Complex Problems Presented By Atomic Power Staters Told

By KATHY SCHULTIS

College Station, Tex.—The problems connected with atomic power are more complex than ever before in the history of the world, according to a panel of three atomic energy experts participating in the third annual Student Conference on National Affairs at Texas A&M college.

Members of the panel were Joseph E. Johnson, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Eugene M. Zuckert, a member of the Atomic Energy commission and formerly assistant secretary of the United States Air Force; and Dr. Charles L. Dunham, director of the division of biology and medicine of the Atomic Energy commission.

In the discussion, jointly sponsored by SCONA and the Great Issues committee, Johnson told the overflow audience several facts about atomic energy. He said guided missiles are important today as intercontinental carriers for atomic warheads.

He told the group that the most important thing is that the leaders of the Soviet Union and Communist China remain "just as hostile to the United States as they ever were, and have not changed their goal of world domination."

Johnson gave five propositions and listed them:

1. Despite Sputnik, the Soviet Union and the U.S. are now at a standoff and the U.S. must not fall behind;
2. Capacity for retaliation is essential for the U.S. but is not sufficient—America must have carriers that can reach the heart of the Soviet Union;
3. The U.S. must have a complete range of foreign policy instruments as well as military war instruments; and
5. The hardest proposition of all is that old concept of fighting a war to a total victory is no longer meaningful—the U.S. must be willing and able to fight limited wars.

Zuckert who spoke about peace-time uses of atomic energy, said the program has suffered because there has been too great concern about "who does the job, rather than getting the job done."

Dunham, the last member of the panel to speak, informed the SCONA and Great Issues audience of the use of atomic energy for medicine, agriculture, and industry. He said atomic energy's greatest contribution is the radio isotope.

Texas 'Grippers' Moan, Groan In 'Stereophonic Fussbudgeting'

By Sharon Totten

TWELVE OUTSTANDING Texas university "grippers" spent several days recently just wrinkling their noses and growling. The sassy students were practicing for the final round in the "stereophonic fussbudgeting" contest.

The contest consisted of the contestants confronting each other in gripe-to-gripe battle. The Texas university Grievance committee acted as judge and chose the funniest fussbudgeter.

K-STATE STUDENTS may observe Tramp Day, but they don't seem to have any special day that is, as colorful as one dreamed up at Oregon State college. Oregon State students observe Grubby day. The day is climaxed by a grubby dance attended by grubby couples, according to the Oregon State Daily Barometer.

THE LARGEST GROUP on many college and university campuses is finally coming into its own. The ugly men are finally receiving recognition. K-State's ugliest man has been chosen in recent years and the contest seems to be catching on at many colleges.

As a matter of fact, an ugly man contest has recently been conducted at Colorado university, and the Colorado Daily had this to say about it, "Though the ugly men are personally recognized each day, it has been some time since they have had sufficient public recognition."

The winner of the "Mr. Ugly" contest won a very apropos award—a date with Miss Minnesota. His sponsor (who was smart enough to be aware of the obvious) received a plaque.

AUTOMATION HAS INVADED the field of eraser cleaning, says the Louisiana State university Daily Reveille. The Little Giant Electric Eraser Cleaner is the machine now replacing the traditional pounding sessions college students remember from their grade school days.

The Little Giant resembles a vacuum cleaner and tidies one eraser every three seconds.

U.S. Nuclear-Equipped Atom Subs Ready To Strike from All Oceans

New York—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said today the United States "at the moment" has nuclear weapons "on submarines in both oceans, standing ready to rise, fire and submerge within moments."

Other nuclear weapons, he said, are aboard B-52 jet bombers and supercarriers.

"In other words," Mitchell said, "we can, at this or any given moment, decimate any attacker, no matter what weapons he might use against us."

Mitchell made these remarks in a speech prepared for delivery before the Life Insurance Association of America.

He said "it is not only improper but incorrect" to read into U.S. failure to match Soviet satellite feats "inadequacy of our national security."

He said failure of the Vanguard rocket test in Florida last Friday was a disappointment. But, he said, the failure was that of a scientific project and has "no direct effect upon our nation's military efforts in the missile field."

Federation Aeronautique international of Paris.

The new record is far below speeds attained by military research aircraft in flights made without official timers.

Capt. Millburn G. Apt set an unofficial mark of 2,100 miles an hour in the U.S. Air Force Bell X-2 rocket plane September 27, 1956, according to recording instruments recovered after the plane crashed, killing Apt.

The X-2 earlier had reached 1,900 miles an hour with Capt. Frank K. Everest at the controls.

Airplanes on Way Out?

Washington — The Deputy Commander of the Army's Ballistic Missile agency said today "the airplane, as a weapons system, will give way to the guided missile in the not too distant future."

Brig. Gen. J. A. Barclay made the prediction in a speech prepared for delivery to the National Security Industrial association.

The rocketing political controversy over who is to blame for the lag in missiles continued meantime with a Republican Congressman protesting that the Truman administration failed to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) by 1953.

World Speed Record Set

Los Angeles—A new world speed record for manned flight was set yesterday by Air Force Maj. Adrian E. Drew, 37, streaking across a 10.1-mile course at an average 1,207.6 miles an hour.

Drew, in a twin-jet F-101A Voodoo fighter-bomber, broke the British-held world mark of 1,132 miles an hour, set in March, 1956, in a Fairey delta aircraft.

The flight, at 39,000 feet, was timed by clock cameras at Edwards Air Force base and certified by a group of timers from the National Aeronautic association. It will be submitted to the

Dear Editor:

As members of this loyal student body, we believe that we deserve to have printed in the Collegian, a profit and loss statement concerning the financial condition of the Student Union.

This statement should be published monthly. The reason we feel that this should be made available to the student body is that it is our money that is involved in the operation of the Union, as it is in any bank or corporation.

If the management of the Union feels that this information should not be made available to the student body, a complete and thorough investigation of the management of the Union should be made.

K-State Cagers to Face Third Big 10 Unit in Row

K-State's cagers take on the third Big Ten power in a row in Ahearn field house tomorrow at 7:35 p.m. when the Cats face Iowa university, undefeated in two games this season.

The Hawkeyes have height, depth, speed, and a fair amount of experience. They hold decisions over SMU (65-50) and Arizona (80-63) in their only two outings to date, both at home.

K-State likewise is undefeated after winning, 76-31, from Texas

Probable starters:

K-State	Pos.	Iowa
Boozar (6-8)	F	(6-5) Gunther
Abbott (6-3)	F	(6-7) Gentry
Parr (6-9)	C	(6-6) Payne
DeWitz (6-3)	G	(5-11) Nau
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(6-2) McConnell

Western in the season opener at home and sweeping a two-game swing against Indiana (66-61) and Purdue (79-73) on foreign courts.

Showing even greater overall squad height than K-State, the Hawkeyes will average 6-4, including three lettermen and a pair of sophomores. Only two of those started against K-State at Iowa City last year when the Hawkeyes won, 85-83, in a nip-and-tuck tussle that saw the score tied 11 times and the two teams never more than six points apart.

The other time the two have met, Iowa took a 54-41 win at Iowa City in 1946. This is the Hawkeyes first appearance at K-State.

Coach Bucky O'Connor sees his Hawkeye reserves deep enough to allow him to use a platoon system with two quintets showing almost equal strength. He has eight lettermen and eight sophomores to sort from. Since K-State Coach Tex Winter has similar depth, this game may feature a parade of manpower from both benches.

The Wildcat coach said he planned no changes in the Cat starters, but listed Wally Frank, 6-8 sophomore who was a stand-out against Indiana and Purdue, as "number-six regular" due to see heavy action in this game. Frank scored a clincher basket against the Hoosiers, and pounded in 18 points against Purdue. He led rebounding against the Boilermakers with 11 grabs.

Cat Wrestlers to Host Fort Hays in Opener

K-State's varsity wrestling team will meet Fort Hays State college tomorrow in Ahearn gymnasium after the K-State-Iowa basketball game.

Coach Fritz Knorr has named six veterans and two sophomores to wrestle in the eight weight divisions.

The wrestlers and their weights: Bobby Cervantez, 123-pound sophomore; Riley Miller, 130-pound junior; Ross Pike, 137-pound sophomore; Jim Roberts, 147-pound junior; Pat Doyle, 157-pound junior; Ray Glaze, 167-pound senior; Gary Haller, 177-pound senior; and Ken Ellis, heavyweight senior.

Ellis, a service-returnee, has placed second twice in the Big Seven tournament and was a fourth place winner in the NCAA tourney as a sophomore.

Cage Games Close In Yesterday's IM's

Last night intramural basketball action was spiced by one overtime game and a pair of games with one and two point margins.

In the overtime battle, DSF defeated the 1226 Club, 29-27.

The Spartans edged the Eight Balls, 21-20. Sharing scoring for the Spartans were Ron Schureman and Bill Parr with six points apiece.

In another close game, the Hobos beat the Brewster Boys, 26-24. Leading the winners was Don Long with 12 points. Kasbah, behind Dirk Praeger's 11 points, defeated South Jardine, 23-15.

With Gerald Taton scoring 12 points, the Five E's won over the Rho Alphas, 38-24.

Hal Sinclair and Bob Parker, with six points each, led Jr. AVMA to a 29-17 win over the Hic Cups.

The Roadrunners ran over Hillel 38-22. Bernard Schulz was high point man for the winners with 14 points.

Glenn Tolman scored eight of the Vets, points as they defeated OK House, despite the combined efforts of Robert and Roger Shultz who scored six points apiece, defeated the Flu Flu Five 22-17.

Cats Tip Iowa, Raid Arkies

By JAY WORKMAN
Collegian Sports Editor

"Arkansas will be tough, especially at Fayetteville," K-State basketball Coach Tex Winter said after the Wildcats pulled away from Iowa university with an 86-69 victory Saturday night. The game was played in Ahearn field house before 11,000 fans. The Cats meet Arkansas tonight.

It was the fourth win of the season for the Cats and the third in a row over Big Ten opponents. Iowa was on the Cats' tail most of the game, trailing 35-42 at halftime and only two points 60-58, with 9:19 left in the contest. But, in the last seven minutes, K-State poured in 17 points while Iowa could manage only seven.

Jack Parr led the Cats with 25 points, while Bob Boozer sank 19 and Roy DeWitz, got 11. Dave Gunther was the top Iowan with 24 and Bobby Washington swished 15 scores.

K-State had the best shooting percentage, 44.8 to 33.8, and out-rebounded the Hawkeyes, 48-38.

"Games against tough opponents like Iowa are the kind you like to win," Winter said, "They will be a contender in the Big Ten this season."

NUMBER 62

Pre-Enrollee's Total 2,692; P-Z Frosh Get Cards Today

With five more days of pre-enrollment remaining, 2,692 students have enrolled, according to Robert A. Anderson, assistant director of admissions and registrar.

There are 1,070 students enrolled in the School of Arts and Sciences, 736 in the School of Engineering and Architecture, 378 in the School of Agriculture, 246 in the School of Home Economics, and 186 in the School of Veterinary Medicine. Seventy-six graduate students have also pre-enrolled.

The total number of students pre-enrolling is expected to reach 4,000, Anderson said.

He said 1,000 freshmen are expected to pre-enroll. Freshmen are pre-enrolling today and tomorrow.

"A couple of problems are marring an otherwise successful program," Anderson said. "One is that some students are not starting at the right place." Students should start at the west door of Anderson, the door which leads to the basement, and pick up their cards in the IBM room.

Freshmen whose names begin with letters P-Z, who had no failing grades at the nine weeks, can pre-enroll from 1 to 4 p.m. today.

Freshmen from A through G are scheduled to receive class assignments tomorrow afternoon and those from H to O will pre-enroll Wednesday.

All eligible students who did not enroll at the scheduled time can obtain assignments on any succeeding day through Friday. Thursday and Friday are reserved for students who failed to enroll previously.

Cycle-Car Collision Results in Injuries; Damages Total $850

By JANICE BATES

A motorcycle and car collision at an entrance to the Union parking lot at 9:10 this morning resulted in an estimated $850 damage to the two vehicles.

Melvin Kerley, EE. Sr., suffered cuts on the knee and lip and possibly a broken nose. Campus patrolman J. E. Perkins took Kerley to Riley County hospital before the ambulance arrived.

Kerley was riding his motorcycle north on 17th street when it collided with a car driven by Dick Atkinson, PEM Gr, which was turning into the parking lot.

Atkinson received a scratch and bruises to the right side of his face when flying glass hit him.

The right side of the front windshield and the right front door glass of Atkinson's car were shattered. The right front door was gashed in two places and the chrome strip on the door was torn off. Estimated damage to the car is $500.

Patrolman Perkins estimated damage to the motorcycle at $350.

U.S. Foreign Policy Key SCONA Topic

A realization of the importance of understanding U.S. foreign policy was the key topic for discussion at the Student Conference on National Affairs, said Neil Scott, Soc Sr, after returning from the conference yesterday.

Other K-Staters attending the conference Wednesday through Saturday at Texas A&M college were Jim Shane, His Sr; Kathy Schultis, HEJ Jr; George Hooper, BA Sr; Warren Keegan, Ec Sr; Kay Eplee, BA Jr; Marc Asher, BPM Sr; and Gail Cross, AA Jr.

The purpose of the conference was to cover the role of the U.S. in world affairs, to increase student interest in world affairs, and to provide an opportunity for exchange of ideas among students.

There were about 150 students representing 63 colleges at the conference.

Students discussed U.S. foreign policy, Communistic influence, and U.S. aid to the Middle East, Europe, Africa, Far East, and South America.

SC To Hash Two Issues This Evening

Student Council will act on two major issues tonight—revision of the eligibility standards of student leaders on campus and recommendations from the Homecoming committee to improve Homecoming next year.

Recommendations from the Student Governing association Constitutions Revision committee requests that a higher grade average be required for major campus leaders. The suggested changes are to raise the present requirement of a C average to 1.3 and to base eligibility of students on their all-College averages rather than the previous semester's grades.

At the time of election or appointment to office, students must be carrying a minimum of 12 credit hours, and be passing in all subjects in which they are enrolled.

Detailed recommendations for changes in Homecoming will be presented for Council consideration by the Homecoming committee.

Suggestions stress co-ordination and proper delegation of authority among groups planning Homecoming activities.

Student Union Smorgasbord Is Tomorrow

A Christmas smorgasbord, with festive dishes and decorations, will be presented by the Student Union tomorrow and Wednesday in the main ballroom.

The Smorgasbord buffet will be served from 5:15 p.m. until 6:30 p.m. both days.

In announcing the smorgasbord, Loren Kottner, union director, said, "There have been a number of requests for this type of Christmas meal and the Union food service has planned a breath-taking array of interesting dishes."

Administration's Fight for Faculty Dollars Should Have Widespread Student Support

PRESIDENT McCAIN is "on the road," so to speak, in an effort to prevent the 1958 budget session of the Kansas legislature from pigeonholing a proposed five per cent raise in faculty salaries.

This shouldn't be strictly an administrator's fight, it should also be a student's task. Because of the direct way in which a student benefits, in this case K-State students, they should be interested in whether the Legislature is talked into preventing an increase in faculty salaries.

You've probably read the most pertinent arguments on the subject—industry is grabbing off much of the best teaching talent because it recognizes the value of these men and is willing to pay them the salaries they deserve—so there's not too much value in re-hashing the pros and cons here.

THE THING WHICH is of value, though, is student interest and student willingness to voice opinion where it will do some good. Many K-Staters complain about their instructors and bemoan the fact that they're not getting the education they paid for—but moaning is all they do.

They blaspheme the administration because it does away with smooch lines and hit the roof when it gives away 500 of the best seats in the Field house to the solons. But the students seem to have an aversion to supporting the administration when it comes to something which will be of positive value in getting an education.

People come to college to learn. This is a poor generalization because some of them definitely don't leave home for college with this thought in mind.

BUT THE MAJORITY of students attend to pick up what education they can, and the job will be much easier if the teaching is superior.

This is not an indictment of the present faculty at all. In fact, the biggest argument for increasing salaries of educators is to keep good instruction on campus by eliminating the tempting bigger salaries industry offers.

There's a Christmas vacation coming up and it wouldn't take too long to write a letter to the representative from your district or to your state Senator asking him to support the increase. Better instruction means a higher quality graduate, and high quality graduates get more money.—Roger Myers.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Thousands of Indiana rabbits may survive this winter due to a typographical error.

The state Conservation department admitted today that it mistakenly issued 250,000 hunting licenses which cut one month off the open season on rabbits.

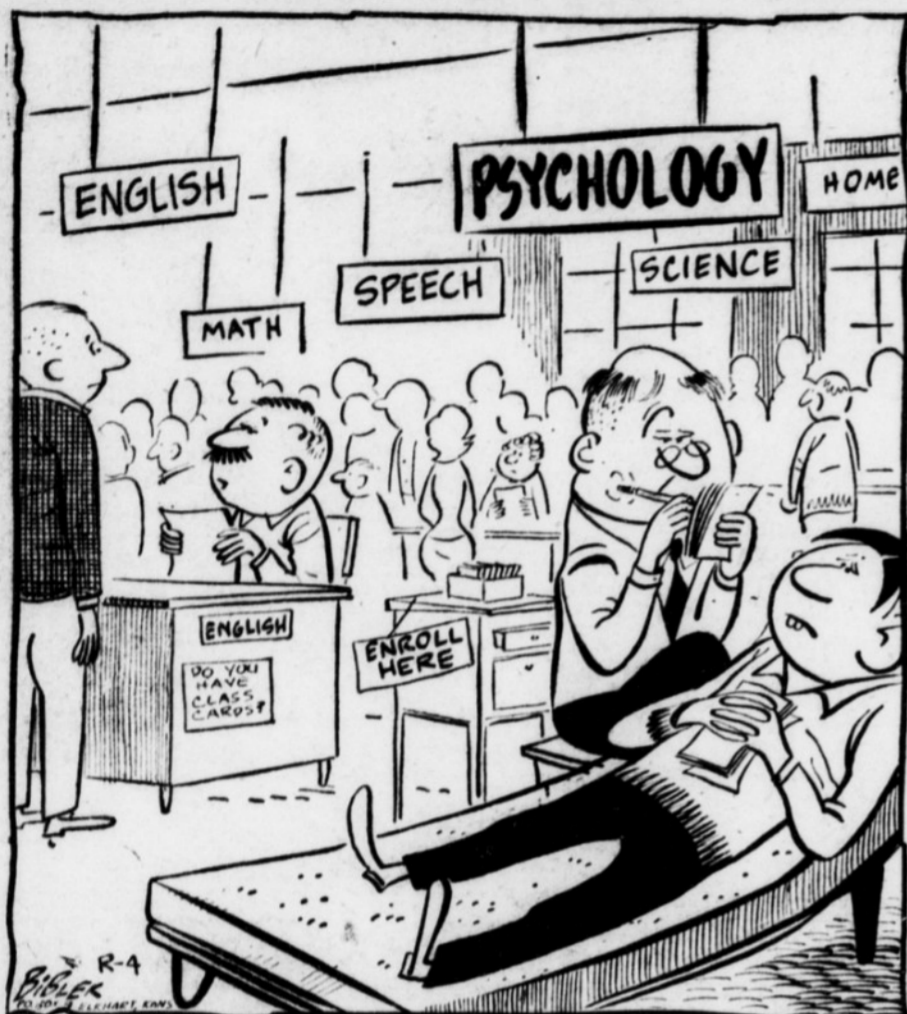

Ottawa, Canada—Postmaster-General William Hamilton used a bright red waistcoat yesterday to score a point on his political opponents, the Liberals, in Commons.

When he rose during the question period to answer a question, Hamilton drew back his jacket so the red vest was visible to the opposition.

"Those are Liberal colors," former Health Minister Paul Martin cried out.

"I am sorry, Mr. Speaker," Hamilton replied, "This is the hide from one of the Liberals we skinned in the last election."

Student Philosophers a Hazard of College Life, Profound Individuals That They, No Doubt, Are

By Jim Bell

IN COLLEGE, I suppose, a fellow is bound to run into lots of student philosophers. At least I have.

Student philosophers are an admirable group, profound interpreters of life that they are. Usually to be found drinking coffee with a harrowed brow in the Union, they concentrate on deep thought, blowing perfect smoke rings, and being profound. They can argue through, around, or over a cup of coffee (though some prefer tea).

One student philosopher I know prefers to wear pin-striped pants and a tweed vest, plus a cute little red-gray stocking cap. He feels that this sets him off from the common, ordinary student.

I BECAME INVOLVED in an affair of the tongue and tooth with him the other day over a cup of coffee and one of tea, respectively. He blew three perfect smoke rings around my thumb, which he had requested that I hold up, then he stared blankly off into space for about 17 or 18 minutes. Finally he turned his harrowed brow in my direction and said, "would, ah would, that I were a pink peach seed."

"A pink peach seed?" I was astounded. "Why a pink peach seed?"

"Well, he said, "were I a pink peach seed, there'd be no vino, no refracto, no universo, to vex and annoy me—to cause me botheration. Besides, I could still maintain my individuality, my very oneness, my yo-yo championship."

"WELL I'LL BE," I exclaimed, not just a little impressed by this profundity. "That was not just a little profound, Dugan!" (You see, this particular student philosopher was named Dugan.)

But Dugan appeared not to hear me. "Ah the futility, the very uselessness, of this insignificant trip of state," he saged. "Ah, how . . . how . . . how . . . how . . . And he trailed off, apparently into deeper thought, something no doubt too deep for a mere mortal such as I. This Dugan was a profound fellow.

"Well, Duug," I said, "I've got to get home and hit the books."

"Ah books," Duug said. "Books are the foam of a simple man's beer, the sparkle in a philosopher's wine—books are a great thing for you common students." And with that, Dugan went back behind his melancholy cigarette.

I WALKED OUT of the state room and into the gathering storm, leaving Dugan, forefinger on temple in deep, profound, meditative thought.

Next morning, I stopped by the Union for coffee on my way to class. And, woe was me, ol' Duug was still there, behind a whole pile of melancholy cigarette butts.

"Hi, Dugan," I said, jauntily.

"Don't interrupt my train of thought, mere student," Dugan rebuked. "I," he said, "I, am concentrating on a great philosophic work."

THAT WAS ALL he would say. I went to class, then. At noon, Dugan (or Duug, if you prefer) was still there—that evening he was there too, the pile of melancholy cigarette butts higher and deeper.

"Say, ol' Dugan," I said the next morning, "when you gonna bug out of this place, and brave the terrors of the world outside—inside the classroom, the barroom, the flower gardens."

"Ah," he said, not just a little weak from hunger, thirst, and nicotine fits, "ah, mere student, is it really worthy of my time, my effort, my contemplation?"

"WELL," I SAID, "you got me." And with that, I bugged out of there, myself. Ol' Dugan stayed there for three days and 13 hours, to be reasonably precise. By that time, as you can well imagine, he had a real stubble on his chin, and the pile of melancholy cigarette butts had grown much higher and much deeper.

I figure ol' Dugan would be there yet, if his roommate hadn't brought up those three flunk slips and two bills.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

We believe that K-State has the best basketball club in the country and we back them 100 percent. Maybe the team was slighted when they returned from Big Ten land, but we do not believe so.

Our basketballers are reasonable men, so they realize that 1 p.m. on any school day is a bad time to get many students or cheerleaders together.

If Mr. Myers had taken a look at a few facts before he made such rash accusations of our cheerleaders, he would have had a different tone. Such facts are:

1. The cheerleaders met the football team after every out-of-town game;
2. The cheerleaders went to three road football games, Iowa State, Kansas, and Missouri (The Missouri game was as cold as Tuesday afternoon);

3. Bob Boozer and Jim Holwerda personally thanked a cheerleader for the telegrams they received before each Big Ten game (This was the first such gesture made since either man has been on the varsity).

The night after K-State played a great game against Michigan State, the cheerleaders (who are not majoring in cheerleading) were at the airport at 10 p.m. to meet the team, but no Collegian photographer (who is majoring in good news coverage) could be found. That should be an ideal time to meet a team, but at 1 p.m. Tuesday afternoon, five cheerleaders were in class, and another was at work.

We say hats off to the cheerleaders for a job well done.

Atlantic City, N.J.—United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther on new wage demands by labor in 1958:

"While American labor will co-operate wholeheartedly in the national defense effort, no need has been demonstrated for any wage freeze or nationwide extension of the statutory work week."

Dallas, Texas—Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson on his suggestion the 40-hour week may have to be abandoned for missile workers:

"There has never been a thought in my mind of repealing any wage and hour law or any other such law."

Two Group Play-Offs In Tonight's Cage IM's

In intramural basketball action tonight two play-off games in the independent division are among the seven games scheduled.

Hillbillies play the Roadrunners to decide the winner of the group VI division and American Institute of Architects go against Westminster Foundation to determine the winner of the group VII division. All four teams have won three and lost one.

In the fraternity division Kappa Sigma and Sigma Phi Epsilon can win divisions by winning tonight. Kappa Sigs meet Phi Kappa and the Sig Eps play Delta Sigma Phi.

Should the Kappa Sigs, who have won four and lost none, lose tonight they will be forced into a play-off game with Lambda Chi Alpha, who has a four won and one lost record.

Sigma Chi, who plays Sigma Nu tonight, can tie the Sig Eps for the lead if they win and the Sig Eps lose.

With two of the independent group winners to be decided tonight, the winners of the other divisions are YMCA, group I; Rebels, group II; West Stadium, group III; Hobos, group IV; and House of Williams, group V.

In the fraternity division two group winners are already determined. Beta Theta Pi won group I and Delta Tau Delta won group II.

In Friday's action AIA was forced into the play-offs as they were defeated by 357 club, 39-26. Don Lank tallied 15 points for the club, while Al Engle scored 16 for the losers.

Westminster gained the right to meet AIA by defeating Newman club, 27-19.

Lambda Chi Alpha strengthened its chances for a play-off game with Kappa Sigma as the Lambda Chi's defeated Farm House, 28-15.

Tau Kappa Epsilon won an overtime game against Delta Upsilon, 26-21. John Dorst bagged nine points for the winners and Joe Hickert scored five points for the DU's.

Kappa Sigma beat Acacia, 26-17, with Bill Bloxom scoring nine points for the Kappa Sigs.

Beta Theta Pi won over Alpha Kappa Lambda, 31-19. Craig Chappel hit seven for the winners, while Don Neal hit eight points for the AKL's.

Paced by Jim Raffetty's 15 points Beta Sigma Psi beat Phi Kappa Tau, 27-15. Stan Nemero-wicz and Gerald Hanneman each tallied four points for the Phi Kaps.

Alpha Tau Omega beat Phi Kappa in the lowest scoring game of the night, 19-14. Leland Fager tallied five points for the ATO's while Ralph Balaun scored four points for the Phi Kaps.

Tonight's schedule: 6:45—Sigma Chi vs Sigma Nu, west court; Theta Xi vs Alpha Gamma Rho, center court; Sigma Phi Epsilon vs Delta Sigma Phi, east court; 7:35—Kappa Sigma vs Phi Kappa west court; Roadrunners vs Hillbillies, center court; Phi Kappa Alpha vs Phi Delta Theta, east court; 8:25—AIA vs Westminster, west court.

Union Sponsors Christmas Hour

The Union Music Library committee is sponsoring a "Christmas hour" for all students at 3 p.m. today in the music library.

Choral music will be presented and Alonzo Jamison, PrV Soph, will give a Christmas reading. The party will close with the singing of Christmas carols, according to Virginia Taylor, SEd Soph, chairman of the committee. Refreshments will be served after the program.

Chancery Club

John Anderson Jr, Kansas attorney general, will address the Chancery club at its annual Christmas banquet tomorrow night in the Union, according to A. D. Miller, faculty adviser of the club.

The City Bar association of Manhattan will attend the banquet. This is the first time the club has met with the Bar association.

Activities Board Plans Revision of Functions

A plan to revise the methods of operation of the Student Activities board is to be presented to Student Council for approval by Pat Loyd, BA Sr, chairman of the Activities board.

If Student Council approves the plan, it will go into effect immediately and will be followed for a two-month trial period. The new plan will be evaluated by members of the Activities board at the end of the trial period in an effort to determine if it needs to be revised to be more effective.

The new plan calls for the establishment of five committees. "Each committee chairman will be responsible for investigating designated areas of activities and findings will be reported to board members," Loyd said. "Such a plan is sure to increase the efficiency of the Activities board," he explained.

The five committees, committee chairmen, and functions:

1. Student Organizations—Dick Hotz, MTe Jr, chairman; review constitutions and financial statements of organizations; suggest withdrawal of recognition of student organizations.
2. Co-ordination and Regulation of Events—Kay Nordstrom, HT Soph, chairman; co-ordinate and regulate the scheduling of all-College events on the master calendar in such a manner that a limit is set on the number of events scheduled in any one day; suggest, following investigation, that certain events be continued or discontinued.

3. Evaluation and Administration of College Policies—Max Bishop, ArE Soph, chairman; investigate and make recommendations concerning social permits secured by organizations, signs and posters placed on the campus, and violations coming under the jurisdiction of the Activities board.

4. Financial Projects—Becky Culpepper, EEd Sr, chairman; investigate and make recommendations concerning approval or disapproval of money making projects of student organizations.

5. Educational and Public Relations—Jim Shane, His Sr, chairman; inform students through organized living groups and organizations of policies set by the Activities board which affect such groups.

Probation Rules Tightened

Probation and dismissal regulations at K-State were changed at a meeting of the Faculty senate last week, according to Registrar E. M. Gerritz, senate secretary.

The new rules will affect students in all schools except the School of Veterinary Medicine and the Graduate school.

Freshmen and sophomores with a .5 grade average or less at the end of first semester will be placed on probation. Juniors, seniors, and fifth year students with a cumulative grade point average of .7 or less will be put on probation.

The cumulative grade point average of the student will be used in determining probation or dismissal status. Students placed on probation will remain in that category until they achieve an average above the probation threshold for their classification.

In the past, probations and dismissals were based completely on failing grades. Freshmen who failed one-third of their work and upperclassmen who failed one-fourth of their work were put on probation. Freshmen with failing grades in one-half their work and upperclassmen with F in two-fifths their work were dismissed.

The cumulative average is the important thing as it is more in line with graduation requirements, Dr. Gerritz said. Previously a student could stay in school for years and still have none of the grade points necessary for graduation.

Games and Rallies Committee To Control All Game Activities

The Games and Rallies committee will exercise complete jurisdiction over the scheduling of all pre-game, halftime, and post game activities and rallies, according to Dick Hotz, MTe Jr, committee chairman.

This policy was established by the Games and Rallies committee yesterday as a result of requests from many organizations to perform during halftimes of basketball games.

"Many organizations are not aware that requests to participate in athletic events and rallies must be presented to the committee for approval," Hotz said. He explained that the committee's jurisdiction applies only to areas of athletic activity.

"Formerly, any organization wishing to participate in half-time programs of various athletic events submitted a request to the football coach, basketball coach, or sports publicity director," Hotz said. "With the forming of the Games and Rallies committee, this is eliminated and a definite schedule for special programs for athletic events can be set up."

Two student organizations and the K-State gymnastic team were given permission to perform during halftime of future basketball games. Angel Flight and the Varsity Men's Glee club will each perform during the season, and the gym team will perform during the halftimes of three games. Dates for the performances will be announced later.

Requests for special athletic program participation are to be submitted to Ollie White, Union program director, or to Hotz. The Games and Rallies committee will take final action on all requests.

Council Will Back Faculty Pay Raise

Student Council will promote a proposed salary increase for K-State faculty with four days of extensive pre-Christmas vacation campaigning. The campaign will be directed toward obtaining the increase at the state Legislature budget session which begins in January.

The action came at a meeting last night after a report from Neil Scott, Soc Sr, student body president, based on statistics prepared by the U.S. Health, Education, and Welfare department.

To illustrate the need for higher faculty pay, Scott cited that the K-State average for a full professor teaching for nine months is $7,198, while the average pay received in land grant colleges in the North Central region is $9,340, and the total average across the country is $8,750.

With the 10 per cent salary increase this year fewer faculty members left K-State for higher paying jobs. Another increase would help to maintain the high caliber of faculty that is necessary for strength and quality of K-State's educational system, Scott said.

Petitions seeking signatures favoring the increase will be circulated in classes, on campus, and in living groups. A table will be set up in the Student Union stateroom where students may sign petitions. Sheets bearing the signatures will be taped together in one long roll and sent to state Legislators.

Council urges students to write personal letters promoting the increase to state Legislature representatives from their districts. Through intense campaigning Council hopes for the issue to receive state-wide radio and television publicity.

Action on the eligibility check for student campus leaders reached a stalemate with disagreement on which organizations to include in the check, how high to set the grade average, and whether to include all officers of organizations or just the president.

Friday Is the Deadline To Order Caps, Gowns

Friday is the last day for January graduates to order caps and gowns. The Campus Book store handles the gown rentals.

The prices are $3.60 for seniors receiving Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Arts degrees, $8 for Master's degrees, and $9.85 for Doctor's degrees. A 50 cent refund is given if the tassel is returned with the gown.

The caps and gowns will be available a few days before graduation, January 26, and should be returned the next day.

King, Queen Campaigning Sharply Curtailed by IPC

Taxi services and posters on campus will not be allowed this year in campaigning for king and queen of the Interfraternity Pledge dance, according to Danny Vogel, BA Fr, publicity chairman for Interfraternity Pledge council.

IPC feels that the costs of having such an exclusive campaign would be too high, Vogel said.

The dance will be February 14 in the main ballroom of the Union, and the theme will be "Sweetheart Ball."

A skit night is planned for the houses to introduce candidates February 12 in the Auditorium. Each house will have three minutes to present its candidate to the rest of the pledges.

The skit night is the only night that formal campaigning for the candidates will be allowed. The houses may post signs in the Auditorium if they wish, Vogel said.

The king and queen will be crowned at the dance. Each fraternity and sorority will enter a candidate for the honor. Only pledges may vote for the royalty and votes will be cast at the dance.

Tickets for the all-College dance will be sold by members of IPC for $1.50 a couple.

Purdue U Men Face Big Problem: To Smooch or To Shake the Hand

By Sharon Totten

IT LOOKS AS THOUGH young men dating coeds living in Purdue university's Shealy hall will be sent home with a hearty handshake instead of a kiss from now on.

At any rate, the head resident of the hall issued orders last week recommending handshaking when saying goodnight to escorts. If the girls feel they must kiss their dates, she said, they should make it one short buss with "little or no emotion" attached.

The dormitory residents were also forbidden to use red lights as Christmas decorations in their rooms. They are "too suggestive," said the new set of rules.

Whether or not the new set of rules will be effective remains to be seen. The director of all women's residence halls at Purdue said she had not heard of the order.

She said university officials believe "kissing is a personal matter for coeds to decide."

MEANWHILE AT INDIANA university, a Daily Student writer puts it this way: "The latest lip service from up Purdue way is that the cow college is attempting to conquer continuous kissing catastrophies by cutting coeds' co-operation with their cohorts."

"This disastrous directive demands that dates desist with a single short smack or a hearty handshake. From Shealy hall for girls, the head resident has issued the heave-ho for long-lasting, lusty ad-lipping. Any voluptuous vixen violating this rule, says the directive, must appear before the board of standards for cantankerous coeds."

WITH FINAL WEEK FAST approaching the Oregon State Daily Barometer has a few ground rules to guide students.

Definition of terms:

1. High—Local greeting given to prominent instructors
 2. Low—Same as above (abbreviation for hello)
 3. Three point—A male deer
 4. Probation—Object of Senate Investigating committee (refer to Dave Beck)
 5. Suspension—An unstable colloid
 6. Crib Notes—Meaningless scribblings of very young child
 7. Final—The end.
- Object of game:
1. Reach "home" before grade report

GRID STARS AT TEXAS university renewed an old rivalry in a bowl game last week. However, any avid football fan attending the game in hopes of seeing a rough and tumble battle would have been a little disappointed.

The game was called the powder bowl, and the participants were members of two Texas university sororities.

Readers' Forum

Dear Editor:

What's the matter with the students here at K-State?

Last Friday evening at 6:30, a pep rally was held in the College auditorium. This information is for the benefit of the several thousand students who must have forgotten all about it.

Any individual attending school should have an interest in what goes on in campus activities. This should include the athletic teams.

According to the experts, we are supposed to have one of the best teams that has ever played for Kansas State college. Is the student body going to sit back and watch, or are we going to let the team know about it?

At the next pep rally, let's fill the Auditorium and let this great team know we are really behind them.

Eisenhower Says He Feels Better, Makes Visit to His Old Command

Compiled from United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Paris—President Eisenhower said today he felt better than he had "in a long, long time."

The President made the comment on a visit to his old command at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe at Louveciennes.

He appeared in good shape and good spirits despite his cancellation of last night's NATO dinner.

His complexion was ruddy with the wind and his step was vigorous. His speech was like a talk to the troops, friendly and homespun and with none of the solemnity reserved for state occasions. However, his manner was serious.

He told a group of SHAPE officers and their families, "I haven't felt better in a long, long time than I have this morning, seeing you people."

His physician, Maj. Gen. Howard Mcc. Snyder, told reporters he thought the President today was in "pretty good shape."

New Negotiations Ahead in Cold War

A Soviet proposal to ban nuclear weapons bases in Central Europe may lead to new negotiations to ease the cold war.

Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin made the proposal in the series of "peace and co-existence" letters he sent last week to Western allied governments and to all other countries which belong to the United Nations.

Bulganin said that if the United States would give up the idea of establishing the bases in West Germany, Russia would not set up similar bases in East Germany, Poland, and Czechoslovakia.

The United States believes that it is essential to establish intermediate range ballistic missile bases in the allied countries of Western Europe.

This issue is one of the principal ones at the North Atlantic Treaty organization conference now meeting in Paris.

Some of the NATO countries frankly do not want them. They fear that they would become targets for Russian nuclear missiles if war broke out between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Even Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, one of the staunchest leaders of the NATO allies, is hesitant about consenting to the establishment of missile bases in West Germany.

It is beginning to look now as if the United States may be forced into negotiations of some kind with Russia.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles do not believe that Bulganin's various "peace and co-existence" proposals of last week were made in good faith.

They are mindful of Russia's persistent refusal to enter in good faith into any proposals—on the banning of nuclear weapons, on disarmament, on the reunification of Germany—over a long period.

In addition, Bulganin's letters were too obviously aimed at sabotaging the NATO meeting in Paris.

But pressure of some kind—almost any kind—of negotiations to ease the strain of the cold war, and especially to diminish the threat of a calamitous nuclear war, is becoming almost irresistible.

Eisenhower, in his speech opening the NATO conference yesterday, spoke largely in generalities. He spoke of the need for "re-dedication" and "self-sacrifice" and emphasized the combined power of the 15 NATO allies.

But at the first business meeting which followed, Adenauer really got down to business.

Adenauer called on Eisenhower and other NATO leaders to open the way for cold war talks with Russia. He suggested that a start be made through normal diplomatic channels. The idea would be to find out just what Bulganin meant in his letters.

He admitted that Bulganin's proposals were vague. And he said that until a basis for a secure peace is found, the NATO allies must be prepared to defend themselves against the Russian threat.

Talk like Adenauer's is now coming from NATO capitals and from capitals of other countries. It is coming from congressional leaders in Washington and, privately, even from officials of the administration.

Defense Department Wants Death Ray

San Francisco—The U.S. Department of Defense wants to add to its arsenal of mass destruction weapons a "death ray" capable of sizzling enemy foot soldiers at a range of at least 500 yards, it was reported today.

It also needs a tunneling device able to bore through solid rock at a half-mile an hour; a gadget that will dig a foxhole for a Patton tank in less than a minute and a method of snuffing out a burning city.

These requests are contained in a 34-page blue booklet being sent to scientific societies, research organizations and individual basement inventors entitled "Inventions Wanted by the Armed Forces."

The booklet is distributed by the National Investors' Council of the U.S. Department of Commerce on behalf of the Defense department.

It's no gag. The Department of Defense is in dead earnest when it asked for a death ray.

K-State Ranked Third In U.P., AP, INS Polls

K-State, with the addition of two wins to its undefeated basketball record during the last three days, has jumped to third place in both the United Press and International News Service rankings.

The Wildcats, who now boast a 5-0 mark, were picked sixth by the UP and 10th by the INS last week.

Both press polls had the same three top teams on this week's selections in North Carolina, Kansas, and K-State.

UP placed San Francisco and Michigan State in the fourth and fifth spots and INS had Cincinnati fourth and Minnesota fifth.

All three of the top teams will meet stiff competition this weekend.

Wildcats Scratch Razorbacks In Season's 5th Win, 63-48

By JAY WORKMAN
Collegian Sports Editor

K-State's cagers went by the Arkansas Razorbacks, 63-48, last night at Fayetteville to push their season mark to five wins without a defeat.

Tight zone defenses used by both teams made it a slow, low scoring basketball game with the Cats getting their lowest total so far this season. The halftime score was 34-26, K-State on top.

Wildcat forward Bob Boozer was the game's high scorer with 19 points. Arkansas' Larry Grisham had 13 and K-State center Jack Parr made 12 markers.

It was close during most of the first half, being tied 20-20 with 7:29 to go and the Cats having only a six-point margin at intermission.

K-State pulled away in the second half, leading 50-36 with 10 minutes left.

Coach Tex Winter sent reserves into the game late, and they showed Wildcat strength of the future. Sophomores Steve Douglas, Bill Laude, and Sonny Ballard all hit field goals in the closing minutes.

After Parr and Boozer led the way with 10 points apiece in the first half, K-State started the second period with Boozer getting a tip-in on Hayden Abbott's missed free toss. Abbott had been fouled by the Razorbacks' tallest man, 6-6 Jay Carpenter, with 19:15 to play for Carpenter's fifth infraction.

Grisham hit a 15-footer and Larry Stolzer sank a free throw to bring the Arkies within five points. But Abbott swished two and Boozer one from the field while Arkansas was getting a pair of charity tosses and the Cats had started to move.

Boozer led the way through most of the second half, getting nine points, mostly on follow shots.

Four Squads Win Groups In Cage IM's

The Hillbillies, Westminster Foundation, Kappa Sigma, and Sigma Phi Epsilon all won group championships last night in independent and fraternity intramural basketball.

Westminster Foundation led last night's scoring while beating AIA, 44-28. Al Hamilton and Leo Williams topped the winners with 19 and 17 points respectively. Duane Engle had eight points for AIA.

The Hillbillies beat the Roadrunners, 17-11, with Owen Sutter getting 10 points for the winners. Leland Southern collected four points for the Roadrunners.

In the fraternity division, Kappa Sigma defeated Phi Kappa, 39-14. Jerome Moore was high man for the winners with 11 points.

Sigma Chi, behind Jim Shields 12 points, defeated Sigma Nu, 34-25. Bob Turley had 13 for Sigma Nu.

Charles Michaels led Alpha Gamma Rho to a 28-12 victory over Theta Xi with 12 tallies.

Sigma Phi Epsilon trounced Delta Sigma Phi, 32-11. George Laddish powered the Sig Ep attack with 13 points.

Pi Kappa Alpha edged Phi Delta Theta, 20-16. Dale Evans collected nine for PiKA.

The annual fraternity and independent division free throw tournament will be held Wednesday. The tourney will be held in the field house gym starting at 6:30 p.m.

Teachers Need Help!

K-State's Student Council members have taken it upon themselves to try to get students a better education—and the Council has accepted the project with gusto.

The petition soliciting begin yesterday noon, and all Council members have turned to the task of getting K-State students to endorse the salary raise. The petition will, in effect, ask the state Legislature to do its part in helping K-Staters to the better education that larger salaries than are now being paid professors and instructors will allow.

This is strictly a Student Council project with no prodding from the administration and no threats from instructors. The student leaders at Kansas State college, soon to be university, recognize the value of keeping the present qualified instructors on the campus and are willing to put forth a real herculean effort to get their point across.

One would think that the students would be willing to take just a little time to stop near the Union state room and sign one of the sheets of paper which will be pasted into a long roll and sent to Gov. George Docking.

Despite the fact that more money would be needed to pay the higher salaries, it would not mean an increase in tuition. The Legislature will appropriate the money—it will not come out of student funds.

Student Council Chairman Paul Hatfield, talking before the Student Council Monday night, said that the 10 per cent increase which was granted this year cut the number of instructors who were lured away from 106 during the 1956-57 school session to only six so far during the 1957-58 session.

But unless the real benefactors of such salary increase, the students, will take time to make it known they're dissatisfied with the lower quality teaching they get because of the low salaries, then the Legislators will probably omit the increase and higher quality learning will suffer setbacks.—Roger Myers

NOT BAD FOR ONE AFTERNOON—Over 1000 students' names were signed to this growing 44 foot long petition for a raise in K-State faculty wages. Students are asked to sign the petition which will be sent to Gov. George Docking.

Crafts Talk Tomorrow, 5

A report on the crafts program at Ohio State will be given by Steve McCarl, SED Soph, at the Campus Industries meeting tomorrow at 5 p.m. in room 205 in the Union, according to Warren Keegan, Ec Sr, chairman of Campus Industries committee.

Campus Industries is considering installing a crafts shop in the Union. It was pointed out to the committee that the program at Ohio State proved to be highly successful.

Home 'Sweet' Home Never Like This

By KATHY SCHULTIS

Candy mints, licorice sticks, sugar cubes, gumdrops—sounds like a candy shop! I'm not really referring to a candy shop but to a acndy house.

The other day I happened to catch a glimpse of a candy house perched on top of the counter in the Student Union cafeteria. It reminded me of the house of the old witch in "Hansel and Gretel."

I started counting all the mints used in the colorful roof, but got dizzy before I got to 100. So, I decided that the best way to find out how many mints were in the roof was to ask the one who made the house. The persons (instead of person, I found out) responsible for the little house were Marvin Hunt, of the Union Food Service department, and Mrs. Merna Ziegler, dietician in the same department.

I decided to find out a little more about this house of sweets than the number of candy mints in the roof. Mr. Hunt showed me a picture of a house (exactly like the one in the cafeteria) in one of the better known women's magazines. He said Mrs. Ziegler and he had used this as a guide.

Mr. Hunt began to unfold the details for me. He didn't tell me how many mints were in the roof, but he did say that colored wafers, sugar tablets, powdered sugar, licorice, candy sticks, big and little gum drops, candy bricks, square and oblong chocolate waffle cream sandwiches, lollipops, ice cream cones, and sugar coated chocolate circles were all used in the house. I was thankful that I hadn't seen the house earlier in the morning because I might have been tempted to sample part of the roof or chimney.

The candy house is 5½ inches wide, eight inches long, and 15 inches high. It's really not candy from wall to wall (as it appeared to me), but is cardboard covered with the candy. The roof is made of colored mints, the windows of waffle cream sandwiches, and the sides of sugar tablets.

All the other little trimmings—like window shutters, roof overhang, and even the little cuckoo bird—are made of the rest of the sweets. Those people making this house were really clever—I noticed that they even added a touch of landscaping. I looked a little closer and discovered that the trees were really frosted ice cream cones which had been inverted.

Phi Kappa Phi Elects Forty-Nine Members

Forty-nine K-State seniors and graduate students have been elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honorary, E. L. Sitz, secretary of the K-State chapter, announced today.

To be eligible for membership, undergraduates must rank in the upper seven per cent of their class and graduate students must be in the upper 10 per cent of their class.

'The Messiah' Presented Tomorrow in Auditorium

The College assembly committee, in co-operation with the K-State department of music, will present the 4th annual Christmas assembly, "The Messiah" by George Frederick Handel, tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. in the College auditorium.

The Christmas portion of "The Messiah" will be presented by the A Cappella choir, directed by William R. Fischer, assistant professor of music; College chorus, directed by Morris T. Hayes, assistant professor of music; College women's glee club, directed by Hayes; and Varsity men's glee club directed by Hayes and selected members of the College-Civic Orchestra, Luther Leavengood, head of the department of music, conducting.

Soloists for the assembly will be Carol Korinek, MGS Soph, Judy Stark, SED Soph, and Judith Means, MAI Fr, sopranos; Elizabeth Hamilton, HT Soph, and Joan Taylor, MGS Jr, contraltos; Ben Duerfeldt, Mus Gr, tenor; and Carlyle Thompson, TA Sr, bass.

This is the fourth year that "The Messiah" has been presented by the college.

HANSEL AND GRETEL NEVER HAD IT SO GOOD—K-State Union custodians Howard Lober and Charles Wright, DM Sr, cast hungry eyes upon the candy house of goodies in the Student Union cafeteria. Mrs. Merna Ziegler, dietician in the food service department and her cohort Marvin Hunt were responsible for the building of the delectable mint covered house.

Sleepy Cheerleaders Foiled for 2d Time; Nation's No. 3 Cage Team Eludes Them

WELL, THE CHEERLEADERS have done it again. This time they let the No. 3 team of the nation pull into town and unload in the mist and dreary weather without even a congratulatory note.

K-State's play last week against Purdue and Iowa won for the Cats the unanimous choice from all three wire services of the third best team in the nation. Despite the fact that the victory over Arkansas wasn't as thrilling as were the Indiana and Purdue wins, still, those bastions of enthusiasm and resourcefulness—K-State's cheerleaders—botched another one and let the ball club slip into the Field house like it was as plain and dreary as a one o'clock class.

THERE WAS BAD FLYING WEATHER from Fayetteville to Manhattan yesterday and the Cats were forced to charter a bus from St. Joseph, Mo., after being grounded there. This, of course, makes the problem of meeting the team a little more difficult. It does take a little time to check and see when a bus will arrive.

We all know now that the cheerleaders, every last one of them, have classes at one o'clock on Tuesday—so they couldn't, of course, have been ready to welcome even the Czar of all the Russias until 2 p.m. Actually, the bus arrived in front of the Field house at 5:30. This would give the cheerleaders plenty of time to check with the athletics office to find out the team's estimated time of arrival.

The secretary over at Ahearn placed the arrival time at somewhere between 4 and 4:30 p.m., so they wouldn't have had to wait more than an hour and a half to meet the team. And after they waited so diligently for the football team to return from the Michigan State game (for three hours we're told), one hour shouldn't have been too long.

AT LEAST ONE CHEERLEADER didn't even know the team had arrived until after 10 o'clock. Something else which seems odd is that the cheerleaders meet every Tuesday at noon. It seems they could have mapped out a plan of some kind during this meeting. But with a one o'clock class pressing, it's only logical that they should sit in the Union and plan yells for the team when it's first in the nation so they can let the Cats come in unnoticed then.

Over 50 people tried out for the honor of being Kansas State cheerleaders—it's conceivable that there may have been someone among them who'd been willing, though maybe a little grudgingly, to welcome one of the top three basketball teams in these United States.—Roger Myers.

Paris Summit Meetings To Conclude Tomorrow Eisenhower, Dulles NATO TV Report Possible

Compiled from United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Paris—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles probably will make a television and radio report to the American people shortly after they return to the United States from the NATO council meeting here, it was announced today.

The council will wind up its summit meetings tomorrow and the President will take off for Washington at 5 p.m. (noon CST) tomorrow, arriving early Friday morning, possibly by 5:30 a.m. CST.

White House Press Secretary James Hagerty told reporters "considerable thought is being given" to an Eisenhower-Dulles report to the nation but it would not come before early next week.

The last such Eisenhower-Dulles report to the American people concerned U.S. policy in the Middle East and came at the time of the Suez canal crisis.

The President's plane, Columbine III, was expected to make a refueling stop at the Keflavik air force base in Iceland on the return trip.

The President approached the conclusion of the NATO summit meeting with sustained energy and interest. On top of yesterday's busy schedule, he planned another full day.

He met for nearly an hour at 9:30 this morning with Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis and then had a conference with Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes.

Hagerty told reporters he did not yet know the President's Christmas plans beyond the fact that he will light the national Christmas tree on the ellipse south of the White House grounds at 4 p.m. CST next Monday.

Hagerty said the President was "feeling fine" again today and enjoyed the state dinner given by President Rene Coty of France last night. Coty invited the President back to lunch at Elysee palace today.

Prior to the dinner, Eisenhower held conferences with two NATO government chiefs, visited SHAPE headquarters outside Paris and attended a NATO council meeting for nearly three hours in the afternoon.

Another Atlas Being Readied

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—Another intercontinental Atlas missile was readied today for firing as soon as mechanical brains finish their computations on yesterday's first successful ICBM launching.

Some sources said the Air Force missile, now standing on its launching tower, would be fired before the week is out. Others said at least a week will be required to assemble all the data from yesterday's shoot and make the necessary adjustments for the second firing.

Meanwhile, the presence here of Maj. Gen. John A. Medaris, commander of the Army Ballistic Missile agency at Huntsville, Ala., and Dr. Werner Von Braun, technical director, brought increased reports that a Jupiter intermediate range missile might be fired some time today.

A Jupiter—possibly even a Jupiter C which the Army may eventually use in an attempt to put up a satellite—has been ready in its service tower for nearly two weeks. Both missiles were developed at the Huntsville arsenal.

Von Braun and Medaris both will be present tonight at a gathering of RCA supervisors of various missile test projects here. Gov. Leroy Collins will address the group.

Last night, a convoy of Army trucks hauled two more missiles believed to be Redstones into the test center. The Redstone is the fundamental missile component of both the Jupiter and Jupiter C.

The big talk was still about the Atlas which yesterday completed a "limited range test of several hundred miles." Two previous attempts to fire this U.S. entry in the long-range missile race had ended in destruction of the Atlases a few thousand feet above the launching stand.

Cats Count on Matuszak To Be 'Take-Charge' Cager

By DAN KERSHAW

Counted on to be the "take charge" guy on this year's K-State basketball team is Don Matuszak, six-foot junior from Cicero, Ill. After teaming with Eddie Wallace last year in the Wildcat fast break, Don is now matched up with Roy DeWitz to put the spark in the Cat fast break. Last year Matuszak scored 93 points for a 4.7 average. After stepping up to a starter's role early last year, Don sparked K-State to a 100-82 win over a tall and rough Oklahoma City five, which Matuszak said was his "biggest thrill in basketball." In that game, Don ballhawked his way to 22 points as he hit five of six field goal attempts and 12 of 16 free throws. Matuszak attended Morton High School in Cicero where he earned three letters and all-state honors in basketball. Among Don's opponents were Bobby Jo Mason, present Bradley star, and Jim Van Pelt, who went on to gain gridiron fame at Michigan university. Majoring in physical education, Don would like to go back to Chicago and coach after graduation.

Big time basketball brought Don to K-State. "I heard about K-State having a good Physical Education department and also ranking high in basketball. My high school coach knew Tex Winter so he got me in here. And I haven't been sorry for one moment that I came out here."

When asked about the past trip back east to play Indiana and Purdue, Matuszak replied: "Those rough games against Indiana and Purdue were good for us. They roughed us up now and that will show later on in the season. It is better to play the 'rough' teams at the first of the season rather than 'easy' one's like KU."

The Big Eight this year, according to Matuszak, will be rough all the way around. "Kansas and Iowa State will have good teams, and even without Don Schwall, Oklahoma will be tough. As a matter of fact, they are all going to be tough."

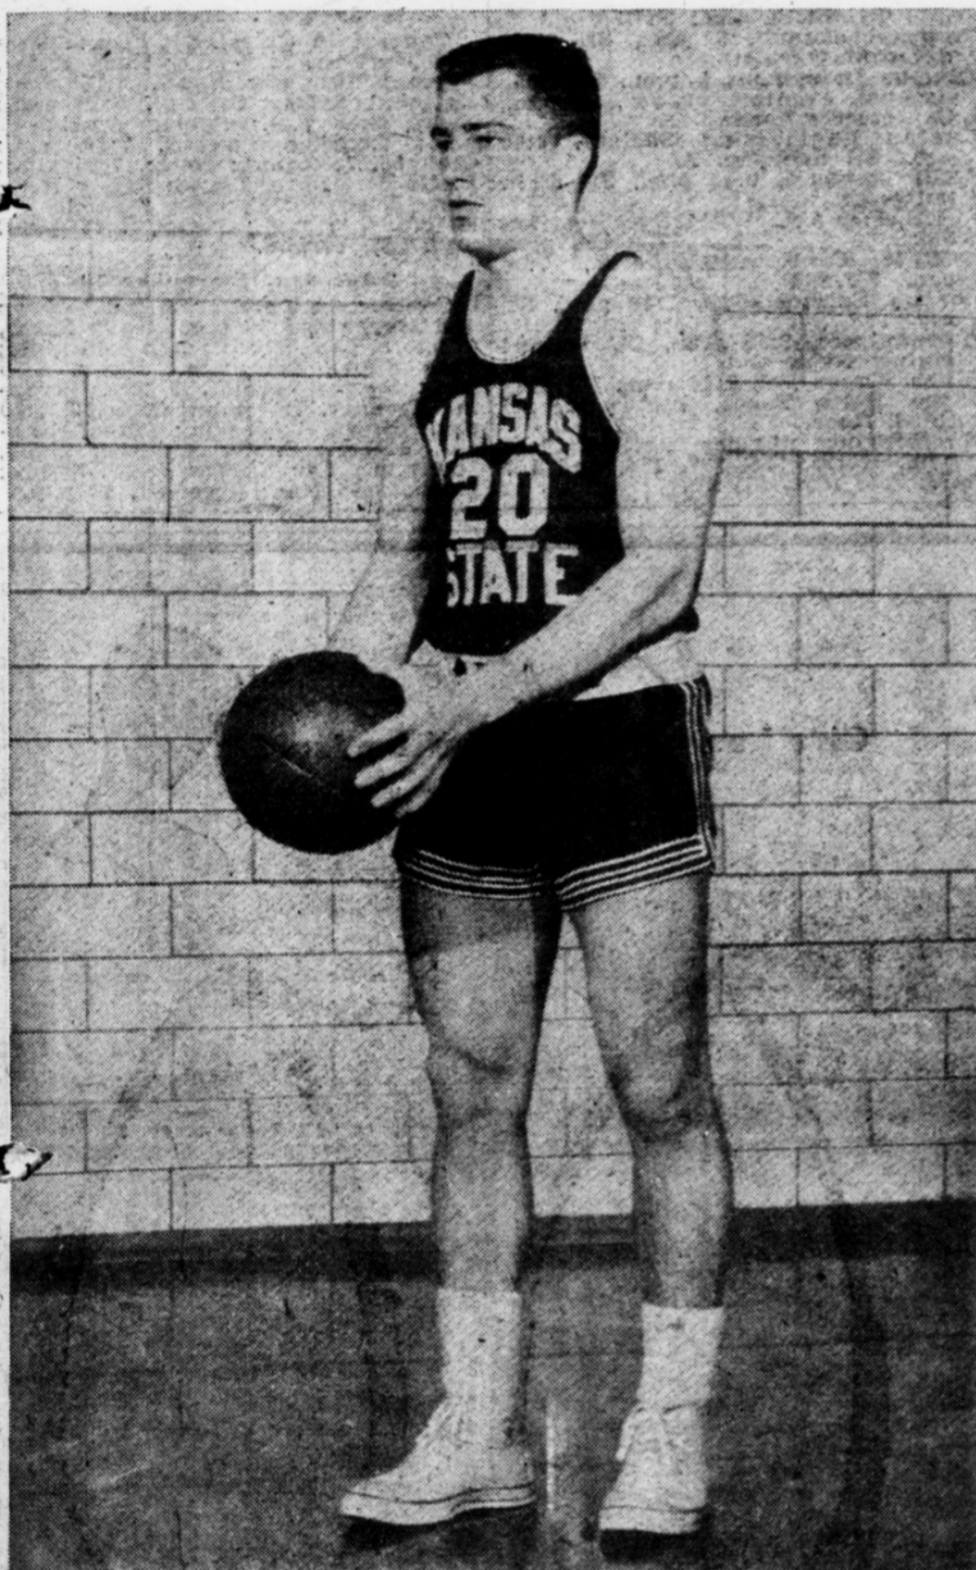

"We're not playing up to our capabilities yet, but we ought to get in stride pretty soon. Bob Boozer and Wally Frank have been looking real good. But the thing that will make our team go is the good depth that we have."

Matuszak will have one year of eligibility left after this season and sees the addition of Oklahoma State as helping to make the conference better. "OSU is good in all sports which will really help to make the Big Eight a rough conference."

Ward Haylett On Committee For Olympics

Ward Haylett, K-State track coach, has been selected as a member of the track and field committee for the 1960 Olympic Games to be held in Rome, Italy.

The Wildcat track mentor, in his 30th year at K-State, served on the same committee for the 1948 Olympiad in London, when he was decathlon coach for the United States team.

DON MATUSZAK, 6-0 junior guard on the Wildcat basketball team, is the shortest Cat starter but his ball-handling and play-making make up for it. He scored at a 4.7 clip last season.

Dan Devine Accepts Job As Missouri Grid Coach

By UNITED PRESS

Dan Devine, who led Arizona State at Tempe to an unbeaten season last fall, today was named head football coach at the University of Missouri.

Devine succeeds Frank Broyles, who left Missouri after one season to take the head coaching job at Arkansas.

The 33-year-old Devine was signed to a three-year contract for a reported $15,000 annually.

"I'm elated to make the announcement that this fine young man is coming to Missouri," Athletics Director Don Faurot commented. Devine finished his third season at Tempe last fall.

His team had a 10-0 record and was one of the two unbeaten and untied major teams in America. The other was Auburn. Devine's team led the nation in total offense, was sixth in rushing offense, sixth in passing offense, and topped the nation in scoring with a 39.7 average a game.

Devine was given a two-year option under which, if he so elects, he may extend his contract for an additional two years after completion of the three-year term.

Devine, a native of Augusta, Wis., attended high school at Proctor, Minn., and later played college ball as a 170-pound quarterback at the Duluth branch of the University of Minnesota. He played in 1942 and later in 1947-48, earning three football and three basketball letters.

McCains—Guests of Honor For Christmas Party Today

Pres. James A. McCain, Mrs. McCain, and Sheila will be guests of honor at a Christmas party this afternoon from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in the main lounge of the Union. The tree trimming party is sponsored by the Union Coffee Hours committee and all students are invited to attend.

Each organization and each organized living group has been invited to make an ornament for the tree to be decorated. After the tree has been trimmed, it will be presented to the McCain family.

Entertainment will consist of the reading, "Eloise at Christmas," presented by Clenece Roberts, Sp Soph; music by the Nightcaps, a K-State student quartet; and group singing led by Don Wilbur, BPM Soph. Santa Claus will be present and refreshments will be served.

Union Harmonizers

Men may apply for Arrangements subcommittee chairman of the Union Harmonizers committee until 5 p.m. Friday. Applications are being taken in the Union activities center, according to George Roggendorff, VM Sr, committee chairman.

Klod and Kernal

K-State will host a regional soils judging contest in late April or early May, according to Klod and Kernal club president

Russell Adams, TA Sr. The judging site will be in the northeastern part of the state because of the representative soils there.

Klod and Kernal committees and chairmen are: Elson Seitz, TA Sr, score card; Larry Zavesky, TA Sr, preparation of site; Dean Armbrust, TA Soph, awards; and Walter Burling, Ag Jr, food and lodging.

ISA

"Yuletide Jubilee" is the theme of the Independent Students' association Christmas party today at 7:30 p.m. in the K-State Union, room 208.

Following a short business meeting, the group will sing carols and have recreation. Refreshments will be served. Frank Bell, president, issues a very cordial invitation for all independents to attend.

Entomology Department

The first systemic insecticide ever developed for the control of cattle grubs has been worked out in a nation-wide project of which K-State was a part, according to Clifford C. Roan, associate professor of entomology.

K-State has been working on the internal insecticide, which took about four years to develop, since July of 1956, Roan said.

Sigma Alpha Eta

Sigma Alpha Eta, professional fraternity in speech and hearing rehabilitation, was recently granted a charter at the American Speech and Hearing association convention in Chicago, according to president Barbara Marshall, Sp Sr.

The club was organized last spring by 15 charter members: Miss Marshall; Charlene Thouvenelle, EEd Jr; Colleen Johnson, Sp Fr; Carol King, EEd Sr; Dorothy Serrault, EEd Jr; Ruth Pultz, Sp Gr; Mary Lou Compton, Sp Sr; Rex De Reassaux, '57 Grad; Sharon Knox, EEd Jr; Dan O'Brien, His Sr; John Keelan, PEM Sr; Sandra Swanson, EEd Soph; Carolyn Huber, EEd Soph; John Marcoline, PEM Soph; and Bob Schumann, '57 Grad.

To be eligible for membership, a student must be in the upper one third of his class or have no less than a B over-all average.

Alpha Epsilon Rho

Carol A. Hudiburg, Sp Jr, and William K. Patterson, Sp Sr, were initiated as active members into Alpha Epsilon Rho, honorary radio and television fraternity, recently. James A. Harrison, Sp Soph; Larry S. Faler, Sp Soph; Sidwell D. Hutchins, Sp Sr; and Kenneth L. Keefer, Sp Soph, were pledged at that time.

Block and Bridle Award

Walt Martin, AH Sr, has received Block and Bridle's National Merit trophy, awarded on the basis of scholarship, campus activities, and Block and Bridle activities. Presentation of the award was made at the club's national convention in Chicago, according to Block and Bridle president Dean Peter, Ag Sr.

Messiah Music Sung At Morning Assembly

By CHARLENE STRAH

Selections from Handel's Messiah were presented in a Christmas assembly this morning before an attentive audience in the nearly full auditorium. This was the fourth annual Messiah presentation by the Music department.

Participating were the A Cappella choir, directed by William R. Fischer, assistant professor of music; the College chorus, women's glee club, and Varsity men's glee club, directed by Morris T. Hayes, assistant professor of music; and selected members of the College-Civic orchestra, Luther Leavengood, head of the department conducting.

The orchestra opened the program with the Messiah overture. Ben Duerfeldt, HT Soph, tenor, sang the first two selections, "Comfort Ye My People" and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted." The chorus followed with "And the Glory of the Lord."

A recitative, "Thus Saith the Lord," and "But Who May Abide the Day of His Coming," were sung by bass Carlyle Thompson, TA Sr. Elizabeth Hamilton, HT Soph, contralto, sang "Behold a Virgin Shall Conceive" and led the chorus into "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings of Zion."

Judith Stark, SEd Soph, soprano, sang "There were Shepherds Abiding in the Field," "And Lo the Angel of the Lord Came Upon Them," "And the Angel Said Unto Them," and "And Suddenly There Was With the Angel."

"Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion" was sung by soprano Carol Korinek, MGS Soph. "Then Shall the Eyes of the Blind Be Opened" and "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd" by Joan Taylor, MGS Jr, contralto, and "Come Unto Him" by Judith Means, MAI Fr, soprano.

Union Serves Swedish Food

Swedish peppernuts, assorted cheeses, pickled beets, rye bread, meatballs—these are just a few of the Swedish foods eaten by those who attended the smorgasbord in the Union ballroom Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

"Twenty-five different Swedish dishes were prepared for the smorgasbord," said Mrs. Merna Ziegler, Union Food Service dietitian. Other foods served included brown beans, potato salad, lingonberries, herring salad, salmon, and deviled eggs. All the food was prepared by Union Food Service employees and coeds enrolled in advanced foods classes.

The foods for the buffet-type meal were set up on three different tables for the three separate course of the meal.

Johnsons Win Over Smiths In Student Directory 'Feud'

By CHARLENE STRAH

The 1957-58 Student directory rolled off the presses with the Johnsons winning the Johnson-Smith feud to see who "gets the most" names in the book for the second straight year.

Seventy-one Johnsons outnumbered the 63 Smiths, and it was easy to "keep up with the Joneses," who made a poor showing with only 33.

To make the situation confusing 31 of the Johnsons share only 13 first names. Among the Smiths, only five first names are duplicated.

After the two leaders, there are 48 Millers, 33 Jones, 27 Wilsons, 26 Andersons, (one Andersen) and 25 Browns. There are 38 other names which appear between 10 and 25 times each.

Floyd Zwahl, winner of "last-name-in-directory" honors in 1956, was raised two places this year as he was nosed out by Melvin Zwegardt, PEM Fr, and Alvin L. Zwick, ChE Fr.

The first student name in the directory for the fourth straight year is Hayden Abbott, BPM Sr.

Seven persons have the "honor" of having the longest last names in the book, each of 13 letters. The seven are James Allerhelligen, AEd Soph; Sue Greiveldinger, Sp Fr; Tom Knapenberger, PrV Soph; Dona Postlethwaite, FT Sr; Howard Schwerdtfeger, GA Sr; Thomas Shellenberger, BPM Soph; and Marlene Van Schoonveld, HEN Soph.

Five graduate students, each with two-letter last names, qualify for shortest-name recognition. They are Ping Ho, EE; Chun Hu, Ch; Ru Mo, ME; Chang Wu, ChE; and Pyung Yu, Hrt.

Paging through the book, occupations listed among the names in the directory include a Weaver, Baker, Carpenter, Cook, Gardner, Painter, Shepherd, Bishop, Hunter, Knight, Marshall, Miller, Parson, Porter, and Sexton.

Rice, Corn, Fish, Ham, Bacon, and Wheat are included in the nutritious names. Black, Brown, Gray, Green, and White add color to the book and nationalities English, French, Holland, and German are represented.

And if one mother wonders about her son's scholastic stand, she should take into consideration the fact that he is "Bookless."

McCains Trim Union Tree

A CHRISTMAS TREE decorated with ornaments made by organized living groups was presented to Pres. James A. McCain, Mrs. McCain, and Sheila yesterday afternoon. The tree was decorated during a Christmas party sponsored by the Union Coffee Hours committee.

After a Fashion

Braving Christmas in the Union a Harrowing Experience What with Toupe, Psuedo-Snowflakes, Burly-Type Trees

By Jim Bell

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS can certainly be of a great deal of value. Besides lending a light, airy side to the Yule season, they have a great deal of decorative decorum.

Take, for example, the decorations as erected, built, pasted, sprayed, drawn, and painted in the Union (all $90 worth of them). These particular decorations will, no doubt, aid those who are far from home in combating the it's-a-long-way-from-here-to-home-at-Christmas-time blues—not only that, it will help our foreign students from places such as Arabia, India, and Mecca to enjoy Christmas.

BUT EVEN MORE, the decorations will help to hide the many bricks, windows, and employees of the place. Of course, this is not all desirable, but one must accept the great advantages right along with the disadvantages (which are, of course, not many, nor far).

Only yesterday, a friend and I were walking down one of the place's many halls, when he suddenly began to shiver, shake, and moan, as though from extreme cold.

"Say, friend," I said, "can you really be as cold as you look?"

"Yes, old fellow," he said, his teeth chattering a little more than a little, "look at it snow out there!"

IT WAS AT THIS POINT that I interjected to point out to my poor, uninformed, not-too-up-on-the-situation friend that it was really not snowing at all. "Those, I said, heartily, "those, are not snowflakes, friend. Those are only artificial (psuedo-type) snowflakes as sprayed on the windows by some busy little Union decorators."

It was at this successive point, my friend realized that the cold was only a product of his imagination—in effect, an optical illusion. "Gosh," he said.

We continued on toward the state room. But woe unto us, a big, burly Christmas tree whipped of my friend's toupe. "Ouch," he said, retrieving the toupe from the floor. From there, we progressed into the state room for a cup of the Union's own coffee.

HOWEVER A PROBLEM AROSE, and it stared us right smack in the side of the head: old Koke (for that was his name) had picked up the wrong toupe. Woe unto us, what next?

As you can probably imagine without extreme difficulty, old Koke was by this time suffering from some severe embarrassment. So, pulling his beret down tighter toward his well-shaven double chin, he sauntered as nonchalantly as he could toward a table at the back of the room.

And I, to do my part, skipped back toward that same big, burly Christmas tree that had knocked old Koke's toupe asunder. "Dogbone," I said to myself then, remembering that old Koke wore no toupe.

SO I TURNED, RETRACED my skipping steps, and confronted old Koke. "What," I said, "are you, old Koke, trying to pull, wool?"

"Whatcha mean?"

"Well, old Koke, you wear no toupe, no artificial locks," I said.

"Ye gods, old Koke expounded. "Yer right, I wear no toupe." And he plucked his beret from around his chin, from off his head, and threw it on his knee.

Well, by this time, neither of us wanted the Union's own coffee, so we left by a different route, being careful to avoid the Christmas trees, artificial snow, tinsel, glass ornaments, and students that abounded everywhere.

ONCE OUTSIDE THE UNION, old Koke turned to me and said, "I'll never do that again, no never again, no never again."

"Do what again, old Koke?" I asked, nonchalantly.

"Brave the terrors of Christmas in the Union," he said. "Where else could a fellow such as I (who has no toupe) lose same?" He had me there.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

In regard to the watercolor which was stolen from the Union art lounge last week, I would like to put forth the following thought:

It seems the thief must have forgotten that it takes money from all students on campus to keep our Union running, so that it can provide services such as the art exhibits in the art lounge. These exhibits are for the enjoyment of everyone on campus, since it is their money that is paying for them. By taking this picture the thief is hurting not only himself, but the enjoyment of many students.

Perhaps he should stop and consider the situation, and not only think of his own selfish motives.

Sally Ingle, Chairman
Union Art Committee

Dear Editor:

We would like to clarify an article printed in the December 17 Collegian concerning the formation of a collegiate Future Farmers of America "club." The Agricultural Education club is not forming this organization.

Some members of the School of Agriculture are surveying the potentiality of a collegiate FFA chapter at Kansas State. Harry Pendland, Ag Fr, is acting as chairman of the group exploring the interest of such an organization on this campus.

The Agricultural Education club established on campus since 1947 is fulfilling many of the purposes found in the collegiate FFA chapters at other institutions.

The Agricultural Education club as an organization, is not opposing or recommending the formation of a collegiate FFA chapter at Kansas State college.

Pep Clubs, Students Also Err, Fail To Meet Their Obligations

K-STATE'S CHEERLEADERS have taken a rather nasty verbal beating twice in the Collegian for not living up to what we think is their obligation.

Perhaps one reason they didn't feel as strong an obligation as the Collegian thought they should have is the apathy of the student body. When the cheerleaders do go to a lot of trouble to do something above and beyond the call of cheerleading, they get no response from the students.

A good case in point was the pep rally held in the Auditorium last Friday evening. Despite a time-consuming effort to do something unusual with a pep rally, only 95 K-Staters showed up. This is disheartening to say the least. The Purple Pepsters and the Whi-Purs, the coeds with the purple and white uniforms who sit in the reserved section in the Field house, have a combined membership of 258.

NINETY-FIVE LOOKS AWFULLY small when compared with a possible figure of 258. These coeds are granted the privilege of coming to a game late and still getting some of the best seats in the house. Seems like they could get to a pep rally if they're going to get something special for being the authorized cheering section.

But hold your wrath. We don't for a moment imply that these two organizations have no basis for existence. On the contrary, every school should and must have an organized cheering section, and at the games the Purple Pepsters and Whi-Purs do a good job. But again, this is not where the obligation ends.

Now to drop a happy note into this carnage of criticism. Two of the gentlemen who follow the Wildcats to almost every out of town game and have done it for some time, say that K-State's cheering is the best in the Big Eight.

BUT WELL IT SHOULD BE. Last year the Cats placed second in the conference and now K-State is the third best basketball team in the nation, if you take any stock in wire service polls. The Wildcats are putting on a superior effort—and so the students should follow their lead. The cheering is good, the basketball team is good, and before the season is over we look for both to improve even more.

The whole matter boils down to the students themselves, again. Despite the fact that we think the cheerleaders should be on hand to welcome the team back from a victorious road trip, it must be discouraging to know that few if any students will take the time to take the same action.

We've been informed there's a good chance pep rallies might be discontinued because no one has attended the events—and the planning isn't worth the effort. Hope it doesn't happen.

A DANDY THING, WE THINK, would be for students to call one of the cheerleaders and find out if any plans have been made for meeting the team. Support is a great incentive. Meeting the team hasn't been done too much in the past, we're told, but then, neither has K-State had a No. 3 ranking too often.—Roger Myers.

Relations Better With NATO Allies

Compiled From United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Paris—President Eisenhower flies back to Washington today convinced that America's relations with its Atlantic Allies have improved materially during the NATO summit meeting.

His own presence here, only three weeks after he suffered a cerebral attack that forced him to bed, obviously did much to aid this.

Count Francois De Vogue, head of the 25,000-member French Farmers society, called on the President as a fellow-farmer today and gave him a gold medal from the society.

Then the President went to the Palais De Chaillot at 10:40 a.m.—20 minutes early for the final session of the summit conference.

Eisenhower, dressed in a gray suit, appeared fit and in fine form for the ceremony. He talked animatedly with De Vogue for several minutes. The President appeared particularly interested when the discussion turned to cows.

'Confidential' Fined

Hollywood—The Confidential magazine case which once threatened to spread the private lives of dozens of movie stars across court records ended yesterday in fines totaling $10,000.

Confidential magazine and a sister publication, Whisper, were convicted of conspiracy to publish obscenity in a hearing before Superior Judge H. Burton Noble based on a transcript of the sensational summer trial.

Noble heard brief arguments by Defense Attorney Arthur Crowley and Deputy Atty. Gen. Ray Mombioie and then fined the two publications $5,000 each.

Sentencing was delayed for 30 days but both sides had agreed Nov. 12 that there would be no appeal to the non-jury ruling on the transcript.

After a long trial which ended in a deadlock jury Oct. 1, the prosecution agreed to drop criminal libel charges and try the magazines on obscenity if the publications changed their formats and stopped prying into the lives of celebrities.

During the sensational hearings, names of top personalities like Mae West, John Carroll, Corinne Calvert, June Allyson and Dick Powell were entered into the record.

However, actress Maureen O'Hara and singer Dorothy Dandridge were the only celebrities to take the stand.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

K-State Student Owns 70 Greyhounds; Dog Racing Netted $12,000 Last Year

By JOHN RODRIGUEZ

Back in 1948 Fred Clemence, AE Soph, leased a registered female greyhound. Now, the owner of some 70 greyhounds, he is in the dog racing business, a business which netted him close to $12,000 last year.

Clemence races his greyhounds in Miami, Fla., in the winter and at Daytona Beach, Fla., in the summer. He has raced dogs at Key West, Fla., also. "I have also leased dogs to run in Arizona, Colorado, South Dakota, Massachusetts, and Mexico," Clemence said.

Of the 70-odd dogs, Clemence runs 25 in Florida. He gets 35 per cent of the dogs' winnings, while the other 65 per cent goes to Claude McGee, who takes care of the 25 greyhounds. Last year his dogs in Florida won $30,000, which, according to Clemence, is the most money won by his dogs in one year.

Pin Rock, one of Clemence's top three dogs, won $1,900 in winning the Hollywood Futurity at Miami two years ago. This is the most money won by one of his dogs in one race.

"In a race the dogs run eight at a time, chasing a mechanical rabbit," Clemence said in explaining some of the racing procedures. "A track official puts the dogs in one of six grades, the grades being A, B, C, D, E, and maiden. The top grade is A.

"Dogs that have never raced before are put in the maiden grade. Anytime dogs runs less than third for three consecutive starts, they are lowered a grade. On the other hand, if they win a race, they are raised a grade. If dogs run out of the money five times in grade E, they do not run at that particular track again."

Races are held six days of the week, according to Clemence. No races are on Sundays. "A dog cannot run on two consecutive nights. He usually runs two days a week," he said.

Clemence has many sources from which he obtains names for his dogs. A combination of a dog's parents is one source, as in the case of Tumble Comrade, another of his top-ranking greyhounds. Another top greyhound, Sparky Sun, got its name out of a Los Angeles newspaper.

Here, the Greeks invade Clemence's dog racing business. The Greek alphabet supplies names for 17 of his greyhounds. Rho won the Futurity Stake at Abilene this past October. "He is the best pup I have raised in quite a while," Clemence said. "At home (Abilene) I spend nearly $100 a year on upkeep for one dog," Clemence said. "I feed them beef and commercial dog food."

According to the national average, Clemence reported, one dog out of five from a litter, will be able to make a person money. "I have been able to do a little better," he said, although he did not know the exact figures.

"Within a 10-mile radius of Abilene around 800 greyhounds are raised," Clemence said. "The bulk of the greyhounds in the United States are raised in Kansas, but since no betting is allowed in this state, it will never rank with Florida as a dog racing center. Last year Florida took in over 10 million dollars in its racing business."

Clemence is a member of the National Coursing association, which has its office in Abilene. All greyhounds have to be registered with the association before they can race, according to Clemence.

Dick Corbin Top Gridder In Grades

By UNITED PRESS

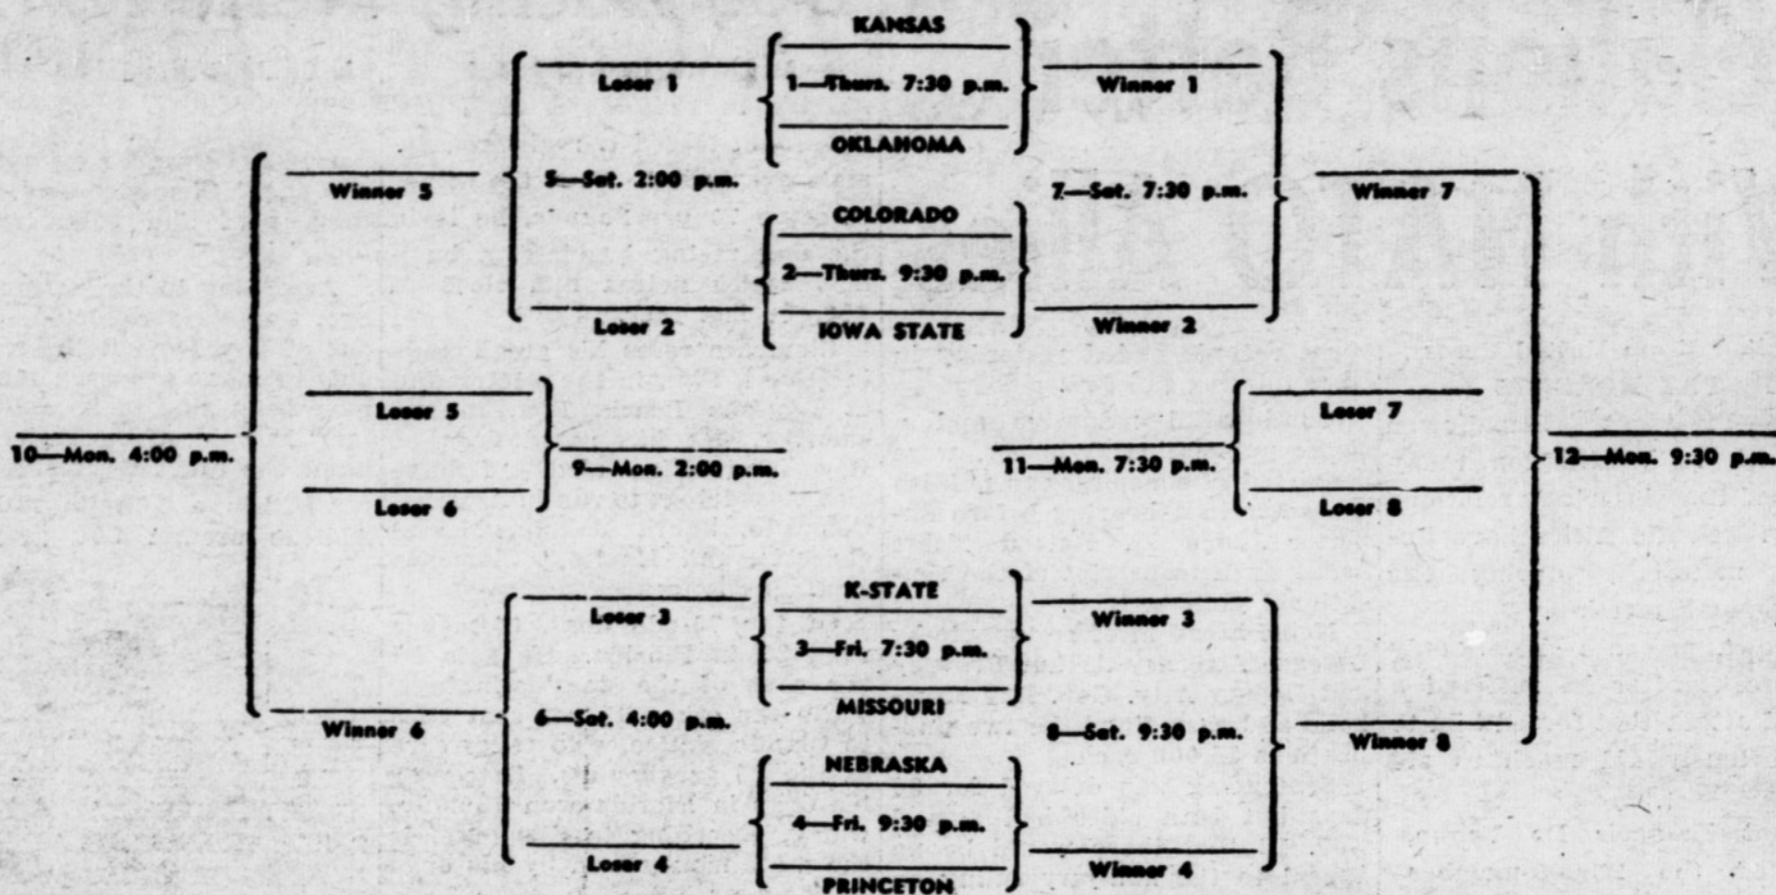

Attempting to prove that football players have brains as well as brawn, American Peoples Encyclopedia today listed its fourth annual all-Big Eight conference scholastic football team.

The brains department was headed by Dick Corbin, K-State's left-handed quarterback, who has a 2.4 grade average in his senior year in chemical engineering.

Also named to the all scholastic team were ends Joe Rector of Oklahoma and Dale Remsburg of Kansas, both studying education; tackles Mervin Johnson of Missouri, agriculture, and Doyle Jennings of Oklahoma, education; guards Bob Bird of Iowa State, engineering and Joe Onjesky, Oklahoma, finance; center Tom Swaney, Missouri, engineering; and backs, Eddie Dove, Colorado, education; Howard Cook, Colorado, pre-dentistry; William Hawkins, Nebraska, teachers college, and Corbin.

The encyclopedia also named a 10-man honorable mention team of Jim Lawrence and Dick Corbitt, Oklahoma; Bill Mondt and Sherman Pruitt, Colorado; Wally Carlson and Ellis Rainsberger, K-State; Bob Kraus and Chuck Vanatta, Kansas; and Harry Tolly and Roy Stinnett, Nebraska.

Big Eight Pre-Season Cage Tourney Bracket

Sig Eps and Rebels on Top In Present Intramural Ratings

Sigma Phi Epsilon in the fraternity division and Rebels in the independent division are the leading intramural teams after three completed sports this year—golf, touch football, and free throw shooting.

The Sig Eps have 230 points. They are followed by Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 219 points, Beta Theta Pi, 198½ points, Pi Kappa Alpha, 157½ points, and Phi Delta Theta, 144 points.

The Rebels have scored 151 points, House of Williams and OK House are tied for second place with 128 points each. Rho Alphas and South Jardine are next with 124 points and 112 points, respectively.

Beta Theta Pi of the fraternity division and 357 Club of the independent division were the winners in the free throw tournaments in last night's intramural action.

Behind Beta Theta Pi, which made 167 free throws out of a possible 200, were the Sig Eps, with 164 out of 200, Sigma Chi, 161, Phi Delta Theta, 160, and Pi Kappa Alpha, 153.

Bob Turley of Sigma Nu repeated as the fraternity division free throw champion as he sank 46 shots out of 50. Lee Cook also made 46 out of 50 for honors in the independent division.

Cats Have Won Close Ones

By ELDON MILLER

K-State over Indiana, 82-80, in the last five seconds . . . K-State over Oklahoma, 55-54, in the last 15 seconds . . . K-State over Missouri, 55-53, as the gun sounds . . .

These are but a few of the many last-second victories which K-State basketball teams have taken in the past. They are games which will long be remembered by Wildcat fans who saw them.

Although present basketball action shoves past play aside, every one in a while the fan drifts back and remembers the real exciting contests of yesterday.

A classic example is the 1952 game with Indiana which the Cats won, 82-80.

Both teams were ranked high in the national standings and it was a tooth and nail game all the way.

Paced by two all-Americans, center Don Schlundt and guard Bob Leonard, the Hoosiers took advantage with 1:51 remaining.

Indiana then got the ball and attempted to freeze it but Leonard was fouled and sank one of two free throws.

With 15 seconds left K-State guard Gene Stauffer hit a set shot to knot the game at 80-80.

The Hoosiers then tried a desperation shot which missed and K-State's other guard, Dick Peck, rebounded. The ball was given to forward Jack Carby and the 6-7 senior set 35 feet out and cut the cords with five seconds left for the victory. Carby had scored only three points in the game before his final shot.

Fritz Knorr, assistant athletic director, coached the Wildcats during the war years of 1944-45 and 1945-46 and did a creditable job considering the fact that he had to work with squads composed mostly of boys fresh out of high school and war veterans.

Knorr did have a few talented players such as Jay Payton, all Big Six guard, who kept things alive for the Cat fans. In the conference opener against Oklahoma in 1945 K-State etched a 55-54 decision which saw the lead change hands 14 times.

The Wildcats had a 53-45 lead with 6:30 remaining when the Sooners caught fire and forged ahead, 54-53. It was then that Payton took the ball and shot from near the center-court mark with 15 seconds left.

The ball went in and the the Nichols gymnasium crowd was brought cheering to its collective feet by the exciting win. The Cats went on to post a respectable 4-6 conference mark and a 10-13 over-all record.

One of the finest K-State teams was turned out by Jack Gardner in 1948 when the Wildcats took the conference, placed fourth in the NCAA tournament, and finished the season with a 22-6 record.

One of the losses was at the hands of Missouri at Columbia and when the Tigers came to Manhattan they also gave K-State a bad time.

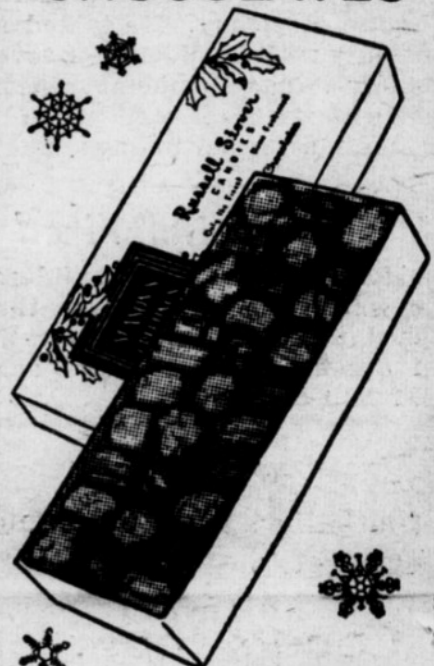

Missouri led most of the way but a basket by Clarence Brannum, all-conference center, gave K-State a 51-50 lead with two minutes to play. Missouri soon tied it on a free throw.

The last 12 seconds saw what was probably the fastest scoring action on K-State history. Howie Shannon, all-American forward and present frosh basketball coach at K-State, started it off with a pivot shot from the side putting the Cats in front, 53-51.

But Missouri came back with a long shot just inside the center line with four seconds showing.

With an overtime period almost certain, the Cats tossed the ball in from out of bounds, raced down the court with Brannum shooting at the goal a split second before the gun went off. The shot barely rustled the cords.

Frosh Games

The Pacific Coast conference has them, the Missouri Valley conference has them, the Boarder conference has them, the Skyline conference has them—the Big Eight doesn't.

Why aren't Big Eight schools allowed to schedule outside games for freshman basketball teams? A conference committee is looking into the possibility of revising the prohibitive ruling and should have a list of advantages, disadvantages, and costs by February 27.

Wichita university of the Missouri Valley plays a 12 game frosh slate. Pat Quinn, WU sports publicity director, says, "A lot of boys come to Wichita just so they can play their first year."

Arizona university of the Boarder conference has a 24-game frosh slate. California of the PCC has a 16-game schedule for freshmen.

These freshmen squads have opponents including junior colleges, service teams, industrial teams, small colleges, other frosh teams, high schools, and junior varsity teams.

"There are good points to both sides of the argument," K-State Athletic Director Bebe Lee says, "I think further study of the problem is needed."

"One argument against scheduling frosh games is that the players will be so busy preparing for the games they won't absorb enough fundamentals.

"Everybody gets to play in intra-squad games but only about half the squad would play in outside games. There would be extra expenses, too.

"Conference coaches are probably in favor of a few games with junior colleges and service teams each year. K-State frosh will play games this season with the intra-mural champs and a team of football players.

"When a change of policy is started, it is pretty hard not to let the change apply to all sports. Of course the footballers play two games with other Big Eight teams and the freshmen track team has postal meets now."

Cagers Tops

We think most well-informed people will agree with us that K-State has the best basketball team in the nation, including the Kansas Jayhawks.

The Cats are presently rated third behind North Carolina and KU, and although it isn't always desirable to be ranked so high early in the season (because of pressure, possible over-confidence, etc.), we don't believe there is a team in the country the Wildcats couldn't whip.

Last year's NCAA champs, North Carolina, have a 4-0 record so far this season but have lost quite a bit of talent by graduation and injuries.

Kansas university has a 5-0 record, the same as K-State. The Hawks were playing teams such as Canasius, Marquette, and St. Joseph's while the Cats were beating Indiana, Purdue, and Iowa, Big Ten title contenders.

Winter Has 61-36 Mark

Tex Winter, now in his fifth year as K-State's head basketball coach, has the third largest number of wins posted by any of the 10 coaches who have been at the Wildcat helm since 1904. Winter has a 61-36 record to date.

Jack Gardner, who coached the Cats for 10 years (1939-42 and 1946-53) posted a 147-76 mark and Charles Corsaut won 91 and lost 79 in the same number of campaigns (1923-33).

Boozer Standout Forward In College Basketball—Tex

By JOHN RODRIGUEZ

"One of the outstanding forwards in collegiate basketball," says K-State Coach Tex Winter of 6-8 Bob Boozer.

"I wouldn't trade him for anyone, with the possible exception of Wilt Chamberlain. As far as all around basketball ability goes, he surpasses even Chamberlain.

"He is faster, more agile, has improved his jumping ability, and has good strength this year. He is the most conscientious player we have ever had at K-State and is determined to be great.

"Boozer was one of the finest sophomores ever to compete for K-State, and should have a great junior year. This, in turn, should set the stage for a great senior year. Boozer is very definitely of all-American calibre."

Sports, a magazine about athletics, thinks so, too. Sports named Boozer to its pre-season all-America second team this year.

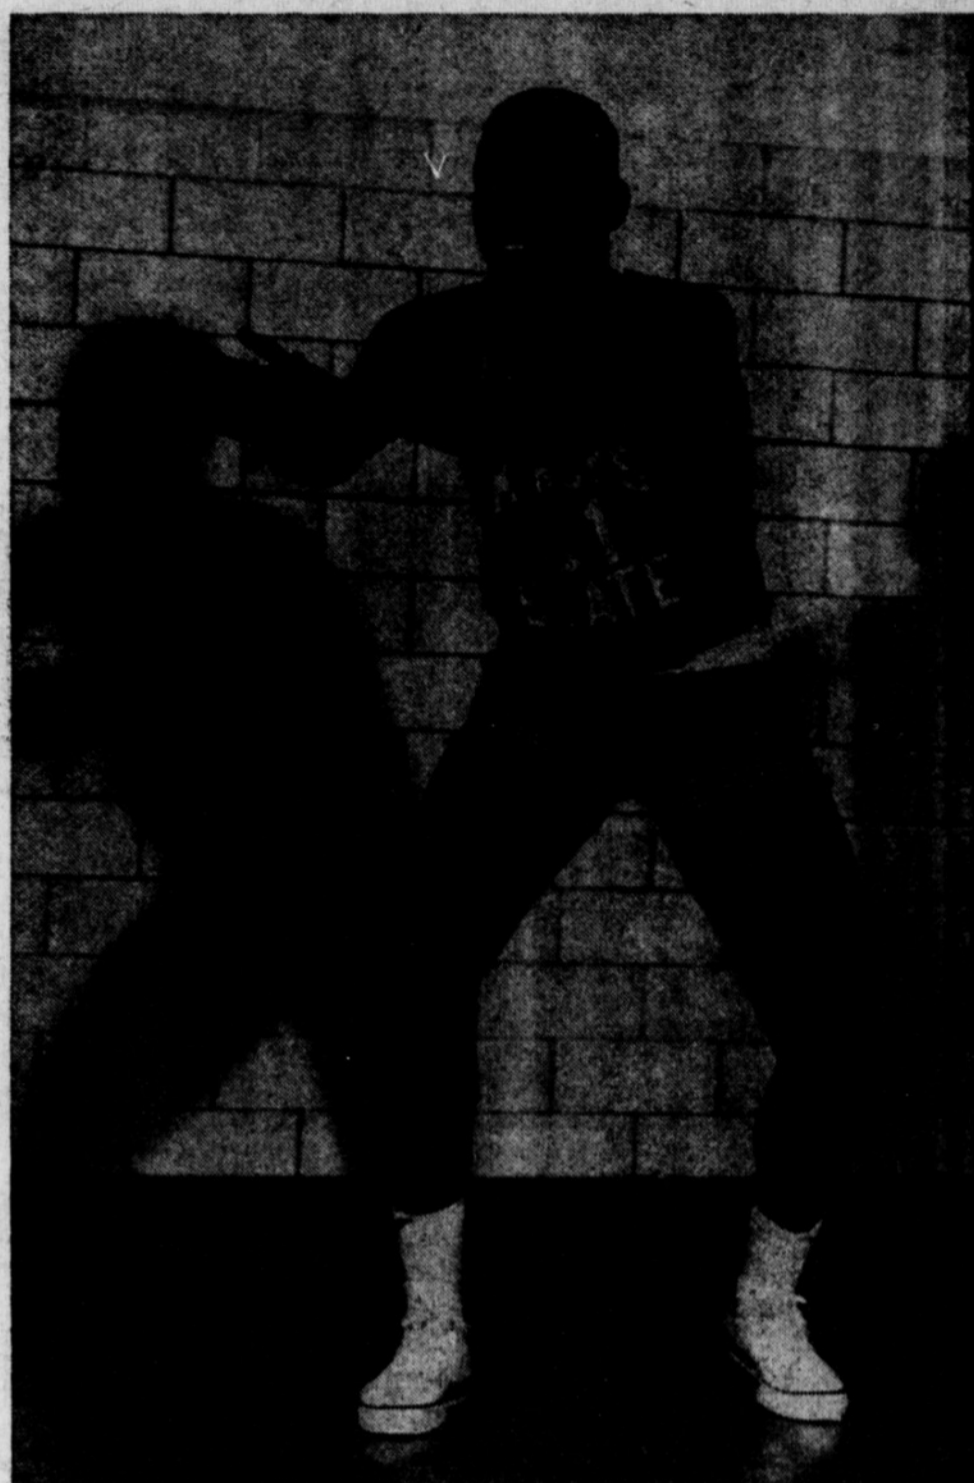

Boozer received much recognition last year. He was named to the all-Big Eight first team by United Press and Associated Press. He was on the pre-season Big Eight tournament first team and received honorable mention all-America by U.P.

Boozer wrote a new set of Wildcat sophomore records last season. He scored 450 points during the season, tallied 90 points in three games in the pre-season Big Seven tourney, scored 36 points in a single game against Colorado university, and made 16 free throws in one game, all new sophomore records. In addition he won K-State's free throw accuracy award by hitting 77 per cent of his free throws.

Boozer's 450 points is the most scored by a forward at K-State. The 36 points he scored in one game ranks fourth high among all-time Wildcat cagers. Only Dick Knostman, all-America in 1953, made more, scoring 42 points against Oklahoma and 39 and 38 points against Missouri.

In the first five games this year Boozer has averaged 20.2 points. He has hit 39 field goals out of 74 attempts for a 52.7 shooting percentage. He has connected on 23 free throws in 36 attempts for a 63.9 percentage and has hauled in 60 rebounds. The 27 points Boozer scored against Indiana is his high for the first five games.

"Back in Indiana they think Boozer is the best forward they have seen in a long time," Winter said. Small wonder—Boozer had 27 and 25 points, plus 19 and 10 rebounds, respectively, against Indiana and Purdue.

BOB BOOZER, 6-8 forward for the Wildcats who is scoring at a 20.2 pace through five games this season and set a sophomore record last year with a total of 450 points for a 19.6 average. Coach Tex Winter said as far as all around ability goes, Boozer is better than Wilt the Stilt.

K-Staters Party in Yuletide Social Whirl

ACACIA'S SWEETHEART Marlene Van Schoonveld rattles the package Santa Claus gave her at the Acacia Christmas party Sunday night. Looking on are Terry Polling and Marilyn Kratzer. J. L. Neal (in a Santa Claus disguise) delivered gifts to Acacia's and their dates. Couples danced to records in the living room and chapter room. Chaperones were Mrs. Ora P. Brammer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Clack.

Alpha Chi Omega

Eggnog was served at the Alpha Chi Omega house Sunday by Mrs. Paul Jones, housemother. It was the sixth Christmas that Mrs. Jones has served eggnog to the Alpha Chi's.

The table centerpiece was white foam frame covered with red and green sequins outlining a gold glittered Alpha Chi Omega lyre. Green and silver pine branches circled the eggnog bowl.

In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. John Keltner, and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Dale.

O. K. House

O. K. house residents had their annual Christmas supper Tuesday evening at the house. Gifts of toys were exchanged and sent to the Brainard Indian Training school at Hot Springs, S.D.

Delta Delta Delta

Mistletoe, holly, and a Yuletide fire set the scene for the annual Christmas formal at the Delta Delta Delta house Friday evening. About 75 Tri Deltas and their dates danced to the music of Tommy Lee and his band. Punch and cookies were served.

The party was chaperoned by fraternity and sorority housemothers. They were Mrs. Marie Trego, Chi Omega; Mrs. J. I. Hollingsworth, Pi Beta Phi; Mrs. William Bensing, Pi Kappa Alpha; and the Tri-Delt housemother, Mrs. C. H. Thomas.

House of Brec

A skit on the theme of "This Is Your Life" was presented by Leon Swenson, NE Fr, at the House of Brec Christmas party Friday. Women of Southeast hall were present. Cookies, punch, Christmas candy, and nuts were served after several games were played. The group also sang Christmas carols. Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Kerr were faculty sponsors, and Mrs. Francis Brecheisen chaperoned.

House of Williams

Residents of the House of Williams entertained their dates at a Christmas party December 13. Couples danced, played cards, and exchanged gifts. About 10 couples were present.

Delta Tau Delta

A trim-the-Christmas-tree party was held at the Delta Tau Delta house last Saturday night after the basketball game. The pledges, led by Jim West, pledge class president, presented a skit entitled "Christmas Throughout the Ages." Couples danced and played cards.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

"Contemporary Kappa Christmas" was the theme of the annual pledge dance given at the Kappa house Friday. The party was given for the actives, and the theme was kept secret until the day of the dance. The front door, dining room, and basement were decorated as contemporary cards, and the living room had flashing lights of red and gold that looked like stars.

Six members of Matt Betton's band provided the music for dancing.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

The Teke's annual Christmas dance was Saturday night after the basketball game. Members and their dates danced and played cards. Cookies, eggnog, and pretzels were served.

Alpha Xi Delta

The Alpha Xi's had their Christmas party at the Alpha Xi house Friday night. Humorous gifts were passed out to several sorority members and Alpha Xi's and their dates sang Christmas carols. Couples danced and played cards.

Phi Delta Theta

Verses and gifts for the dates of Phi Delta Theta fraternity were part of the entertainment at the Phi Delt Christmas party Sunday night. The pledges also gave a skit. Doughnuts and cocoa were served. Mrs. J. P. Hurley and several young married couples were the chaperones. The house was decorated with pine greenery, green and white ornaments, and large white candles.

Alpha Delta Pi

Louise Fager (in a Santa Claus disguise) brought poems and gifts to the ADPI's dates at the Alpha Delta Pi Christmas party Friday night. Several Christmas songs were sung by an ADPI sextet.

In the sextet are Jeannie Williamson, MEI Sr, Barbara Starnes, DIM Sr, Corky Hudiburg, Sp Jr, Sue Kenison, TxC Sr, Kathy Pile, DIM Soph, and Liz Hamilton, HT Soph. Carole Hall, HE Soph, accompanied them on the piano and also gave her interpretation of "Mr. Santa."

Mrs. W. P. Dunagan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bradley, and Mr. and Mrs. Haney Scott were the chaperones.

Gamma Phi Beta

The children of Gamma Phi Beta alums were entertained at a party at the Gamma Phi house December 18. The party was sponsored by the active chapter. Donna and Doris Geis sang "It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas," and Carolee Alexander read "The Christmas Story."

Phi Kappa

"The Twelve Days of Christmas" was the theme of the Phi Kappa Christmas party Saturday. Decorations were posters depicting the gifts mentioned in the song.

Phi Kappas and their dates exchanged gifts during the evening. They will be given to underprivileged children.

Phi Kappa pledges gave a skit impersonating the actives, and sang "The Twelve Days of Christmas."

Guests at the dance were Mr. and Mrs. William Patzel, Mr. and Mrs. John Schnitker, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Melroy.

Sigma Nu

Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served at the Sigma Nu Christmas party Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus were Bob Stoughton, His Soph, and Mrs. Krallman, cook at the Sigma Nu house. Chaperones for the evening were Capt. and Mrs. James Anderson. Captain Anderson is in the Military Science department.

Kappa Delta

An old fashioned Christmas party was at the Kappa Delta house Friday night. Sue Rasher, Eng Fr, sang an original version of "All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth." A pantomime of "What a swell party this is" was given by Alice Marie Kallio, SED Fr, and Nancy Wantland, EED Fr.

Couples danced and played cards. Refreshments were served. Chaperones were Prof. Linwood Hodgdon, economics and sociology; his wife, Mrs. Hodgdon; and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Armstrong.

Alpha Gamma Rho

AGR's and their dates gathered 'round the Christmas tree at the Alpha Gamma Rho house Saturday night while Santa delivered gifts of stuffed animals and sweatshirts. The sweatshirts were bright green, with "Property of Alpha Gamma Rho" printed in white across the front. One coed received a red and white striped AGR nightshirt with matching nightcap.

The couples ate popcorn balls and drank cokes by the fireplace. For entertainment they danced and played ping-pong and cards.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

Hostetler Elected Justice of KS Chancery Club

Charles Hostetler, PrL Soph, was recently elected supreme associate justice of the National Chancery club for pre-law students at the national convention at Oklahoma State university. The office is comparable to national vice-president.

George Wiese of Oklahoma university was elected national president.

Others who attended the conference from K-State are Harry Gantenbein, PrL Sr; Larry Lesh, PrL Sr; Jerry Smith, PrL Sr; Mike Smith, AA Soph; Mike Stout, AH Sr; and A. D. Miller, associate professor in the Department of History, Government, and Philosophy.

Jerry Smith is the outgoing national president of the club, and has held that office since the club was founded two years ago. Miller is the national sponsor.

The Chancery club was started by Miller on a local basis at K-State in 1950. When he taught at Texas university on sabbatical leave in 1953-54, he organized the club there. In 1955, Chancery club became a national organization.

The national club now has seven member clubs—K-State, Texas, Oklahoma university, Southern Methodist university, North Texas State college, Oklahoma State university, and East Texas State college.

Governor's Home Next Stop

Petitions Have 3,750 Okays

Approximately 3,750 K-Staters signed petitions backing a Student Council project to get faculty salaries raised by five per cent or more. The two-and-a-half-day campaign ended yesterday at 5 p.m.

The vote represented about 55 per cent of the total student body. The petitions, printed on 8½ x 11 paper, were stapled together to form a sheet almost 170 feet long.

The roll will be sent to Gov. George Docking "at a time when we think it will do the most good," according to Student Body President Neil Scott.

The project was adopted after Council Chairman Paul Hatfield compiled figures showing K-State educators were underpaid almost $1,500 in relation to the average for the rest of the country.

Scott has drafted a letter to the Governor explaining student concern and interest in raising faculty salaries. He will try to meet with the student body presidents of Kansas' other four state-supported schools during the Christmas holidays to get their signatures before sending the letter, or the roll of signatures, to Docking.

TABULATING THE FINAL total of signatures on the faculty salary increase petition are Paul Hatfield, AEd Sr, and Neil Scott, Zoo Sr, student body president. Approximately 3,750 students signed the petition circulated by the Student Council to raise faculty salaries five per cent or more.

Additions to KS Buildings Under Architect's Check

Preliminary plans for the additions to Kedzie and Eisenhower halls and the additional married student apartments are being checked and corrected by John Brink, state architect, and representative of the College, according to R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the physical plant.

Only minor changes were made in the Kedzie hall addition plans at the December 4 conference, said Gingrich. Some of the rooms were re-arranged, and some partitions were changed.

Location of utilities in the new addition to Kedzie hall will be determined at a conference today in Topeka.

The Eisenhower hall addition preliminary plans were okayed at a conference Tuesday, but they will undergo another series of conferences in two or three weeks, said Gingrich.

Corrections are being made on the proposed Jardine Terrace addition plans following Tuesday's conference.

Upon completion, those plans will be sent to Fort Worth, Texas, for approval by the Housing and Home Finance agency. This step is necessary because the federal government has granted a $2,100,000 loan for the construction of the 11 additional units.

Ten units, each containing 24 apartments, will be built to the east and the west of the present Jardine Terrace area. One unit will be built in the present north area. They will be of the same design as the apartment units already completed.

A block-wide area immediately west of Jardine Terrace will be left for recreational purposes.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Friday, December 20, 1957-2

Have a Cool Yule Season, But Return in One Piece

AS WE SAID on the front page, have a cool yule and be sure to get back to school in one piece. The Christmas holidays are a dandy time of the year and you shouldn't spoil things by getting hurt, especially on the way home. But be careful on your way back too. There's not much sense in fighting through nearly a semester and then being in the hospital when finals roll around.

This will be the last Collegian until Tuesday, January 7. This is, in fact, the last Collegian of 1957. We've managed to get a Collegian of sorts out almost every day during the last four months of this year and we hope you consider it worthy of your readership.

IF YOU THINK the newspaper is letting down and not fulfilling its role as a newspaper, just remember it's a K-State paper about K-Staters (engineers and cheerleaders included) and we can't report any news until students on this campus do something to warrant coverage.

You may disagree with us editorially, but don't let that stop you from reading the rest of the paper. As we say in the Christmas tree—this is the season we like everybody, and we hope everybody likes us.

K-STATE WILL BE PLAYING Washington and California in the basketball double header at Manhattan and Lawrence this weekend, and we hope you will stay for the game tomorrow night if your housemother doesn't lock your door.

The Cats will also be going at it hammer-and-tong down at the Big Eight Pre-Season tournament in Kansas City right after Christmas. If you can get down and are lucky enough to get a seat from which you can see the floor, yell your head off for the Wildcats.

Restrain your adverse comments about men in the black and white stripes unless they call a game like the K-State-Oklahoma City university game two years ago. Anyway, if you can't get to KC for the tournament, tune into Frank Jones on the K-State Sports network. You're bound to hear a good game if you listen to Kansas State basketball.

BEING REPETITIOUS in an editorial is a good way to make a point I've been told, so when you get on the road, going or coming to school, be careful. The rest of the drivers on Kansas highways are just as crazy as you are.—Roger Myers.

P.S.—Drop your legislator a line about raising faculty salaries while you're home for the holidays.

East German Communist Court Rules Stripping Is Unconstitutional, Inside or Outside Boundaries

By UNITED PRESS

Berlin—The Communists have declared the strip tease unconstitutional.

What's more, the strip tease is a crime whether performed inside East Germany or out, the court ruled.

It handed a two and one-half year sentence to a dancer named Marga Schlottte-Indra who recruited other girls in her home town of Leipzig for a tour of West Germany.

She was arrested after the Communist youth newspaper, "Young World," exposed the type of dances the girls did before West German audiences composed of what the newspaper called "American occupiers, seamen, and snobs."

"Their bodies were clad with nothing more than shoes, very tight panties and two flowers the size of a coin," the newspaper reported.

"The girls had to take part in a game called lingerie fishing. The drunken guests and American soldiers, armed with fishing poles, would tear their underwear piece for piece from their bodies while they stood on the stage."

Article six does not mention the strip tease specifically. It does cover the broad field of "rights of the citizens" and bans "boycott of democratic institutions, hatred of other peoples, and warmongering."

Under just which category the dance of disrobing falls was not clarified but the Communists use the clause to cover most behavior of which they disapprove.

As in all well-run Communist trial the defendants confessed.

Asked by the court what she herself thought of Schoenheitsaetze (literally: "beauty dances"), Miss Schlottte-Indra replied:

"I find them appalling. No decent person would attend such a thing."

Young World said the 30-month sentence was far too lenient "when you consider the gravity of her offense."

Austin Is New Regent

Topeka—Whitley Austin, editor of the Salina Journal, will succeed Oscar Stauffer, Topeka publisher on the State Board of Regents, effective January 1.

Austin, a Republican, was named to the post yesterday by Gov. George Docking, who had just returned from a four-day vacation at New Orleans with Mrs. Docking.

The appointment was the third announced by Docking to the nine-member bi-partisan Board which governs the state university and five colleges. Others named were Russell R. Rust, Topeka insurance executive, and George B. Collins, Wichita attorney.

Austin is a native of Emporia and attended the University of Wisconsin. He has been with the Salina Journal the past nine years.

Cats Put No. 3 Rating on Line In Their First Double-Header

K-State and Kansas university will make sports history tonight at Lawrence when they combine as Big Eight representatives to meet two invading Pacific Coast conference basketball teams, California university and Washington university.

In the first of two double-headers, the Wildcats will meet California at 7:35 p.m. and Kansas plays Washington at 9:30 p.m.

Tomorrow night the Big Eight teams switch opponents and play in Manhattan. Kansas engages California at 7:35 p.m. and K-State goes against Washington at 9:30 p.m.

These are the first double-headers scheduled by the two Kansas teams.

Both Kansas, second ranked nationally with a 5-0 record, and the Wildcats, ranked third with an identical won-lost mark, will be trying to maintain their high ratings and, if possible, move North Carolina, also 5-0, out of the number one spot.

California has a 2-1 record, losing only to nationally ranked San Francisco university. Washington is 1-3, splitting with Brigham Young university and losing two to Oklahoma State.

Despite the only mediocre showing of the West coast teams they could be plenty rough on the hosts.

California coach Pete Newell will probably start a team averaging 6-3½, one inch shorter than the Wildcat average, but can call on two 6-8½ sophomores, Dick Doughty and Darrel Imhoff, for any needed height.

Earl Robinson, 6-1 senior, and Allan Buch, 6-2 junior, will be at guards for the Bears; Don McIntosh, 6-6 senior, will start at center; and Jack Grout, 6-5 junior, and George Sterling, 6-4 senior, at forwards.

Robinson was the leading California scorer last season with a 12.1 game average. He has also been chosen all-PCC second team guard for the last two years.

Grout attended Chanutte high school in Kansas until his senior year when he moved to California.

The Washington Huskies will be slightly shorter than the Bears with a 6-3 average. Their tallest man is 6-7 center Doug Smart, who was an all-PCC selection last year as a sophomore.

Probable starters:
K-State	Pos.	California
Abbott (6-3)	F	(6-5) Grout
Boozar (6-8)	F	(6-4) Sterling
Parr (6-9)	C	(6-6) McIntosh
DeWitz (6-3)	G	(6-1) Buch
Matuszak (6-0)	G	(6-1) Robinson
Washington
Donaghue (6-4)	F	(6-4) Irvine
Loneski (6-4)	F	(6-4) Murphy
Cha'erlain (7-0)	C	(6-7) Smart
Billings (5-11)	G	(6-2) Tufts
Hickman (6-1)	G	(5-11) Crews

Smart hit 55.1 per cent of his shots and set a PCC scoring record for sophs with 336 points.

Along with Smart, coach Tippy Dye will probably start Earle Irvine and Al Murphy, both 6-4 sophomores, at the forwards; and senior guards Dick Crews, 5-11, and John Tuft, 6-2.

KU will start a team averaging 6-4.

Although not playing each other, the Hawks and Wildcats will be battling each other for national prestige.

Washington and California will be the first mutual opponents the teams have faced.

Kansas and K-State finished 1-2

Bowl Picks

By UNITED PRESS

Absolutely the final football selections of the year—the bowl game “winners” which will prove, if you bet on ‘em, that it is better to give than to receive.

Without further ado, or even any more nonsense, here they are:

Rose Bowl—Ohio State over Oregon.

Sugar Bowl—Texas over Mississippi.

Cotton Bowl—Navy over Rice.

Orange Bowl—Oklahoma over Duke.

Gator Bowl—Texas Aggies over Tennessee.

Accounting Majors To Start Interning

Fifteen K-State accounting majors will work as junior accountants with national and local firms for six weeks beginning December 26, according to William J. Clark, associate professor of business administration.

The students are taking final examinations for this semester's work before Christmas vacation to allow time for the project. They will be paid approximately the same rate as junior members of the firms.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained at the Union informa-

These Restaurants Serve to Negroes

As a service to colored students who will be staying in Manhattan during the Christmas vacation, the Collegian is again listing the names of restaurants that will serve them.

The following establishments will be open to anyone, regardless of race, creed, color, or nationality: New Pines cafe, Brownie's Coffee shop, Gillett Coffee shop, Jensen's cafe, Patrick's cafe, Mar cafe, Warren Coffee shop, Scheu's cafe, The Fountain, Varsity Drug store, Norton's Rexall drug, Palace drug, Orange Bowl, and Grave's drug.

tion desk, or from scholarship chairmen of sororities, and dormitory presidents, according to Darlene Larkin, TrC Sr., general chairman for the dinner.

Agricultural Economics Club

Orian Buller, AE Sr., was selected president of the Agricultural Economics club last night.

Other officers elected were Larry Boone, AE Jr., vice president; Leo Cram, AE Sr., recording secretary; Leon Schmidt, AE Jr., corresponding secretary; and Jimmy Dillman, AE Soph, treasurer.

Inter-Dorm Sing

Over 600 coeds participated in the annual inter-dorm Christmas carol sing last night.

Residents of Northwest, Southeast, Van Zile, and Waltheim residence halls sang on the lawn between the freshman halls and in front of Van Zile.

Union Games Area

The Union games area, dive, and bridge area will be open to only married students January 4, during Christmas vacation.

A bowling tournament is being planned. Prizes for first, second, and third place teams will be awarded. Prizes will be tickets to Union movies or to a future big-name dance band performance.

International Student Conference

The first two students to represent K-State at the "Christmas Adventure in International Understanding" conference began their 10-day stay at Michigan State university in East Lansing yesterday.

They are Gad Shefet, FT Sr., from Tel-Aviv, Israel, and Feliciano Sarmiento, FT Fr., from Quezon, Philippines.

Shefet and Sarmiento were selected by application to be among the 90 foreign students in the United States to participate in the program, planned to promote world understanding.

Campus Church Groups Busy in Varied Projects

United Student Fellowship hosts were kept "on their toes" by the lively youngsters they entertained at a Christmas party at the Congregational church Sunday, December 15. The guests were seven underprivileged Manhattan children in the first, second, and third grades.

Trying to be an entertaining host, one college student pointed to a candle in the table decorations and said, "See, there's Santa Claus." A bright first grader replied, "No, that's not Santa Claus. That's a candle."

A blond-haired second grade girl, whose eyes looked considerably brighter after the supper of sandwiches, carrot sticks, ice cream and cookies, said, "Oh, my tummy's so full I can't wiggle." But it was noted that she did plenty of "wiggling" later as the children played "Drop the Handkerchief" and "Cat and Mouse" before Santa presented them each with a gift.

Minature snow scenes with reindeer inside rose bowls were the table decorations at the Kappa Phi "Phyllis" breakfast December 15, at Wesley Foundation. Cherry-centered grapefruit halves, freshly baked coffee cake, and coffee in snowflake covered cups were served to Kappa Phi members.

Mrs. Superna Shantikumar, from Hyderabad told of Christmas customs in her native country.

Even though the number of Christians in India is relatively small, many people decorate Christmas trees, which they can get free from their neighbors, Mrs. Shantikumar explained. She expressed surprise that preparations for the holidays were begun so early in the United States, since only four or five days are spent for the season's decorating in India.

SGA Constitution Revised by Council

The number of students subject to scholastic eligibility check by virtue of the offices or positions they hold was cut considerably yesterday when Student Council revised the third section of Article VI of the by-laws of the Student Governing association constitution.

The Scholastic Eligibility committee will have the responsibility of making the eligibility check. The following students shall be subject to the eligibility check.

1. All SGA officials and chairmen of standing SGA committees.
2. Student members of the Board of Publications.
3. Editors and business managers of staffs of general publications who are appointed by the Board of Student Publications.
4. Editors and business managers of the Kansas State Engineer and the Kansas Agricultural Student and the business manager of the Student Directory.

5. All students representing the College in intercollegiate activities, except those who are governed by the regulations of the intercollegiate organizations under which they are competing.

6. Student members of the Union Governing board and the Union Program council.

7. Presidents of Interfraternity council, Panhellenic council, Independent Student association, and Associated Women Students.

8. Managers of Engineers' Open House, Home Economics Hospitality Day, Little American Royal, Ag Week, Arts and Sciences Open House, and Veterinary Medicine Open House.

9. Cheerleaders.

Activities Board Says No To Flanagan Appearance

The Student Activities board withheld approval of Scabbard and Blade's request to sponsor the Ralph Flanagan band for the Army military ball at a meeting in the Union yesterday.

Approval for sponsoring the Flanagan band for the ball was withheld because of Scabbard and Blade's present financial instability. The Activities board requested the organization to submit a budget of expenditures to be incurred for the ball before approval for the affair is given.

The board also said Scabbard and Blade must have adequate financial backing in case expenditures cannot be met by ticket sales. Bob Carlson, BA Jr, representative for the group, said the cost of contracting for the band was $1,750, and that other expenses would be involved.

Tau Sigma Delta was given permission to hold an out of town dinner for new initiates of the architecture honorary. Don Anderson, Ar 05, president of the organization, represented the group at the Activities board meeting.

Soph Pre-Enrollees Win Race of Numbers

Over two-thirds of the total number of students expected to be in school next semester pre-enrolled, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

A total of 3,842 students received early class assignments during the three-week period in December. Another 2,600 students are expected to enroll at the regular enrollment period, January 30 and 31, said Gerritz. The sophomores had the most students pre-enrolling with 1,039, and 939 juniors received early class assignments. The freshmen and seniors had 901 and 828 pre-enrollees respectively, graduate students, 102; fifth year architect students, 17; and special students, 16.

The School of Arts and Sciences led the other schools with 1,566 pre-enrollees. The School of Engineering and Architecture followed with 1,049. Students in the School of Agriculture totaled 489; School of Home Economics, 387; School of Veterinary Medicine, 249; and Graduate School, 102.

Of the students who pre-enrolled 2,686 were men and 1,156 were women.

Students who pre-enrolled may pay fees and fill out housing cards January 13 through 24. Class cards of pre-enrollees who do not complete payment by the deadline will be replaced for other students' use. These pre-enrollees will then have to re-register during the regular enrollment period.

Minneapolis Moles Almost Bury Cats

By JAY WORKMAN
Collegian Sports Editor

K-State went into the lead with 2:25 left in the basketball game to squeak by Minnesota, 72-71, last night in Ahearn field house before 9,000 fans.

Guard Dan Matuszak hit a lay-up to give the Cats a 69-67 edge in the closing minutes. Matuszak hit 8 of his total 14 points in the final 6:56 of the rugged contest.

Bob Boozer was again high scorer for the Cats with 27 points. He also topped all rebounders with 18. Hayden Abbott had 12 points and 9 rebounds.

Ron Johnson 6-1 Gopher center, was the No. 1 Minnesota scorer with 28 points; he had 9 rebounds. George Kline, 6-4 forward, was second with 18 counts and 9 rebounds.

Minnesota hit 27 out of 66 for a 42.4 percentage from the field and K-State connected on 27 out of 84 for 32.1 percent.

This victory gives the Wildcats a 10-1 record before they go into Big Eight play against Nebraska here Saturday.

The second half was close most of the way, although Minnesota was in the lead by six points with 15:50 remaining, and by five points with only 6:15 to go in the tilt.

After Matuszak layed one up that put K-State ahead to stay, he was fouled by 6-3 guard Mike Wright and sank the free toss to make it 70-67. Then Cat guard Roy DeWitz fouled Roger Johnson with 1:04 to play; he made both of his one-and-one shots and the score stood at 70-69.

The Cats took the ball out of bounds and a long, down-court pass caught Abbott all alone for a layup to make it 72-69.

Goss, Mitchell Are Selected To Direct Spring Collegian

Sue Goss, TJ Sr, has been named editor of the Collegian for the spring semester by the Board of Student Publications. The board also selected Everette Mitchell, BA Sr, as business manager for the spring Collegian.

Miss Goss and Mitchell were chosen on the basis of applications submitted to Prof. Ralph R. Lashbrook, chairman of the Board of Student Publications.

"We used experience as the main standard for the selections," said Professor Lashbrook. "Both have worked on the Collegian staff before."

"Sue has been an excellent business manager. She has organized the staff well and has maintained the local advertising revenue. She has shown a great deal of energy and enthusiasm and the members of the board were impressed by her plans for editing the Collegian as contained in her application.

"I want to see the paper accurately reflect the campus scene," said Miss Goss. "I'll save any other comments for the first issue. From there on we'll let students judge for themselves how competent we are in printing campus news."

Miss Goss is the current business manager for the Collegian and has worked on the news staff of the Belleville Telescope.

Mitchell was business manager of last summer's Collegian and is assistant business manager this semester.

TAKING OVER NEXT SEMESTER to head the Collegian staff are Hal Mitchell, BA Jr, new business manager, and Sue Goss, TJ Sr, who will be editor. The two were selected from applicants by the Board of Student Publications.

KS Students Support Athletics, Deserve Better Consideration

WELCOME BACK. These words might have a slightly hollow ring with two weeks of the final grind coming up. Hope you received all you wanted for Christmas and here's wishing you all a three-point 1958.

Most Wildcat followers didn't get what they wanted so far as basketball was concerned. Wilt and the boys beat K-State in the finals of the Big Eight tournament but we've got two more chances at the cotton-pickers and it's doubtful that food poisoning will be high scorer for the Cats next time.

While we're on basketball, did you all get a seat in the Field House for the double-header the Saturday vacation started? There were approximately 14,000 (that's an official guess) people there to watch K-State, KU, Washington, and California play.

You and I both know there are only 12,500 seats in Ahearn.

A LOT OF STUDENTS stayed over to watch this cage spectacular, a lot more than the Athletic department had figured on, perhaps. A lot of people stood up through the entire twinbill, and we noticed some students among those on their feet.

Many of the students who didn't have to stand because there weren't enough seats, had to stand in order to see any of the game. There was almost a solid wall of fans from the edge of the court to the seats on the north and south ends of the court. Then came the order from the public address announcer to squeeze in toward the middle. What is this jazz. Most students were already sitting on three fourths of a seat and the rest were sitting in the aisles.

Now would be a good time to become indignant and demand a reserved student section so K-Staters would have a place to sit and yell for the school they're attending.

THE DOUBLEHEADER was perhaps unusual in that it programmed two games of the highest caliber and was bound to draw more than an average crowd.

But Kansas State is blessed with an unusual basketball outlook this season and chances are, there'll be a lot of games which draw above average crowds. It seems that when the Field House is packed with non students, K-Staters are the first to suffer.

Students support the ball club the entire season, not just when the big game rolls around. They should have first choice of the best seats in the house and these seats should be reserved for a reasonable time before the varsity game starts.

BUT HOW ARE WE going to make any money if half of the seats are saved for students you ask? The Athletic department received $5,000 more this year than last from the Apportionment board. So why should the students be penalized during one part of the year by being squeezed together in the Field House while the Athletic department tries to make up the deficiencies suffered during another part of a season?

Somebody just plain oversold the double-header and a lot of students had to stand as a result of the miscalculation.

The students are supporting the athletic program at Kansas State through Apportionment board money and they ought to be given more consideration than they're getting now.—Roger Myers

After a Fashion

Brush with Pipe Leads to True Effort at Being Dauntless, Bullfight Complete with Matadors, Picadors, Crocadors

By Jim Bell

A NEW PIPE can be of great aid to a fellow—take, for instance, a friend of mine who recently received one of the things for Christmas.

The pipe was a curvy, beautiful little thing that perfectly matched my friend's quaint handle-bar mustache and goatee. One of his dearest friends gave it to him, and he was always one to appreciate a gift from a dearest friend.

Of course, my friend was not a smoker, preferring Copenhagen or Double-Bubble to the filthier, smokier habit. He had quit smoking only the year before as the result of another Christmas present, a bottle of salve which was designed to help the errant smoker stop the nasty, nicotine habit. Of course, he hadn't been smoking before then, either.

BUT, MY FRIEND, as I pointed out, was certainly one to appreciate a Christmas present from a dearest friend. He carried the pipe with him everywhere, offering it to his friends to smoke if they would only furnish the tobacco. My friend furnished the light, but he reasoned, logically enough, that if the other fellows furnished their own favorite brand of tobacco, they would be much happier smoking his pipe. He always thought of his friends first. (He believed in the motto, "Friend first, County next, Me foremost!")

Things worked out fine for my friend until one day he offered his pipe to a fellow, and the fellow accepted. Only then did he learn that his was really a stove pipe and not a smoking pipe at all. Needless to say, he was disappointed. But he was rather a dauntless fellow, and he determined to be undaunted.

HE REASONED that in order to be undaunted and dauntless, he should work energetically upon some project. After a great deal of thought, he exclaimed, "Zounds!" for he had it!

What he had was the project upon which he proposed to work energetically to prove his dauntlessness, his being undaunted. The project my friend had was a somewhat unusual one—for he had selected a bullfight, complete with a multitude of black, red-eyed, beefy bulls and several slim, suave, flinty-eyed matadors.

In line with the project, the fellow had rented the local Coliseum, a massive stone structure which would seat upwards of 30,000. That's where the rub came—my friend became so engrossed in the project that he sold too dogbone far upwards of 30,000 tickets.

WELL THE BIG DAY came—the bulls were snorting, pawing, and practicing charges in their best fashion, and the matadors, picadors, and crocadors were practicing parrying, bowing, and running in their turn, as well. My friend, of course, claimed a prime seat for himself and sat back, counting his multitude of money, chuckling to himself, and waiting for blood to flow.

And the people came. And they came and came. Pretty soon they crowded the very bulls, matadors, picadors, and crocadors out of the arena. And then it happened.

The hue and cry went up, the crowd surged, and my poor ol' friend went the way of all poor ol' friends. Where they got the tar I'm not sure, but it was mighty sticky.

I GOT A POSTCARD from my friend the other day (it was postmarked, "Juneau, Alaska"), and it had tar smudges all over it. He got the feathers off, though.

Gophers Almost Bury Cats

with 41 seconds left to pull the Gophers back within one point. Abbott was fouled by Wright with 20-second remaining but his shot was short. Minnesota brought the ball down but lost it out of bounds and K-State, ranked third in the nation, had come up with another victory.

K-State got off to a good, hot start in the first half, leading 20-9 with 13:25 to go and 36-26 with 6:35 remaining. Minnesota closed in fast when the Cats hit a cold streak and the half time score was 44-43 K-State on top.

Boozier opened the scoring with eight seconds gone in the tilt on a shot from underneath the bucket. He was fouled by Ron Johnson and made the free shot.

Kline hit for Minnesota from the side to make it 3-2 with 18:40 left in the half. Cat center Jack Parr and Boozier hit hook shots before Ron Johnson swished a charity throw following Parr's foul. Parr came right back with a tipin to make it 9-3.

Then Roger Johnson hit a jumper but Parr was fouled by Kline and sank his shot. Ron Johnson then meshed a turn jump shot and it was 10-5. Kline hit a field goal from the side but it didn't counteract the Wildcat attack. DeWitz hit from outside to make the count 12-9. Parr got a tip shot and Abbott got a pair of layups. Matuszak hit a layup to make the score 20-9.

Kline then swished one from the side and Ron Johnson made a free throw after being fouled by Parr with 12:48 to go. Boozier hit a layup and was fouled by Ron Johnson and made the shot for a 23-12 score.

Then Kline hit two, a long jump shot and Ron Johnson sank a jumper before Matuszak put in three points on a setup and a foul by Rodberg.

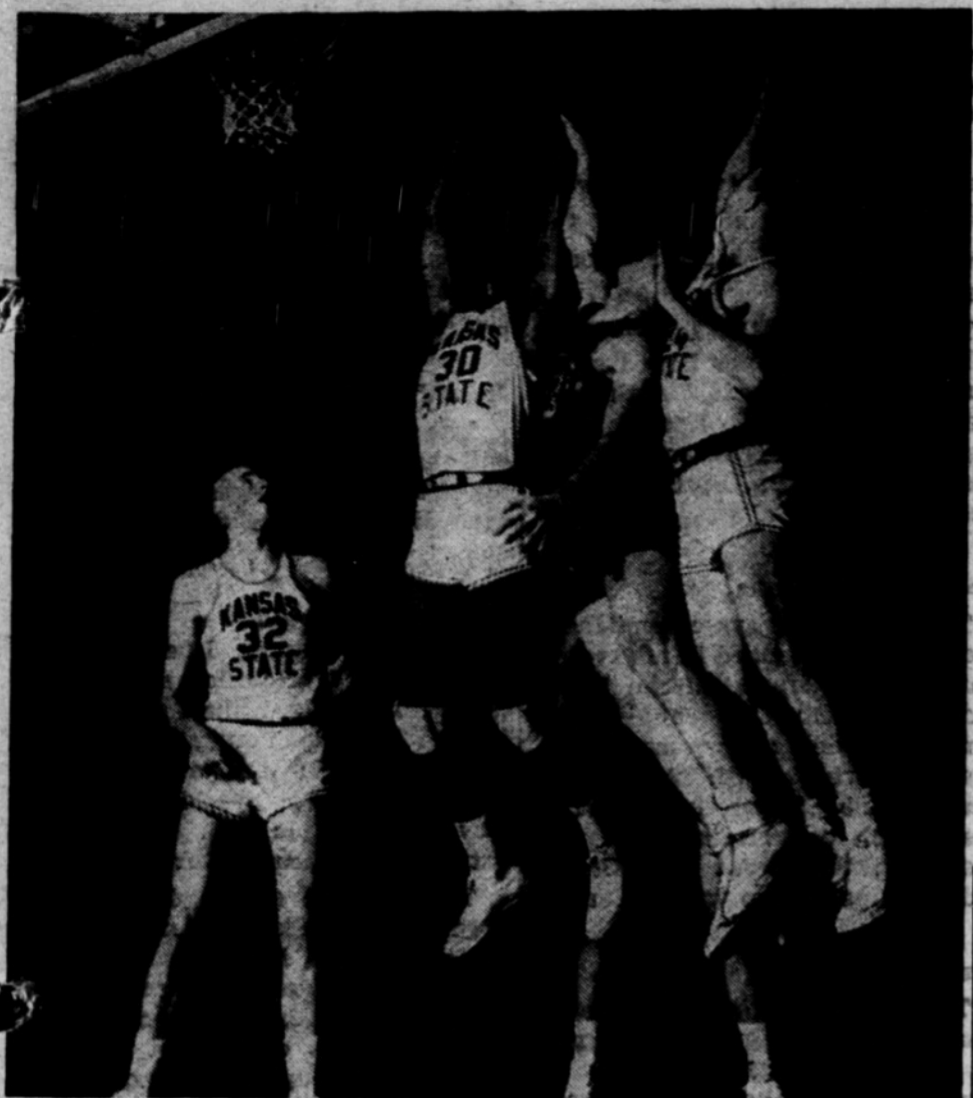

Kline scored two more on free shots after Parr fouled him and Hamilton hit from underneath to make it 22-26.

Outside Shooting Key To Future Wins—Tex

By ELDON MILLER

"I think we're ready to play basketball now, at least I hope so," said coach Tex Winter after K-State's narrow 73-72 victory over Minnesota last night.

"But I'm afraid we're going to have to really improve on our outside shooting for the rest of the way; Minnesota kept the inside plugged up on us which held our big men down, especially during most of the second half.

"The conference teams will probably start doing that to us also and right now we're weak from the outside.

"Our defense was what held us up throughout the ball game.

"Boozier's block of Kline's shot and Parr's block of Ron Johnson's attempt late in the game helped us a lot. Matuszak's late-game shooting gave us the boost we needed."

Winter credited Minnesota with having a fine team and especially complimented the play of captain George Kline, 6-4 senior forward, and Ron Johnson, 6-7 sophomore center.

KS Matmen Lose Twice In Big Eight

K-State's wrestlers dropped two matches to start the Big Eight conference competition for this year during Christmas vacation.

The Oklahoma university Sooners banged the Wildcats, 29-3, while the Oklahoma State Cowpokes blanked the Cats; 26-0.

The only K-Stater to gain victory on the road trip was Gary Haller in the 177-pound class against the Sooners. Oklahoma managed to wrestle to four falls and three decisions and walk away with the win.

The Cowboys shut out the Wildcats with one fall and the remaining matches by decisions.

K-State's next opponent is Minnesota in Ahearn gymnasium Friday.

The Wildcats next Big Eight opponent is Nebraska on February 1 with the conference tournament scheduled for the middle of March at Ames, Iowa.

Activities

Wampus Cats To Initiate

All male students are invited to attend the Wampus Cats meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in room 206 of the Union. The constitution of the club will be read and new members will be initiated into the group, according to Karl Johnson, Chm Soph, publicity chairman.

The club's main objective is to promote school spirit and good sportsmanship by helping with pep rallies, and increasing student enthusiasm at athletic events, Johnson said. Members sit in a reserved section at K-State basketball games.

scholastically high women from last year's freshman class, and the two holders of Mortar Board scholarships.

The program will include short talks by three Mortar Board members. Pat McDermott, BA Sr, will speak on leadership, Rachel Pickett, Soc Sr, on scholarship, and Mary Lu Compton, Sp Sr, on service.

Record Rendezvous

The Music Library committee is sponsoring a "Record Rendezvous" Thursday at 3 p.m. in the Union browsing library to acquaint students with the 22 new records purchased for the high fidelity record player. Bob Snyder, instructor in the Speech department, will give preview talks about several records. Refreshments will be served.

Jazz Concert

The Jazz club is sponsoring a jazz concert Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union main ballroom for Jazz club members and guests only. Members of Matt Betton's band will perform at the two hour concert. Refreshments will be served to those attending.

Jr. AVMA Auxiliary

The January meeting of the Jr. AVMA Auxiliary will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Umberger hall, room 11, according to Rosemary Sherman, publicity chairman.

Mrs. Lee Roderick, wife of Dr. Roderick of the Pathology department, will be the guest speaker.

Jr. AVMA

The members of the Jr. AVMA will have election of officers tonight at 7:30 in Dykstra hospital, according to John Gibson, president.

Young Democrats

Governor George Docking will deliver a major policy speech on education at a dinner sponsored by the K-State Young Democrats Monday at 6:30 p.m., according to Anita Grimm, president. The Governor's topic will be, "Education and Kansas Government."

The purpose of the dinner, according to Miss Grimm, "is to foster interest in two-party state government and to inform the voters and potential voters of the pros and cons of current legislative issues in regard to education."

The dinner is open to the public, but faculty members and students are especially urged to attend, she said. Tickets to the dinner may be purchased for $2 a plate, on the first floor of the K-State Union, or those interested may arrange for a ticket salesman to come to their homes by calling PR-83624 after 4 p.m.

Wedding Bells Ring for Ollie

Ollie White, Union Program director, and Dorothy Brandes, Piedmont, Calif., were married December 29 at St. John's Episcopal church in Piedmont. Mrs. White is a 1957 graduate of the University of California where she was a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. She was employed in Oakland, Calif., prior to the marriage.

KS Post Office Gets Facelifting

Remodeling of the College post office was begun during the holiday vacation and is to be completed soon, according to Kay Nordstrom, HT Soph, and Max Bishop, ArE Soph, co-chairmen of the Post Office Box committee.

All post office boxes are being placed along the east wall of the post office which is located in Anderson hall. Boxes were formerly placed along the east and north walls of the post office. Students and faculty members may now place unstamped mail into any individual post office box.

A post office box has been assigned to every organized living group. Other students, not contacted through such groups, will be reached by United States mail. The new post office system will provide a simplified way for College departments to reach the maximum number of students at the minimum expense for postage, according to Miss Nordstrom and Bishop.

The Post Office Box committee recently recommended to the Student Council that the possibility of having College departmental mail delivered by a mail man be investigated. The committee also recommended that the College post office be changed to a United States post office.

Sticklers!

WHAT IS A MARCHING BAND THAT NEVER GETS A LUCKY BREAK?
(SEE PARAGRAPH BELOW)

MEMO TO MAESTROS: is your band dawdling instead of tootling? Is it full of feeble fifers and drooping drummers? Well, this musical slowdown may be traceable to lack of Luckies. Better give your band a break—and make it a Lucky one! A Lucky, you see, is a light smoke—the right smoke for everyone. It's all cigarette—all naturally light, wonderfully good-tasting tobacco. And Luckies' fine tobacco is toasted to taste even better. Now then, what's a marching band that never gets a Lucky break? Why, it's a Sore Corps! (Wasn't that cymbal?)

STUCK FOR DOUGH?

START STICKLING! MAKE $25

We'll pay $25 for every Stickler we print—and for hundreds more that never get used! So start Stickling—they're so easy you can think of dozens in seconds! Sticklers are simple riddles with two-word rhyming answers. Both words must have the same number of syllables. (Don't do drawings.) McCain Much Improved After Minor Operation

President James A. McCain underwent minor surgery at Riley county hospital last Friday morning and is expected to be hospitalized at least ten more days, according to the President's wife.

Mrs. McCain said the President was much improved and that he was eager to get back to his office.

President McCain entered the hospital Thursday morning.

Religious Week Theme Chosen

"Religion and Literature" will be the theme of this year's Religious Emphasis week February 16 through 21 at K-State. It is the first of a series on religion and life.

The program will begin on Sunday, February 16, at 7:30 with a talk by Pres. James A. McCain and introduction of the week's speakers. An informal reception and coffee hour will follow in the K-State Union.

Monday's program will include an assembly Monday, at which Sister Mary Madeleva will speak, followed by a seminar at 10:30. Monday through Friday at 3 p.m. Cecil Hinshaw will lead a seminar on "Racial Tolerance vs. Brotherhood." At 4 p.m. there will be a series on the books of the New Testament by five protestant pastors.

The evening program will include a seminar on Mormon and Jewish Literature on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evening at 7. At 8 Monday through Thursday, there will be a religious literature series.

Panhandling Made Simple By Original Union Hound

By DIXIE BROWN

Brandy The Moocher has the soulful brown eyes that make his panhandling for doughnuts in the Union every morning a success. The counter girls behind the snack bar never fail to give the Phi Delta mascot a couple of the delicious doughnuts which he hurries outside to eat.

This large brown boxer dog doesn't waste much time out there but immediately dashes back into the State room to begin his round of the tables, shaking hands and "talking" with all his friends. When threatened to be thrown out by the management he runs and hides under some football player's table. They protect their self-appointed rooter who attends all the practices and games.

Evading forceful eviction, he usually leaves the Union of his own accord to attend any class that might have an open door. Discovering a Phi Delta in the room, Brandy "sacks out" by his chair and waits to go home with the boy at noon.

Lunch is a hasty one (as most college people's are) and Brandy leaves for the campus on schedule at one o'clock.

Never happy unless he's in a crowd of people, Brandy was brought to this collegiate environment when he was three months old by Ed John, VM Jr, and president of Phi Delta Theta. The pedigree boxer was given to the chapter by a Kansas City alum after a bit of persuasive argument by Ed, who trimmed the pup's ears, bobbed his tail, inoculated him with the proper shots, and brought him to K-State.

TRAFFIC HAZARD—Trying to keep out of everybody's way, big brown Brandy sometimes finds himself lying in places like the Union coffee line. People step around him, and Brandy continues spending his time like a student who has just completed his last exam.

Friday Is Deadline For Traffic Debts

Students who have received more than one parking ticket must have their fines paid by Friday noon in order to complete enrollment, graduate, or transfer records, according to Roger Ward, traffic and security officer.

A list of all students who do not meet the Friday deadline will be sent to the Registrar's office where students' class cards will be pulled. These persons must complete fine payment in the traffic office, room 118 of Anderson hall, before they will be allowed to pre-enroll, Ward said.

It isn't necessary for students, faculty, or staff members to secure new parking permits or registration decals when their 1958 licenses are obtained, according to an announcement made by E. S. Bagley, chairman of the Traffic Control board.

Acquisition or change of vehicle does require re-registration promptly, he said. All vehicles operated by students, whether parked on campus or not, must be registered and identified by a registration decal, he stressed.

Yesterday 110 students still owed fines totaling about $500 for breaking traffic rules put into effect this year. One person owes a high of $62 while another owes $60.

Under the new fine system, the first ticket is a warning; the second costs $2; a third, $4; fourth, $8; and each ticket over four carries a $16 fine.

Little Royal Committees Are Picked

The 30th annual Little American Royal planned for March 29, will be in the Animal Industries building arena this year. The event co-sponsored by the Block and Bridle and Dairy clubs, has previously been held in the Field House.

The executive council of the Little American Royal has announced these committees: Properties, Ron Schultz, AH Jr, and Gene Allen, DM Jr; decorations, Bryan Barr, AH Jr, Dwight Glenn, DM Jr, and Allan Henry, AH Sr; program book, Chester Peterson, DH Jr, and Ben Brent, AH Jr; circulations, Janver Krehbiel, DM Sr, and Janice Gaddis, AH Jr.

KS January Graduates To Number 420

Names of 420 candidates for degrees at January commencement exercises for K-State have been announced by E. M. Geritz, director of admissions and registrar.

An Editorial

Pub Board Screens Publications Wheels; Should SC Be Accorded Like Privilege?

THE STUDENT COUNCIL ACTION of revising downward the number of campus organization officers whose scholastic eligibility can be checked and held against them points up a few more faults in the present SGA setup. One fault is that Student Council can't and doesn't know what qualifications are needed for specific jobs.

Despite the cut, the list still includes "editors and business managers of the staffs of general publications who are appointed by the Board of Student Publications."

The Board of Student Publications makes the actual appointments of editors and business managers of the Royal Purple and the Collegian. This board makes all the checks necessary, including a scholastic review.

THIS SCHOLASTIC ELIGIBILITY check is a review of the grades of people appointed or elected to head campus organizations.

It takes a lot more than a one-point average to run either of the two publications mentioned and a semester's grade-point average is the only criteria on which the Scholastic Eligibility committee bases its recommendation that a publications head be fired.

A few cases in point might serve to show how far off base the Student Council is in trying to make scholastic capability the prime requisite.

A 1957 journalism graduate we know had a tough time making enough grade points to get a sheepskin. He's writing a column and heads the reporting staff of a Kansas daily of 55,000 circulation.

Two other journalists were forced to leave Kansas State because of grade troubles—they're both sports editors of state dailies.

TO ILLUSTRATE HOW ridiculous it is to check the grades in the first place, a few more cases. Of the last four editors of the Collegian, excluding the present editor, one is now working for International Business Machines, one was a member of Blue Key, and another was granted an assistantship to work on a masters degree at a Big Ten school. The editors of the Kansas State Ag Student and the K-State Engineer are selected by their school councils and grade checks are made at that level.

In fact, the list was pared because of the duplication and overlap involved. So here are two reasons for the Student Council to keep its fingers out of the publications business. It doesn't know enough about the publications involved to recommend removal of an editor on the basis of grades alone; and it's only duplicating the work already done by groups with a more intimate knowledge of what qualifications are needed. The Student Council hasn't any business horsing around with a $62,000 undertaking.

THIS EDITOR AND THE NEXT Collegian head could have passed the check with no trouble. But the fact remains that a group of misinformed quasi politicians can demand the resignation of people capable of editing publications which have won all-American ratings, in one case, for 22 straight years, and in another, for four straight semesters.

Chances are, the Council would be able to do a better job if it wiped its own nose first before waving a handkerchief in front of people who produce.—Roger Myers

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

While passing out roses to the basketball team for their victory over Washington, a large wreath should be sent to the Athletic department. After long study, we're sure, they decided to sell some 2,000 general admission tickets for the doubleheader on December 21. This left, by our personal count, 2,275 seats for students not counting the Pep club, which was not organized for these games.

This meant that about one of every three students, if everyone attended, should have been able to get a seat. Many of the students and general admission people who came late (6:15) to the game, had to sit in the aisles or stand, and others sitting were unable to see. As for the so-called aisle, in case of emergency they looked more like students to us.

One group of business people from Western Kansas bought tickets for 20 employees, but the roads were bad and the people were late arriving—the announcer had already told the masses standing to move to the balcony. When the employees arrived, they almost couldn't find their seats, and when they did find them, officials couldn't get some of the general admission buyers to move—so the reserved seat ticket holders were forced to stand throughout the game—and to return home singing the praises of Kansas State.

The ticket manager had already earlier refused to sell a guest ticket to a student, and in fact, inferred that because the game was during an official vacation, the Athletic department was being generous to even honor activity tickets.

We feel that the Athletic department and the Student Council owe the students a plan which would minimize the possibility of a re-occurrence of this situation. By looking around at some of the neighboring schools, we see the problem has been satisfactorily solved—so it must be possible to do so. Let's have something concrete this year instead of evasive promises.

Missile Chief To Testify On U.S. Space Needs

Compiled from United Press
By PAT ROBERTS

Washington—Senate investigators hoping to keep him from quitting as Army missile chief summoned Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin to testify again today on the nation's urgent needs in the space weapons race with Russia.

Gavin, fighting for freedom to criticize the defense effort, was expected to be asked in a closed session of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee about his demands for a big increase in Army funds.

The 50-year-old general said he wants more money both for his missile research and development command and to boost the Army to 28 divisions, almost twice present size.

In other defense developments:

—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson, Preparedness chairman, declared "50,000 airplanes produced a year before Pearl Harbor saved our necks . . . a thousand missiles produced in the coming year may save our lives."

—Chairman Melvyn Price (D-Ill.) of the Congressional Atomic Energy Research and Development subcommittee charged "senseless" Navy-Air Force rivalry may allow Russia to win the race to put an atom-powered airplane into flight. He urged giving the Air Force a green light without waiting for a Navy study.

—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy appeared before the House Military Appropriations subcommittee to explain President Eisenhower's $1,260,000,000 (B) emergency fund request for missiles and space research. Subcommittee Chairman George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), emphasizing the urgency of the request, said the House would get the money bill in 10 days to two weeks.

—Sounding a possible keynote for President Eisenhower's state of the union message tomorrow, Presidential Science Adviser Dr. James R. Killian said Russia may surpass the United States in technology in a few years unless this country steps up its efforts.

—Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker urged Gavin to stay on as missile chief. Brucker disclosed he had all but promised Gavin promotion to full four-star general to remain in the Army.

Senate Democratic Leader Johnson indicated Gavin was unhappy because he thought he had been abruptly removed from consideration for the job of U.S. Continental Army Commander (CON-ARC) after testifying he thought the Joint Chiefs of Staff should be revamped.

Gavin told the United Press yesterday the question of his promotion was not involved in his announced decision to quit so he would be free to "write and talk" about U.S. defense needs.

But he said an increase in the Army's budget this year might influence his decision on whether to remain in the Army.

The Army's current budget is about nine billion dollars. Gavin's increases would cost five to eight billion dollars a year extra, officials disclosed.

Ben-Gurion Back in Jerusalem, Israel—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, who resigned last Tuesday in a quarrel with members of his five-party coalition, today took charge of a new government made up of the same widely divergent parties.

Ben-Gurion won approval of his new cabinet by a 77-33 vote in parliament last night. But he failed to win full support from his coalition's two leftist members, the Ahdut Avoda and Mapam parties.

The opposition of these two parties led to the resignation of his previous government. They made public Ben-Gurion's secret plan to send an emissary to West Germany to negotiate arms purchases.

Mapam spokesman Jacob Hazan said his party would stay in the new coalition only so long as the Prime Minister refrained from trying to carry out in secret foreign policy moves which Mapam opposed.

Atlas Missile Ready

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—Scientists began step-by-step preparations before dawn today for a fourth test firing of the Atlas intercontinental missile. They hoped to get it into the air about 11 a.m. CST.

The weather cleared after rain and high winds yesterday had threatened to delay the launching.

The Atlas, about 90 feet long and weighing some 100 tons, has been fired three times previously, but exploded a few thousand feet in the air the first two times. It flew successfully in December for the first time.

The missile is made by the Convair division of General Dynamics corporation and is powered by two booster engines of 135,000 pounds thrust and one engine of 150,000 pounds thrust. Although the missile drops the "booster" engines high in the sky, it is considered a single-stage missile since all of its engines are running before it leaves the launching pad.

Only the two smaller engines were expected to be used in today's test because technicians were not believed ready to attempt to fly the huge bird over its full 5,500-mile maximum range. When it flew in December, the two engines carried the Atlas about 600 miles and scientists were not expected to try for much more distance today.

Since each missile fired from this test center is put through progressively tougher tests, however, it was almost certain the Atlas was geared to test new components today.

KSC Student Promoters Needed for High Schools

K-State students will participate in the second high school visitation program between semesters, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

Students who will be in their home towns during the vacation period January 24 to February 3 and who are interested in participating in this program should sign one of the lists posted in the organized houses or at the Registrar's office.

A meeting has been planned for next Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the Union little theatre for those who want to sign up.

"College students are the most effective means we have of interpreting college to high school students. Their opinions and ideas are respected by the prospective college students," Gerritz said.

"We had a good response last year and as a result many high school principals scheduled their former students to come to their schools when they attended the freshman-principal conference."

Fee Payments Start Monday

Students who pre-enrolled can pay their fees and fill out housing cards for second semester beginning next Monday. Fees are to be paid at the Cashier's office in Anderson hall during the period 9 a.m. Monday, January 13, through 4 p.m. Friday, January 24.

Payment of fees and filling out the housing card completes enrollment. Those who fail to complete fee payments before the deadline must reregister during the regular enrollment period January 30 and 31.

Home Ec Days Are Set For January 28 and 29

Latest information on all phases of home economics will be presented to Kansas homemakers during K-State Home Economics days, January 28 and 29, according to Mae Baird, state home economics leader.

This is one of the events planned to take the place of the Farm and Home week formerly held on the K-State campus.

There will be classes and assembly programs, with the annual meeting of the Kansas Home Demonstration Council, the organization of home demonstration unit members in the state, scheduled both afternoons.

Cager Wally Frank Is 'Sixth Starter'

By DAN KERSHAW
"Sixth starter" in a five-man sport. This little piece of irony is the only factor keeping 6-8 sophomore forward Wally Frank from a starting berth on K-State's third-ranked cage team.

Termed "my sixth regular" by Head Coach Tex Winter, Wally is keeping the "sophomore star" tradition going at K-State. Both Helms all-American 6-9 center Jack Parr and 6-8 all-conference forward Bob Boozer made the all-Big Seven teams as sophomores.

His first big varsity splash came in K-State's 79-73 win over Purdue. Wally scored 18 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to be high in that department. Seventy-one per cent accuracy from the free throw line and 23 rebounds make him Winter's top reserve.

Reason for the optimistic outlook about Wally is his 10 points-a-game scoring average through the first five Wildcat games this season.

"He's cut from the same pattern as Parr and Boozer. He's potentially all-American stuff," Winter said. "I consider him a starter and he'll probably see as much action as any of the other five regulars before the season's over," Winter said. "Wally's experienced enough now, but we just don't have room for him on that first five."

"His best place right now is on the bench where he can go in and relieve a starter if one is having a bad night. Wally can pick things up immediately," the Cat coach said.

"Wally is versatile. Should a guard be cold or get hurt, we can switch a forward to the back line and put Wally in at forward," Winter said.

The big sophomore prefers the forward slot. "Playing forward gives me a chance to handle the ball more and get more shots. Having Parr and Boozer makes things easier on a forward too."

Wally played center four years at Norton high school and did some post work against Indiana and Purdue so he could spell either Parr or Boozer at center if the need arose.

In high school Wally won eight letters—four each in basketball and track. He was second team all-state his junior year at Norton.

He had a 21-point average as a junior and a 25-point-a-game mark his senior year.

A hard worker at developing his talent, Wally stayed in Manhattan last summer and worked out twice a week in the field-house gymnasium.

"My only problem now is on defense," Wally said. "It takes a lot of work."

Wally's decision to come to K-State was an easy one. "I was always a K-State fan and I guess in the back of my mind I knew I'd come here. K-State has good basketball and real good coaching." Wally lives at the home of former K-State all-American Ernie Barrett.

"I think we'll win the Big Eight," he said. "Of course, KU will be tough but we can beat them."

"We haven't played up to our capabilities yet. Boozer has looked real good and Parr should be getting more points."

Press Polls Place Cats In Top Five

K-State's Wildcats, losing their first game of the season last week, dropped slightly in this week's national basketball rankings.

International News Service placed the Cats in third place, the Associated Press put them in fourth, and the United Press has them in fifth. West Virginia was named number one by all three polls.

Last week K-State ranked second in the INS and third in both the AP and UP.

The Wildcats lost to Kansas university, 79-65, in the finals of the Big Eight pre-season tournament but came back to edge Minnesota, 73-72, Monday.

Two other top conference teams have not fared so well since the tournament.

Iowa State was upset by Montana State, 62-61, and dropped out of the nation's top twenty.

Cardinals Sign Mizzou Athlete; Coach Gripes

Missouri university baseball coach John (Hi) Simmons yesterday charged the major leagues were "greedy" and were mainly responsible for the downfall of the minors.

"The majors don't own the colleges," Simmons said, "so they don't give any cooperation with them. They have television and Sunday baseball and are just out for themselves."

Simmons was commenting on the St. Louis Cardinals' signing of Missouri star athlete Charley James to a $15,000 bonus contract Monday.

James, halfback on the Missouri football team and a .300 hitting outfielder, said when he was signed he planned to complete his schooling toward an electrical engineering degree.

But Simmons charged that "three out four boys" the majors grab from colleges say they are going to continue their education "but three out of four don't".

Iowa State's Myers Is Probable Coach For Texas Aggies

By UNITED PRESS

Jim Myers, 35-year-old head coach at Iowa State, apparently has clinched the dual job of head coach and athletic director at Texas A&M.

But college officials, still stinging from rejections of Hugh Daugherty of Michigan State and former Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy, left the way open for anything by saying no announcement would be made until next Monday.

Texas A&M President Dr. M. T. Harrington, said last night after a conference with Myers that the Board of Directors would be advised of their conversation at a called meeting, probably next Monday, and that any announcement would be made by that group.

This left the way open for A&M to go ahead and approve Myers, or to meet with other coaches, or to simply avoid the adverse publicity they received from the "turndowns" given them by Daugherty and Leahy should the deal fall through.

Myers' team last season made a deep impression on rival coaches in his first head coaching year although it lost more than it won.

IM Cage Play Resumes Today

Intramural basketball will resume play tonight as six group winners of the independent division begin competition for the division championship.

Three games will be played in the gym tonight with the Hillbillies meeting the Rebels on the west court, Westminster Foundation facing YMCA on the center court and the Hobos battling the House of Williams on the east court. West Stadium has a bye.

All of these games start at 7 p.m.

On Friday the semi-finals of the independent division and the fraternity division will be played.

The winners of the Hillbillies vs Rebels game and the Westminster Foundation vs YMCA game will meet. The winner of the Hobos vs House of Williams game will face West Stadium at 8 p.m. on the east court in independent action.

In the fraternity division Sigma Phi Epsilon meets Beta Theta Pi at 7 p.m. on the west court. Delta Tau Delta faces Kappa Sigma at 8 p.m. on the west court.

The finals of both divisions will be played Monday in the field house. The independent game will start at 7 p.m. while the fraternity championship game will begin at 8 p.m.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

Phog Sez

We sat right in front of Phog Allen during the tournament at Kansas City. He said, "Wilt paralyzes opponents because they fear to shoot close in shoots—it looks as if he can reach to the ceiling. The fur will really be flying when K-State and KU meet in conference play—if Parr is playing well K-State could win."

After the Jayhawk's loses to Oklahoma State and Oklahoma, it looks as if KU is going to have trouble winning any games at all as long as the Stilt is diseased. He'll probably be back for KU's game with Colorado Saturday, though.

Assists and Rebounds

The trend in reporting basketball games is to give top billing to high scorers at the expense of players who may be more important to their teams. Of course points win the game, but passes that lead to baskets are just as important as the shot.

The box score, which is supposed to present, statistically, a picture of the game, is often misleading.

In the following example at the left, all the emphasis is on scoring, and Kerr, with seven field goals and four free three throws for 18 points, appears to be the most valuable man on the team. On the right is another box score of the same game, giving a more accurate picture. The A is for assists. The R is for offensive and defensive rebounds. The E is for errors.

	G-GA	F-FA	PF	TP		TP	A	R	E	PF
Dodrill	2-5	3-4	2	7	Dodrill	7	11	6	1	2
Essex	4-9	2-5	1	10	Essex	10	2	1	2	1
Kerr	7-16	4-8	3	18	Kerr	18	3	4	6	3
Hagger	6-14	1-2	2	13	Hagger	13	2	5	3	2
Miltone	6-9	0-0	1	12	Miltone	12	6	9	1	1

In the second summing up, both Dodrill and Milton are shown to have been more valuable than Kerr. Both have fewer errors and more rebounds, and Dodrill is in the lead in the key category of assists.

Using the figure that many coaches use as representing the value of possession of the ball—1.4—and adding for rebounds and subtracting for errors, Kerr turns out to be worth 17.2 points while Dodrill is worth 25.

This type of box score would put the choosing of Most Valuable Players on a more logical basis and give fans a sounder appreciation of the sport.

We plan to add a rebound column to the box score in the Collegian for all home games—we won't have the figures on the games we don't attend. The Collegian will continue to have the goal-goals attempted and the free throw-free throws attempted columns in the statistics. Assists would be difficult to tally because it would depend entirely on the judgment of the statistician.

Staters Good Sports

It is hard to referee a game, and a concentrated effort is being made in the Big Eight for improvement of the fan's attitude. K-State is one of the best (not that it can't be improved) and should get fair treatment at out of town games.

Jayhawks Drop Another, OU Grabs 64-62 Victory

Kansas university lost its second game in a row last night, dropping a 64-63 decision to the Oklahoma Sooners, for an 11-2 season's mark.

The KU defeat in its opening conference tilt gave a solid boost to K-State's expectations of a loop crown. K-State has a record of 10-1 so far this season.

It was all tied up down at Norman with a little over a minute to play, 62-62, when OU went into a freeze. Guard Gene Hudson dribbled into the corner with eight seconds remaining and swished a one-hander to put the Sooners on top, 64-62.

The Hawks threw in to Bob Billings who took a desperation shot as the gun sounded. The shot missed but he was fouled.

Billings' first shot was no good and KU had lost. He made his second free throw for the final 64-63 score.

Oklahoma led most of the first half but KU came back and had a five-point lead once in the second period. OU was ahead with about three minutes to play and went into a stall.

Kansas' Ron oLneski was high point man with 25 points. Billings had 9 and Jim Hoffman 11.

Bob Stoermer and Bill Hammond had 13 for the Sooners while Hudson made 12 and Joe King 11. This gives OU an 8-2 mark for the season.

Wilt Chamberlain's groin injury is supposed to be minor but it has his Kansas teammates hurtin' all over today for the second time in a week.

Once again, a defeat demonstrated graphically just how much Chamberlain does mean to Kansas.

The figures tell the story. Wilt scored 30 points when Kansas beat Oklahoma State, 63-56, December 2. Without Wilt, Kansas bowed to the same team by two points January 2. And, on December 26 Chamberlain poured in 41 points and grabbed 20 rebounds as Kansas whipped Oklahoma, 68-50.

"Magnificent Obsession" is the movie scheduled to be shown Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings in the Union little theater. Stars are Rock Hudson and Jane Wyman. The film begins at 7:30 p.m. Single admission is 25 cents. A short, "Boundary Lines," will also be shown.

Cinema 16 Movie

The English movie, "David Copperfield," will be shown Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union little theater in the Cinema 16 series. The film is a version of Charles Dickens' classical novel. Single admission is 60 cents. Season tickets will be sold also. The price is $3 for students and $4 for all non students.

Order of the Artus

Newly-elected officers of Order of the Artus, honorary economics society, are Warren Keegan, Ec Sr, president; Grant Broilier, Ec Gr, vice president; Clifford Beck, Ec Gr, secretary; Whitney Hicks, Ec Gr, treasurer; and Dr. Wallace B. Nelson, faculty adviser.

The society, recently organized on the K-State campus, is open to college students with twelve or more hours in economics.

Architect Design Award

Don E. Anderson, Ar 05, has been selected the winner of the cover design competition of the Kansas Architect, official publication of the Kansas chapter of the American Institute of Architects. He received a $25 award.

Anderson's design won top honors from among covers entered by students in K-State architectural design classes. His design was then selected for the magazine over the winning Kansas university entry. R. A. Scrogin, Ar 04, placed second in the K-State competition.

ASCE

Officers for second semester will be elected at a meeting of the student section of the American Society of Civil Engineers at 4 p.m. tomorrow in Seaton hall, Room 219, according to George Bemis, CE Sr, program chairman.

Cosmopolitan Club

Committees will be set up for the Feast of Nations, annual dinner sponsored by the Cosmopolitan club, at a meeting of the club tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Room 207 of the Union.

Union Records

The Union has purchased 22 new records for the high fidelity record player in the Union browsing library. Eighteen of the new records have been received and four will be sent at a later date.

The new selections now available are "The King and I;" "Around the World in Eighty Days;" "My Fair Lady;" "The Student Prince;" "Music of the Masters," performed by Roger Williams; "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor," by Beethoven; "Symphony No. 35," by Mozart; "Tannhauser," by Wagner.

"Madame Butterfly;" "La Boheme;" "1812 Overture," by Tchaikovsky; Chopin, performed by Lavant; Chopin Polonaises, performed by Rubenstein; "Symphony No. 1 in G Minor," by Brahms; Jazz Goes to Junior College, performed by Dave Brubeck; Town Hall Concert, performed by Louis Armstrong; Modern Jazz Quartet selections; and Jazz Goes to College, performed by Dave Brubeck.

Gamblers Hosts to ADP's

SIGMA NU "GAMBLER" Robert Stoughton deals to Donna Webb and David Cogdill in a game of poker at a Monte Carlo party in the Sigma Nu house. Looking on are Barbara Anderson and Bob Bestgen. Members of Alpha Delta Pi were entertained last night by Sigma Nus dressed as gamblers. Costumes were complete with cigars, vests, bow ties, and cowboy hats. Myron (Zeke) Zeller was master of ceremonies and the Sigma Nu basement was decorated as "Zeke's Gambling house." Tables were set for stud poker, blackjack, and five card draw. Apple cider and homemade cookies were served. Diane Mellor and Stan Smith won the most money (fake—$6,732), and Miss Mellor was awarded a stuffed animal. The party was planned by Steve McCarl, Sigma Nu social chairman.

Garzio, K-State Artist To Show, World Fair

Angelo C. Garzio, member of K-State's home economics art department, will exhibit two ceramic pieces with the industrial arts and crafts section in the United States pavilion at the Brussels, Belgium, world fair.

His two pieces, a large stoneware bowl and a tall covered stoneware jar, will be among fewer than 100 ceramic pieces which are being exhibited by invitation of the U.S. State Department and the American Craftsman council.

Garzio credits receiving this invitation partially to his recent winning of an honor mention and a purchase award on a large 22 inch stoneware bowl entered in the Fiber-Clay-Metal National Craft Show of 1957 at St. Paul, Minn. At this show, one of the three large craft shows in America, only 12 per cent of the entries sent in were accepted, and only 12 prizes were awarded in all three media. This show is now on tour of schools and museums throughout the Northeast.

Among other recognition his work has received are a first purchase award in ceramics at the Springfield, Mo., eight-state art exhibition; two first purchase awards at the Iowa Artists exhibitions in Des Moines; exhibition in the Wichita Decorative Arts and Ceramics exhibition, the Coral Gables, Fla., National Ceramics show, and the Syracuse Ceramic National show.

Garzio returned to the United States this summer after having spent nine months working for the Arabian Pottery company in Helsinki, Finland. He was the first American to have a one-man exhibition in the Arabia show room.

The bowl winning the first purchase award in St. Paul and the one which will be exhibited in Brussels were on display in the K-State Union earlier this fall. The jar which will be exhibited is a recent creation.

Campus Radio Addict Finds 'Ham' Operating Interesting

"Amateur radio is a hobby that seems to overtake you," says Bill Bidwell, TJ Jr from El Dorado, who has been overtaken since 1951. During the six years that he has operated a ham "rig," the slang word for his equipment, Bill has contacted fellow o.m. in all the 48 states and 25 foreign countries. Incidentally, if you're still puzzling over o.m., it is the trade term for the individual you are contacting and stands for old man. Unless, of course, the o.m. is a y.l. (young lady or an x.y.l. (married woman).

Although it is just a hobby, it can run into money for the avid amateur. It is possible to start with only $50-$100 of equipment and a novice license. The license is obtained from the American Radio Relay League in Hartford, Conn., by passing a 25-word test and proving your ability to transmit at least five words a minute in International Morse code, the usual means of communication.

So, fix up some "home brew" (home-made set), send out a "CQ" (general call for anyone who hears), and join the ranks of the ham.

"In a growing industry, there's room for me to grow"

"Here at General Electric," says Penn R. Post, 24-year-old marketing trainee, "you hear a lot of talk about the future—even as far ahead as 1978. In fact, I've discovered that planning ahead for America's needs 10 and 20 years from now is characteristic of the electrical industry. And, what's important to me, General Electric's long-range planning takes my future into account. I'm now on my fourth assignment in the Company's Technical Marketing Program—all planned steps in my development.

"I'm pretty confident about the electrical future, too. For one thing, America's use of electricity has been doubling every ten years. And it will increase even faster as our population grows another 65 million by 1978—and as research and development lead to new electrical products that help people live better. The way I look at it, the technical, manufacturing and marketing resources of large companies like General Electric are important factors in the growth of the electrical industry. And in a growing industry, there's room for me to grow."

Young people like Penn Post are an important part of General Electric's plans to meet the opportunities and challenges of the electrical future. Each of our 29,000 college-graduate employees is given opportunities for training and a climate for self-development that help him to achieve his fullest capabilities. For General Electric believes that the progress of any industry—and of the nation—depends on the progress of the people in it.
